POLICE TO FACE DISCIPLINING FOR POOR REPORTS, COURT ABSENCES

31 Officers Ordered Recently to Explain Handling of Complaints, and 23 Why They Did Not Appear.

Police department officials have adopted a stern policy toward policemen who make inaccurate reports and who fail to appear in court on schedule, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Officers found guilty of such infractions in the future can expect disciplinary action ranging from a reprimand to the loss of time off and pay, it was learned. Reports of disciplinary actions will become part of the record of each policeman found guilty.

In recent weeks, 31 policemen have been directed to make formal explanations of their handling of specific reports. Twenty-three others have been ordered to explain why they were not present in police court on cases in which they were involved, the Post-Dispatch was told.

One Officer Suspended.

One policeman, Probationary Patrolman John McGuire, was suspended indefinitely last Tuesday as a result of a report he made. Sent to investigate a reported attempted burglary of an apartment, McGuire found that a doorknob had been damaged. He reclassified the complaint in his report, downgrading it from attempted burglary to destruction of property.

McGuire was suspended when he refused to accept disciplining without a hearing before the Board of Police Commissioners.

Many of the men of whom explanations have been demanded are expected to be exonerated. Others, however, are certain to be disciplined, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Investigation of the accuracy of reports has been undertaken by the Governmental Research Institute in co-operation with the staff of Police Inspector James F. Thompson. They check reports by interviewing the complainants.

In the past, when similar investigations showed that an officer failed to make a proper report, the officer was cautioned about his work, but no formal action was taken and his record was not marred.

Stressed for Last 5 Years.

Asked about the new policy, H. Sam Priest, president of the Police Board, said the necessity for honest reporting has been stressed repeatedly in the last five years. Despite the emphasis, he said, inaccurate reports still are made. Disciplining offenders appears to be the only way of insuring accurate reporting, Priest said.

Most of the reports questioned thus far involve reclassifying and downgrading complaints. In several cases, officers reported that a complaint was unfounded. Many cases involve reported attempted burglaries that were changed by the investigating officers to destruction of property. Most of the cases involve minor offenses.

In some instances, supervisors have been asked to explain why they handled a report as they did.

Explanations of Absence.

Concerning court appearances, most of the 23 officers questioned have made formal replies to their commanding officers. Some of the accused policemen denied they were absent from court. Some told of being unavoidably delayed by automobile trouble or other matters beyond their control.

No announcement has been made of the disposition of any of the 54 cases now pending. Normally, disciplinary action is mentioned in the police bulletin published nearly every day. When an officer is exonerated, no mention of the fact is made in the bulletin.

Was Ejected From Spaceship, Landed by 'Chute, Titov Says

Soviet Cosmonaut Asserts Craft Parachuted to Earth Separately but He Could Have Stayed in It.

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov said today he was ejected from his spaceship at the end of his 25-hour orbital flight and parachuted to earth.

The second Soviet spaceman told a press conference his spaceship Vostok II came down separately by parachute "but if the need had arisen, I could have landed it myself."

Titov said there were two landing systems available, either to remain in the spaceship and parachute down with it or to descend separately. He said he had permission to use either system.

"I felt well and decided to test the second landing system," he said.

The ship landed safe nearby, he added.

The space flyer said he experienced no ill effects from the acceleration forces, noise and vibration of the take-off, from the prolonged weightlessness or from the transition from weightlessness near the end of his 17 trips around the globe.

Titov said that after landing neither he nor medical experts could detect any changes in his physical condition.

He reported one variation from normal. He said he wasn't hungry for his first two meals although he ate them on schedule.

"Frankly speaking I had no particular appetite," the 26-year-old cosmonaut said. "This was probably due to the sustained weightlessness and excitement."

The press conference, held at Moscow University, was attended by more than 1500 Soviet and foreign newsmen, scientists and diplomats.

Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, introduced the Soviet Union's new space hero and said his flight had produced a wealth of scientific information that will

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Efforts to salvage President Kennedy's program of aid to education at this congressional session have collapsed.

House and Senate Democratic leaders have decided instead to steer through a one-year extension of an expiring $300,000,000 program of federal grants to schools in so-called impacted areas with heavy concentrations of federal workers or military personnel.

A bill for a one-year stopgap renewal of the program was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Lister Hill, Democrat of Alabama. It was co-sponsored by Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon.

Committee Approves Bill.

The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee today quickly approved the bill.

Sources close to the House leadership said there was a chance that the measure would be amended to provide a one-year extension of college student loan provisions of the 1958 National Defense Education Act.

In addition, Senate Democratic leaders plan to redeem a long-standing commitment to advocates of federal loans for parochial and other private schools by seeking early Senate passage of a bill to continue the Defense Education Act with broadening amendments.

The main amendment, a highly controversial one, would authorize $375,000,000 in loans to help private schools build facilities for teaching science, mathematics, foreign languages and physical fitness.

Prospects for House action on such a bill at this session are so remote that key Democrats there are considering the advisability of adding the student-loan provisions to the Hill-Morse bill when it reaches the House.

Tied Up in Committee.

A defense-education extension bill similar to the one now awaiting Senate consideration is tied up in the House Rules Committee with the Administration's $2,284,000,000 public school aid bill and another Administration bill for $300,000,000 in federal loans and grants to promote college education.

The Rules Committee tabled all three measures July 18 as religious and economic factors combined to produce an 8-to-7 vote against clearing the legislations for House consideration.

School aid supporters since then have been trying to devise an acceptable compromise. These efforts broke down Wednesday with the rejection by House and Senate Democratic leaders of a proposal by Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, Abraham Ribicoff.

By the Associated Press.

President Kennedy's request for a new cabinet Department of Urban Affairs and Housing was sent to the Senate today with a 5-2 vote of approval by the Government Operations Committee.

SOVIET BLOC PREPARING GERMAN PEACE TREATIES; PARLEY CALLED FOR FALL

East Zone Parliament Told of Plans—Marshal Ivan Konev Heading Red Forces in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (AP)—East Germany announced today that negotiations are under way in Communist capitals for the German peace treaties demanded by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Sterner measures were also promised to halt the tide of refugees through West Berlin.

The announcements were made to a special session of East Germany's rubber-stamp Parliament in East Berlin by Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz and Deputy Premier Willy Stoph.

Bolz said the foreign ministers of the Soviet bloc would meet late in the fall—exactly when or where he did not say—to study treaty proposals and presumably agree to them.

(In Moscow, meanwhile, Khrushchev made another threatening speech, declaring hundreds of millions of persons will die if a new war is touched off.)

Events Expected.

Khrushchev has demanded peace treaties with East and West Germany. Since the West is firmly against signing a treaty with anything but a reunited Germany, it appeared the projected conference would draw up treaties, the West would reject them and then Khrushchev would go ahead and sign them before the end of the year, as promised.

As part of the campaign against the West on Berlin, Khrushchev named Marshal Ivan S. Konev, former military commander of the Warsaw Pact and one of Russia's top soldiers, to command Soviet forces drawn up against the West in Germany.

(United Press International reported that the Parliament directed the government to take undisclosed measures to halt the flight of refugees to West Berlin.

(The resolution authorized the government "to prepare and execute all measures" necessary to "prevent the organized head hunting and slave trading carried out from West Germany and West Berlin and to safeguard the German Democratic Republic."

(The measures the government contemplated were not disclosed. They could lead to a ban on East German travel to West Berlin or closing of the East-West city border.

(On the border of the French and Soviet sectors of Berlin two Communist policemen today fired revolver shots at a refugee who ran past their checkpoint in an automobile. They missed and the escapee reached West Berlin).

Figures on Berlin.

Western refugee officials announced that in the past week 12,448 East German refugees were registered in West Berlin, bringing the 1961 total to 150,921. The total at this time last year was about 115,000. Thousands more have crossed without registering.

Today's total of those registering at the West Berlin reception center was 1573, about normal for the increased refugee flow from the East.

The Communist press made no fuss about the Konev appointment. Neues Deutschland, the official party organ, carried the one-sentence report in bold type, on page one, under a small headline.

This way of playing the news was in accordance with the Communist line that the West is making threats, but that there will be no war. The appointment of Marshal Konev—who was said to have retired more than a year ago for reasons of health—may be designed more for its effect on the West than

Another Escapes as Policeman Fires — Wounded Man Appears at Hospital.

An unidentified youth was shot and killed early today by a Deer Street district policeman who interrupted a burglary at a tavern at 4058 Fairfax avenue.

The youth, about 17 years old, was shot by Patrolman Milton Proctor after the youth ignored an order to halt and attempted to flee from the tavern through a rear door. A second suspect fled after he apparently was shot, police said.

Proctor and Patrolman William Bardley were driving west on Fairfax in a patrol car when they heard a radio call about prowlers in the tavern, which has been closed for several weeks. Fixtures and several vending machines were in the establishment.

Proctor entered the front door while Bardley notified the radio dispatcher that they were at the scene. Proctor said both suspects began running toward the rear door and ignored his order to halt.

Proctor opened fire. The first man escaped and ran east in the alley. The youth was shot in the neck. He was pronounced dead at Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

A police dog was brought to the tavern and a trail of blood was followed east to Vandeventer avenue where it ended. A short time later, police said, a man appeared at City Hospital with a gunshot wound in his left side, but he could not make a statement. Police will question him later.

Entrance to the tavern had been made through a window leading into a washroom.

RUSK SAYS ALL ALLIES EXPECT SOVIET PARLEY

Timetable Not Set — He Discounts Reports French Object — Briefs Kennedy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that all the major Western powers expect negotiations with Russia over Berlin but at this point have no timetable for such an East-West meeting.

After reporting personally to President Kennedy on the week-long consultations in Europe from which he returned last night, Rusk told reporters he had found "a high degree of unity among the Western Allies on the Berlin problem."

He minimized reports that France and the United States differ on the timing of any approach to the Soviets toward an East-West conference aimed at a peaceful solution of that crisis.

European reports had it that the United States proposes that the West take an early initiative while France believes no move toward negotiations should be made for some time.

Rusk said this is a matter "on which the gap may be more apparent than real."

He added: "We all understand that negotiations will occur."

Plans for Build-up.

Rusk was reported encouraged not only over the signs of policy unity but over prospects of a military build-up by other NATO nations paralleling that ordered by Mr. Kennedy in this country.

The President and Rusk, however, were reported increasingly concerned over what they consider the rigid, threatening attitude being displayed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in public statements and private meetings with Western diplomats and visitors.

There is a growing conviction that Khrushchev's present position offers no real hope of successful negotiations, in spite of his demand that the West seek

KHRUSHCHEV PICTURES HUGE TOLL OF ANY WAR

He Declares Hundreds of Millions, Not Several Millions, Would Lose Lives.

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Premier Khrushchev, in a shouting and arm-waving speech, declared today that hundreds of millions of persons will die if a new war is touched off.

He said Western leaders who assert that only several million will die are talking nonsense.

He made the declaration at a "Friendship Rally" in the Grand Kremlin palace for Romanian Communist party boss Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, who has been visiting the Soviet Union since July 31.

Repeating that he is ready to negotiate, Khrushchev welcomed President Kennedy's expression of hope for a peaceful solution in Germany. "We believe common sense will win," he said.

The speech was the third one in recent days in which he has talked tough while at the same time appearing to be conciliatory.

Khrushchev declared it is a "fairy tale" that the West will fight for West Berlin and added: "For 2,200,000 people (the approximate population of West Berlin) they want to declare war and hundreds of millions of people will perish. What man of common sense can believe such nonsense?"

Khrushchev said that talk about low casualty figures is imperialist propaganda to prevent the Soviet Union from taking action on the German question. He repeated his intention

PRICE OF RETAIL BEEF IS EXPECTED TO RISE IN WEEK

Retail beef prices in the St. Louis area will be increased in the next week or two because of advances in cattle prices at major livestock centers, it was reported today.

A spokesman at one chain store said he does not see "too much of an increase," but will not know until the full impact of wholesale price rises is felt. Another chain store meat purchaser stated that "as of now the beef prices are on the move up, but the repercussion will not be felt until next week."

Edward Smith, of the Producers Livestock Association at the National Stockyards in East St. Louis, said that wholesale beef prices and the cattle market have been strengthened because of a reduced supply and an improved business climate.

In the last two weeks, wholesale beef prices have risen two to three cents a pound, and cattle prices have gone up $2 to $3 a hundred pounds higher than prices earlier this year. "During the early part of the year, we were coming out of a recession," Smith said. "The consumer was conservative, hesitant to pay out very much for food. Now incomes are higher,"

HIJACKING SCARE AT LAMBERT FIELD SET OFF BY CALL

A telephone call that police believe was a fake caused authorities at Lambert-St. Louis Field to take precautions against a possible plane hijacking last night.

The call, purportedly made by an anonymous cab driver, was received by Juel Black, supervisor for the Federal Aviation Agency here. The caller said he had transported two men to the airport and that one handed a pistol to the other on leaving the cab, with the remark: "Make sure that plane doesn't arrive at New York."

Lt. William Owens and Capt. F. J. Vasel of the St. Louis County Police Department took a squad of plainclothesmen to the airport and viewed passengers boarding four departing flights. They searched the Terminal Building for two men answering the description given by the anonymous caller.

When the last plane left at 12:20 a.m. today, the search was called off. There was no delay in plane departures.

HARASSED OWNER OF LION UNABLE TO GIVE IT AWAY

OMAK, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP)—Ernie Moore is finding that the lion market is slow. He cannot even give away his 4-year-old African lion, Tammy, who is eating him into bankruptcy . . . at the rate of 25 to 40 pounds of raw meat daily.

A few weeks ago, Moore, a janitor, even thought about shooting his 400-pound pet. Word of the lion's plight got out and new-found friends began a "save-the-lion" campaign. But it is not going very well.

Tammy has been promised a new home at a jungleland in Thousand Oaks, Calif., if the freight is prepaid. That would cost $227.50. The campaign has raised only $25.

How did Moore acquire a lion? He bought a defunct zoo four years ago and planned to make it a tourist attraction. The tourists did not come. There was no problem disposing of the other animals. Only Tammy is left.

RULING ON FLAG ON SHORTS: 'DEFINITELY DISRESPECTFUL'

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 10 (AP)—Printing the American flag on men's shorts is "definitely disrespectful," American Legion state adjutant Peter E. Pappas said yesterday in response to a complaint from a Marblehead housewife.

Mrs. John W. Hamilton told Pappas she bought underwear for her husband and found the Start and Stripes emblazoned on them. Pappas advised her to burn the shorts and to notify the storekeeper the underwear is disrespectful.

U.S. REPORTED DENYING NATO 38,000 NEW MEN

Unofficial Service Paper Says Norstad Will Get Only 3000 to 4000 More Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, has been rebuffed by the Defense Department on a request for 38,000 additional troops for the United States Army in Europe, it was reported authoritatively today.

The Army-Navy-Air Force Journal said the Administration has decided to restrict the build-up of United States forces in the North Atlantic Treaty area to 3000 to 4000 soldiers.

The unofficial service publication said Norstad wanted 18,000 soldiers to fill out combat forces of the United States Seventh Army in Germany and 20,000 more to strengthen other Army units in Europe.

Norstad, a United States Air Force general, is commander of all American forces in Europe as well as all other NATO forces on the continent. As United States commander, the Journal said, he supported the Army generals in Europe "in dispatching to Washington recommendations for such a build-up in view of new Soviet threats."

The United States Army in Europe now numbers 233,000 men.

TWO TEEN-AGERS CAUGHT STEALING $60,000 SCHOONER

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 11 (UPI)—The Coast Guard intercepted a $60,000 two-masted schooner yesterday before a pair of teen-agers could get it beyond the harbor breakwater.

Police said the boys, one 15 years old, and the other 16, rode their bicycles to a yacht anchorage, boarded the 45-foot vessel and cast off, using the auxiliary engine. Witnesses called police, who tipped off the Coast Guard.

"We were headed for Honolulu and the South seas," the boys told the boarding party.

Police said the boys checked out two books from the public library before starting their adventure. The first book was "Deep Sea Sailing," but they apparently had not read the second, "Law for Yachtsmen."

Dynamite Found in Doorstop At Romanoff's Restaurant

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (AP)—A piece of pipe used for more than a year as a doorstop at Romanoff's restaurant in Beverly Hills turned out to be a home-made bomb.

Beverly Hills Police Chief C. H. Anderson said the dynamite was encased in the 3½ inch pipe, 16 inches in length. It was capped on both ends.

Lee Hall, a maintenance man at the restaurant, unscrewed one of the caps yesterday and found a copy of the Chicago Tribune dated Oct. 22, 1959, and a paper-wrapped substance in early stages of deterioration. Police were called and identified the pipe's contents as dynamite. The bomb squad took charge of the pipe. How it got to Romanoff's was not learned.

KENNEDY'S PLAN FOR FOREIGN AID IS DEFENDED BY MISSOURI'S LONG

Senator Makes First Major Speech on Foreign Affairs as Debate Opens on 5-Year Financing.

By MICHAEL PULITZER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Senator Edward V. Long (Dem.), Missouri, said today the Kennedy Administration's request for long-term foreign aid authorization financed by Treasury borrowing "would allow us to make the most effective and efficient use of our foreign aid dollars."

In a speech in debate on the controversial foreign aid plan, Long defended the five-year lending program as a way to eliminate many of the shortcomings of foreign aid programs in past years. These shotrcomings have been used by opponents of the program as an argument for cutting down or scrapping foreign aid. This is Long's first major speech on foreign affairs.

"The removal of the rigid annual appropriation financing method would allow us to proceed in a more business-like manner," Long said. "We would see the end of the highways that run from A to B, then to nowhere, highways that benefit the country but for which it is not ready. We would see the end of hastily-approved projects which really are not worth the expenditures, for there would no longer be any need to race the clock so as to give approval before the end of the fiscal year."

Opposed by Byrd.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, was to make a final effort today to require that appropriations for foreign aid be approved by Congress annually. His amendment to the $4,326,500,000 bill is scheduled to come to a vote tonight and is expected to be defeated.

Long rejected an alternative approach of long-term authorization of foreign aid accompanied by annual appropriations. The prospects of funds being cut off in a future year would limit severely the ability to plan effectively beyond the current fiscal year, he said.

Long said many Missourians have written to him in recent months opposing foreign aid. In reply, he said the United States has an obligation to support the aspirations of millions of people in the underdeveloped nations of Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

"Certainly, we cannot turn our backs on these people, for if we do, this energy and determination may bring chaos to the underdeveloped nations, paving the way for Communist demagogues to take control," he said.

Understanding Lacking.

The point has often been raised that our foreign aid program has been ineffective because we do not know enough about countries abroad Long asserted. "It is not that we do not know enough, for we have stacks and stacks of information and facts. What has been missing is understang," the Missourian said.

"Because of our concentration on the struggle with the Soviet Union, we often cannot understand why many of these nations desire to remain neutral, expressing the position that neither of the two world camps is always right or always wrong," he continued.

Acceptance of aid from the Soviet Union and a vote in support of the Russian position in the United Nations does not necessarily mean a nation is anti-West, he said. "What it often means is that the nation is struggling to exist as a nation and acts in accordance with what it believes best protects its own independence," he asserted.

Byrd Amendment.

By United Press International.

Byrd led a determined fight for his amendment to defeat a proposal for an $8,800,000,000 five-year authority for Treasury borrowing to finance long-term economic development loans.

Administration leaders, working closely with the White House, said they expected to win by a narrow margin.

Byrd's amendment would retain the five-year authority, but require annual congressional appropriations to finance it. The bill's backers termed it unacceptable.

The Senate agreed to limit debate to seven hours on the Byrd proposal and leaders expected a vote by early evening.

Possible G.O.P. Compromise.

A group of Republicans seeking a less-stringent plan to give Congress some form of continuing review over the loan program was reported ready to agree with Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, on some form of compromise. If they do, Byrd's chances would become slimmer than ever.

Fulbright has suggested a plan to require that key congressional committees be notified of any loan of $10,000,000 or more 30 days in advance. That would give them a chance to object.

The G.O.P. group, led by Senators Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, has proposed giving either house the right to veto any such loan within 30 days after it is proposed.

KENNEDY RENEWS VETO POWER OVER ATOM DATA USE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Kennedy took back yesterday the unqualified authority of a Chief Executive to veto transmission of atomic energy information to another country.

Mr. Kennedy did so through an executive order amending an order issued by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1959. The Eisenhower order empowered the Secretary of Defense and Atomic Energy Commission jointly to give atomic data to a foreign power without the approval of the President provided they determined that the information would not constitute an unreasonable risk to national security.

Under the Kennedy order, the Secretary of Defense and the AEC could not actually let the information go for at least 15 days. In that period, the President could study their decision and veto it if he chose.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he was unaware of any particular case that brought about the new procedure.

BOURGUIBA DENIES TUNISIA SWINGS TOWARD RED BLOC

TUNIS, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba denied today that his country is swinging toward an alliance with the Soviet bloc.

But Bourguiba conceded that Tunisia's quest for withdrawal of French forces from Bizerte coincides with Soviet interests.

"We are not throwing ourselves into the arms of the Red bear," Bourguiba told 2000 professional and party leaders. "We have asked for Soviet aid to obtain the evacuation of Bizerte. This evacuation serves the interests of Tunisia and of Russia. That is why I am in agreement with Russia.

"There is no harm in accepting foreign aid if it does not menace our sovereignty," Bourguiba told the meeting, which several times interrupted his nearly two-hour speech with rhythmic applause.

The government today banned the sale of five Paris dailies in Tunisia. It said the action was in retaliation for the sacking by French paratroopers of the Tunisian information center in Bizerte.

HIJACKERS OF JETLINER MAY SEEK VENUE CHANGE

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 11 (UPI)—Robert S. Pine, court-appointed lawyer for accused jet plane hijacker Leon Bearden, said today he might ask that his client's trial be moved out of El Paso.

Pine said he was thinking seriously of asking a change of venue because " a large percentage of the prospective jurors were eyewitnesses to the alleged crime."

United States District Judge R. E. Thomason postponed the arraignment of Bearden and his 16-year-old son, Cody, yesterday, because they did not have an attorney and could not afford to hire one.

They are accused of hijacking a $5,000,000 jetliner Aug. 3 and trying to force its pilot to fly it to Cuba so they could sell it to the government of Premier Fidel Castro.

NASA NAMES NEW CHIEF OF LAUNCHING VEHICLES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — The space agency yesterday named Thomas F. Dixon, vice president of the Rocketdyne division of North American Aviation, Inc., to head its program for the development of spacecraft launching vehicles.

Dixon will take office with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Sept. 18. He will succeed Maj. Gen. Don R. Ostrander, who has been director of NASA's office of launch vehicle programs since December 1959. Ostrander is returning to Air Force duty as vice commander of the ballistic systems division at Los Angeles.

B.O.A.C. SELLS HOLDING IN MIDDLE EAST AIRLINES

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—British Overseas Airways Corp. sold its 48.5 per cent holding in Middle East Airlines yesterday.

The deal was concluded after five weeks of talks in London between Sheik Najib Alamuddin, chairman of M.E.A., and B.O.A.C. Chairman Sir Matthews Slattery.

A joint statement said that the "long standing close commercial and technical co-operation between the two airlines will continue." Terms of the sale were not announced, but B.O.A.C. is expected to get about $9,800,000.

DEMOCRATS, G.O.P. SWAP POSITIONS ON U.S. PRESTIGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey says United States prestige is "very high," but Republican National Chairman William E. Miller says it is "at the lowest ebb of all time."

These opposing views of how the U.S. image overseas has fared in the first months of the Kennedy Administration were given last night by the chairmen on a debate-style CBS television program "Joint Appearance."

Miller said President Kennedy has ceased taking any prestige polls overseas since the campaign because "he wouldn't be interested in knowing the results."

Bailey said: "I feel that the country and the world knows that America has a leader, and that the prestige of the United States is high." He added that Mr. Kennedy has handled the Berlin situation in a "firm way."

In the 1960 campaign the parties took reverse positions on United States prestige abroad. Democrats assested it was slipping and Republicans said it remained high.

POLAND OFFERS INDONESIA $30,000,000 IN CREDIT

JAKARTA, Aug. 11 (AP) — Poland has offered Indonesia $30,000,000 in credit for financing industrial projects, it was announced today after the signing of an economic co-operation agreement between the two countries.

The signing followed a week's talks here between Indonesian ministers and Polish Foreign Trade Minister Prof. Witold Trampezynski.

The credit is for coal mining, a cast iron foundry, a cement factory, sugar cane mills and other projects.

Cites World Situation —To Give at Proper Time Its Position on U.N. Membership.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI) —The United States announced today it has suspended a move toward diplomatic recognition of Communist Outer Mongolia because "of the existing world situation."

The State Department, making the announcement, said the related question of how the United States will vote on Outer Mongolia's application for United Nations membership next month will be answered "at the proper time."

It was learned that Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Nationalist China's Vice President Chen Cheng early this month that the United States would abstain on the Outer Mongolia membership vote.

Chen, on his visit here, bitterly complained about the United States move toward recognizing the Red satellite which lies between north China and Russia. Some United States congressmen also protested against the move to President Kennedy.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said it could be assumed that Mr. Kennedy made the decision against going ahead with establishing a United States diplomatic post in Outer Mongolia.

White said the decision was made "in the light of our own interests," and not as a result of Nationalist Chinese pressure.

At the time of the Nationalist emissary's visit, United States officials and Rusk refused to promise that the United States would not go ahead with recognition of Outer Mongolia.

White said: "The United States Government for a considerable period of time has been exploring the question of establishment of relations with Outer Mongolia and has held a series of discussions with other governments on this matter. We believe that in view of the existing world situation, it is in the best interest of the United States to suspend further exploration of that matter at this time."

NAZI VICTIMS' GRAVES FOUND

WARSAW, Aug. 11 (UPI) — Three mass graves of Polish, Russian and German soldiers have been found in East Germany, the Polish news agency P.A.P. reported yesterday. P.A.P. said the 102 soldiers were shot by Nazi S.S. men.

"Polish and Soviet soldiers taken prisoner and German soldiers who in the face of defeat had deserted shared the same fate—interrogation, beating up, and then a shot in the back of the head," it said.

Small Latin Nations Demand Share of 20 Billions in Aid

Seem to Have Votes at Parley to Create Commission to Co-ordinate Development Plans.

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay, Aug. 11 (AP)—Latin America's small nations challenged their big neighbors again today to make sure they get their share of President Kennedy's 20-billion dollar Alliance for Progress aid program.

The smaller nations, after one victory yesterday, appeared to have enough votes to insure creation of a controversial commission to co-ordinate national development plans.

Uruguay, South America's smallest country, is leading the campaign based on evident concern that otherwise the big nations will reap most of the benefits.

Proposal by U. S.

The United States proposed creation of the commission when the conference began, but pulled back when Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile and Peru demanded that it be demoted to an advisory group. The large nations, which already have their own development programs, want to deal directly with the United States and the various lending agencies instead of through a hemispheric board.

Argentina and Brazil are reported to be urging the United States to begin a crash program of aid to the weaker nations. This has aroused suspicions among the small countries that their big neighbors are only trying to keep them pacified.

United States observers say both groups probably will have to make concessions to get the Alliance for Progress program started.

Bolivia, threatened by revolutionary ferment, won the first small-nation victory yesterday with a motion calling for priority to aid to small countries. Brazil, which has serious economic troubles in its northeast provinces, sought to change the wording to read "regions" in direst need. The Bolivian motion won, 19 to 1.

Rebuff for Cuba.

Later, the conference rejected Cuban demands for a vote on whether Fidel Castro's regime may benefit from the program.

Disregarding hints of a walkout by Cuban delegate Ernesto (Che) Guevara, delegates from 19 Latin nations brushed off the Cubans.

The meeting was behind closed doors, but informants told the Associated Press this is what took place:

Guevara arose to tell the delegates he understood the program embraces "the peoples and governments of the American republics" and that this means all 20 Latin nations—including Cuba.

"I would like to ask the United States delegation whether this is so," Guevara said, "and if it is, will Cuba share in the fruits of this program?"

A Peruvian delegate retorted that Guevara was out of order because the committee was meeting to draft a declaration, not to decide who was in the program and who was not.

Guevara said: "To get over this impasse, I move for a vote."

No delegate seconded Guevara's motion.

Then a Bolivian delegate said that in his opinion no country is excluded. A delegate from Chile said he agreed. The chairman ended the talk by ruling that without a second Guevara's motion was killed automatically.

A Cuban appeal for promotion of national news agencies, either state controlled or privately owned, was defeated today in a committee meeting. The vote was 19 to 1, with Bolivia abstaining.

Private Investors.

The conference has attracted private investors from many parts of the world. Representatives of railroads, banks, power and automobile interests, among others, are showing an interest in pouring billions of dollars into the United States-sponsored aid program. First, however, they are seeking to find out how it can be done best, the risks involved and particularly what Latin American business interests are willing to contribute.

Richard S. Aldrich of New York, vice president of the International Basic Economy Corporation, said, "We felt that the private segment of the United States economy ought to emphasize the fact here that it represents a vital source of investment capital."

Aldrich said delegates are eager listeners.

"We are making it clear to them," he said, "that the governments will have to call on local private investment groups to take an active part. No aid program can be successful without local participation."

Farm Cart Hit, 5 Killed.

OFFER TO LEAVE LAOS IF REDS DO IS MADE BY U.S.

Harriman Makes Proposal at 14-Nation Conference at Geneva.

GENEVA, Aug. 11 (UPI) — The United States formally offered today to withdraw all its military personnel from Laos, provided other foreign troops, including the Communist Vietminh forces, pull out at the same time.

United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman offered to write such a promise into the final agreement on Laos as the 14-nation peace conference began debate on the protocol section for international controls over the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Anticipating the usual Communist denial that North Viet Namese troops were operating in the rebel-held areas of Laos, Harriman said "we know a great deal about the presence" of the Vietminh.

Harriman said the 300 United States military advisers would be withdrawn from the kingdom simultaneously with all other foreign forces except the French, who are in Laos under terms of the 1954 Geneva accords ending the Indochinese war.

Artillery Duel Reported Near Laotian Rebel Capital.

VIENTIANE, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Reliable sources said today that government and Laotian rebel forces engaged in an artillery duel near the rebel capital at Xieng Khouang.

The sources said the fighting continued through this afternoon.

The fighting broke out Tuesday night when rebel troops in Xieng Khouang city trained their 105-millimeter howitzers on positions held by pro-government Meo tribesmen in surrounding mountains. Six to eight Meo companies in the area responded with the heaviest weapons they had.

Several mortar shells fell on Xieng Khouang city, the sources said. That was on Wednesday, when the rebels had scheduled celebrations for the first anniversary of the coup d'etat by rebel Capt. Kong Le that precipitated the extended Laotian crisis.

If the mortar shells reported to have landed in the rebel capital actually came from the Meo mortars it would mean that the tribesmen were within three miles of the rebel headquarters.

AMERICAN BAR'S HIGHEST AWARD IS PRESENTED TO JACOB M. LASHLY

St. Louisan Honored for Service to Bar—Lord Evershed Speaks at Dinner — Convention Closing.

Jacob M. Lashly, a St. Louis attorney for 55 years, was given the American Bar Association's highest award last night in recognition of his "conspicuous service in the cause of American jurisprudence."

The award, a gold medal, was presented before about 1800 persons at the A.B.A. annual dinner in the Khorassan Room of the Park Plaza-Chase Hotel by Whitney North Seymour, outgoing president of the association.

Lashly was the twenty-sixth attorney to receive the award in 32 years. He was president of the A.B.A. from 1940 to 1941 and served as chairman of the Committee on Assistance to Lawyers in Devastated Countries from 1946 to 1950.

He now is president of the American Bar Association Endowment, a non-profit agency which helps finance legal research and administers group insurance programs for association members.

A former president of the Bar Association of St. Louis, Lashly is senior partner in the law firm of Lashly, Lashly and Miller, with offices at 705 Olive street. He is 79 years old and lives at 20 Windermere place.

Talk by Lord Evershed.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Lord Evershed, England's third highest judicial officer, holding the 676-year-old title of Master of the Rolls. He urged increased co-operation between associations of lawyers in England and the United States to help adapt the rule of law to the present generation.

"The world is in some danger of returning to the age of miracle, mystery and authority," Lord Evershed said. "The only answer to the threat is establishment of the rule of law adapted to this generation." He termed the present generation "the age of propaganda."

Two major problems facing the law, he said, are modern interpretation and delays in completing litigation. Some remedies must come from outside the profession—such as appointment by the Government of more judges to cope with mounting backlogs of cases — but the initiative for finding solutions must be taken by lawyers, themselves, Lord Evershed said.

Other Awards By A.B.A.

The A.B.A. Gavel Awards for outstanding contributions to public understanding of the American legal and judicial systems were presented to three newspapers, three television representatives and to KMOX radio station. The St. Louis station was honored for a 30-minute program, "A Case in Point," presented May 1, 1960.

Award-winning newspapers included the Hartford (Conn.) Times, the Chicago Tribune and the Christian Science Monitor. Televison programs cited included Armstrong Circle Theater and CBS Reports. The University of Michigan Television Center also won a Gavel for a program series.

Concluding the banquet, Seymour, a resident of New York City, introduced his successor as president, John C. Satterfield of Yazoo City, Miss., a community with a population of about 12,500 persons.

New President Takes Over.

Satterfield officially took over the office today and presided at the final assembly before adjournment. At a press conference he was asked about the remark of a southern member of the House of Delegates to the effect that a strong civil rights stand by the House would force many moderate southern delegates to take an extreme position that could prove "disastrous" to the A.B.A.

He replied that he did not think any members of the association, whether from north, south, east or west, would withdraw because of action properly taken by the association.

The next annual meeting will take place in San Francisco next July 30 to Aug. 10.

PERSEID METEORS TO BE BRIGHTEST EARLY TOMORROW

The annual shower of Perseid meteors will reach its maximum brilliance sometime after 1 a.m. tomorrow, Edwin E. Friton, regional director of the American Meteor Society, said.

The meteors are thought to be the size of grains of dust, traveling about 40 miles a second. At this speed, they burn brilliantly when they hit the earth's atmosphere 60 to 70 miles overhead. They are thought to be debris in the orbit of Tuttle's comet.

The Perseides can be seen by looking directly overhead. They will appear to come from a point in the northeastern sky near the constellation Perseus, for which they are named.

Friton asked volunteer observers to count the meteors and report the number seen in an hour to him at his home, 508 Marshall avenue, Webster Groves 19.

TWO FIRMS' SAFES STOLEN, CONTAINED TOTAL OF $530

A safe containing about $350 was stolen from Hampton Cleaners, 5841 Chippewa street, an danother with about $180 was taken from Butler Automotive Inc., automobile parts firm at 51011 Eichelberger street, owner of the two establishments reported today to police.

The safe at the cleaning establishment was taken from a rear office in the one-story building, Irvin Goldfarb, secretary, said. Entry was made by climbing to the top of the building and forcing a door on the roof.

Harold Butler, owner of the automobile parts firm, said the safe also contained $1577 in checks. Tools valued at $15 were missing, he said. The burglary was discovered by a police officer who noticed a rear window had been forced.

MOTORIST ARRESTED AFTER 70-MILE-AN-HOUR CHASE

Charles Diamond, 4300 block of Sacramento avenue, was arrested early today in the 4600 block of San Francisco avenue after his automobile was chased by police at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. He was booked suspected of speeding and violating two flashing traffic lights.

Patrolman Roy Burgdorf said he saw the car going west on Natural Bridge avenue at a high rate of speed. He chased the automobile west to Clarence avenue and north for two blocks to San Francisco, where he lost sight of it.

Patrolman Richard Tobin answered Burgdorf's call for assistance and stopped the car about 12 blocks from where the chase began. Diamond, 24-year-old laborer, gave no reason for speeding, police said. He went through flashing traffic lights at Vandeventer and Fair avenues police added.

Train, Locomotive Crash.

LEEDS, England, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Diesel passenger train and a freight locomotive crashed on a viaduct 40 feet above street level and burst into flames yesterday. A section hand was killed and four persons were injured.

BOY, 15, KILLED, 4 HURT IN CRASH ON TWAIN ROUTE

Auto Hits Concrete Abutment — Traveling at High Speed, Police Say.

Samuel Bell, 15 years old, was killed and four other youths were injured today when their automobile skidded on the Mark Twain Expressway and crashed into a concrete abutment of the overpass for Missouri State Highway TT.

Bell, son of Mrs. Carnegia Bell, 4561 Kennerly avenue, was dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital. A truck with hydraulic equipment was needed to extricate him from the wreckage.

The driver, Kenneth Dixon, 16, of 4539 Garfield avenue, was in serious condition at the hospital with chest anl possible internal injuries.

The youths were eastbound at a high rate of speed, Berkeley police said, when they unknowingly got into the lane for the Natural Bridge exit. Dixon swung the auto back into the expressway, lost control of the vehicle and the machine spun sideways and slid 89 feet into the abutment. The highway was slippery.

Marlin W. Krause, an Army private first-class stationed at the Nike missile base near Grafton, was killed and three persons were injured early today when their automobile left Illinois State Highway 100 about one mile west of Grafton.

The auto went off a small embankment, struck a telephone pole and overturned at least three times, Illinois state police said. They were unable to determine immediately in which direction the vehicle had been traveling.

Krause, 24 years old, the driver, suffered neck and head injuries and was pronounced dead on arrival at Jersey Community Hospital at Jerseyville.

Injured in the crash were Miss Judy Dobson, 18, Grafton, who suffered a back injury; Specialist Josef Schmid, 27, suffering from shock, and Private Thomas D. McKay, 19, minor cuts and bruises. Miss Dobson and Schmid were held at the hospital for observation and McKay was released after treatment.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR DR. FRANK BUCHMAN

FREUDENSTADT, Germany, Aug. 11 (UPI)—More than a 1000 followers from many countries attended funeral services today for Dr. Frank Buchman, founder of the Moral Rearmament Movement, who died Monday night.

A memorial service was held in Freudenstadt's Sixteenth century church. For more than an hour people filed past his coffin.

Dr. Buchman's body will be returned to the United States next week for burial in the family plot at Allentown, Pa.

PUBLIC HOUSING VACANCIES HERE LAID TO DESIGN

Larger Units Demanded, Certain Deficiencies Being Corrected, Director Says.

The large number of vacancies in some St. Louis public housing projects results from certain design deficiencies and from lack of demand for smaller apartments, Charles L. Farris, executive director of the St. Louis Housing Authority, said today.

His statement was in reply to criticism of some of the authority's operations by the General Accounting Office, made public Wednesday.

Other complaints by GAO related to allegedly inadequate property inspections, equipment control and accounting methods and failure to charge tenants enough for repairs necessitated by their own neglect.

Similar complaints by GAO against the East St. Louis Housing Authority were described today as ridiculous by Joseph Kassly, board chairman of the authority.

Farris said the over-all average vacancy rate among the 7000 public housing units in St. Louis is 7.5 per cent, but that the average in the Pruitt and Igoe projects is about 15 per cent.

Converting to Larger Units.

"The one- and two-bedroom apartments are unpopular because so many of the prospective tenants have larger families," Farris said. "We are converting to larger units where possible.

"One deficiency in basic design of these apartments is the presence of soundproof areas adjoining some units, which have contributed to vandalism and burglary. We are eliminating these areas in connection with the program of enlarging family units.

"Another deficiency is in the skip-stop elevator system, under which elevators do not stop at every floor. There is little we can do about this because of the construction expense which would be involved."

The GAO's criticism in connection with physical inspections of property was based on a provision in the Public Housing Administration manual calling for annual inspections, Farris said.

Weekly Inspections Made.

"We do not make annual inspections as such," Farris said, "but instead we have weekly inspections of all buildings and grounds by the deputy director and also a constant surveillance of all properties by maintenance superintendents and housing managers."

"As to the GAO criticism about controls over equipment, I don't know just what they are talking about," Farris said. "We have always maintained an inventory of non-expendable items valued at $25 or more.

"To maintain a similar list of small expendable items would be extremely costly and require an increase in staff. We try to control this class of items through a purchase order system."

Farris said the criticism about charges to tenants for repairs also was not clear to him, since the authority requires of all tenants a $20 deposit to cover damage to property not the result of normal wear and tear.

Farris said he was at a loss also in connection with the criticism of accounting methods, since no details were given in the GAO report. He pointed out the authority is audited twice a year by the Public Housing Administration.

He said the GAO report now being made public actually is dated Aug. 7, 1959, and that he had drafted a reply to it the following Aug. 26.

Kassly's comments were similar to those of Farris on some of the GAO criticisms.

One GAO assertion was that the East Side agency failed to collect rent from tenants in property acquired by the authority and provided space rent-free to a private agency.

Kassly said that in some cases tenants stayed in property a short time after it was acquired and then moved out without paying rent. He said it would not have been worthwhile to enforce collection. Where tenants remained for long periods they were required to pay rent, he said.

Regarding rent-free space, Kassly said GAO's reference was to several non-profit charitable agencies which the authority accommodates in one project under Public Housing Administration policy.

131st Air Wing Breaking Camp Without Word on Call to Duty

St. Louis Outfit to Return Home With Question of Mobilization Still Unanswered.

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

VOLK FIELD, Wis., Aug. 11—The 131st Wing, Missouri Air National Guard, will break camp tomorrow and leave for home stations with the question of mobilization still unanswered.

Brig. Gen. Ross Garlich, assisting adjutant general of Missouri, who is here with a state staff, had received an indication that specific information relative to a call to active duty might be forthcoming from the National Guard Bureau before the 2200 guardsmen left for home stations. However, the only additional information from Washington has been that an inspection of Air Guard units by officers from the bureau will begin in about 10 days.

The 131st Wing and 137th Tactical Control Group, both of St. Louis, have been declared priority units for a possible call to active duty.

Annual Parade.

The two weeks' training at this Air National Guard training base will be concluded tonight with the annual parade and presentation of awards. Lt. Col. Robert L. Garlich, 1212 Lindgate drive, Kirkwood, will be commander of troops. Music will be by the 571st Air Force Band directed by Chief Warrant Officer Harry G. Schmidt.

Capt. John F. Leahy Jr., flying training supervisor of the 110th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Lambert-St. Louis Field, will receive the first annual O'Brien flying trophy at the parade. The award, named in honor of the late Capt. John E. O'Brien, was awarded Capt. Leahy for his initiative and professional manner in handling an emergency when he was flying at night at 42,000 feet near Oklahoma City. Serious engine vibration and increased temperature developed in his F-84F jet fighter.

Capt. Leahy took immediate corrective measures and guided the jet through an overcast reaching to 40,000 feet to a safe landing at Tinker Air Force Base, Okla.

Capt. O'Brien, safety officer for the 131st Wing, was killed Oct. 11, 1959, in the crash of his jet fighter after striking a duck on a training mission near the Lake of the Ozarks. The trophy will be presented at the parade by his widow, Mrs. Joanne O'Brien.

Other awards will be presented to the 131st Aircraft Maintenance Squadron for the highest degree of combat readiness attained by a squadron, and to the 170th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Springfield, Ill., for the greatest improvement shown by a unit of the wing.

Gunnery Awards.

Departures for home stations will begin at 1 p.m. tomorrow, when the three tactical squadrons prepare to take off for St. Louis, Peoria and Springfield. The majority of the wing personnel traveled to camp in private automobiles, which are scheduled to leave at 8 p.m., the departure time of five chartered busses.

There will be an assembly at 10 a.m. Sunday at home stations, where equipment will be unloaded and pay checks issued.

ANTI-BIAS COUNCIL'S FIRST DESIST ORDERS

Highlands Pool, U-Dell Restaurant Ordered to Cease Discrimination.

Cease and desist orders barring further discriminatory practices were issued today by the St. Louis Council on Human Relations against the operators of the Forest Park Highlands swimming pool and the U-Dell Restaurant, 714 Union boulevard.

The orders were issued after hearings yesterday by the council's anti-discrimination division on complaints against the two establishments. The hearings were the first under the city's new anti-discrimination ordinance, which became effective last July 1.

Chester E. Stovall, executive secretary of the council, said there was testimony that on three recent occasions Negroes were denied admittance to the amusement park swimming pool. Stovall said Emory Jones, manager of the pool, acknowledged this occurred.

Stovall reported that Jones told the hearing panel he would comply with the order after it is formally received and that beginning next Monday all persons will be admitted to the swimming pool. Jones had pointed out that there had been no discrimination in other facilities at Forest Park Highlands.

In the case involving the U-Dell Restaurant, Stovall said the owner, Milton Curtain, admitted that three Harris College students, all Negroes, had been denied service there last July 3. He quoted Curtain as saying this was done because the owner feared that white customers would discontinue patronizing his restaurant.

Curtain did not say what he would do after receiving the cease and desist order, Stovall reported.

A third hearing was scheduled yesterday on a complaint against the Terry Moore bowling lanes, 6000 Natural Bridge road. It was postponed at the request of the attorney for the operators.

Sign your own name only. Under the law, information in your social security record is confidential and anyone who signs someone else's name can be prosecuted.

If your name has been changed from that shown on your social security account number card, please copy your name below exactly as it appears on that card.

The above coupon may be used to obain a statement of the earnings credited to your Social Security account. Clip along dotted line. Fill out completely and accurately with pen or typewriter. Sign your name. PASTE SECURELY TO BACK OF A POSTAL CARD. Mail to: SOCIAL SECURITY EDITOR, ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, TWELFTH AND FRANKLIN, ST. LOUIS 1, MO.

Post-Dispatch readers have been quick to take advantage of the newspaper's offer of assistance in verifying records of earnings credited to them under the Social Security program.

Late yesterday, 6797 coupons printed in the Post-Dispatch and filled out by workers had been received by the Social Security editor.

Social Security officials suggest that covered workers check their accounts at least once every three years, since there is a limit to the period within which certain corrections can be made.

Accuracy of records is important to the worker because of retirement, disability and death benefits.

The coupon should be filled out completely, using pen or typewriter, before it is signed. PASTED SECURELY TO A STAMPED POSTAL CARD and mailed to the Social Security Editor at the Post-Dispatch.

Do not mail the coupon in an envelope. Use of a postal card is necessary because the Social Security bureau will place the card-mounted coupon in a window envelope to provide the address for the reply.

The cards will be forwarded by the Post-Dispatch to headquarters of the Social Security Administration at Baltimore, Md. Because of the volume of requests and the necessity of accuracy, it may require as much as two or three weeks for a reply to the first cards received. Although the coupon will be reprinted by the Post-Dispatch for convenience of readers, answers to later requests may be somewhat slower.

If an error is found in the earnings record, or if there are questions about benefits, the nearest district Social Security office should be consulted.

These offices are listed in the telephone directory under "United States Government — Health, Education and Welfare Department, Social Security Administration." Residents of rural areas may inquire at their post offices about the location of the nearest Social Security district office.

The statement will show only the amount of earnings reported for the person making inquiry. It will not show the amount of taxes paid by the employe or the employer. This is because Social Security benefits are based on earnings from work covered by the law and not on the amount of taxes paid.

The flight, Keldysh added, opened the way for manned flight "to Mars, the moon, Venus, and even further into the depths of the universe."

Keldysh said foreign reporters will be permitted to watch launchings of Soviet spaceships in the future but gave no indication when this would happen.

"You realize carrier rockets are not only peaceful instruments, and if the Americans had such advanced carrier rockets, you can be sure they wouldn't be showing them either," he said.

The Soviet academician said Titov had demonstrated that a human pilot is able to control his spaceship manually, make scientific observations and land his craft on any spot on earth.

Pilot Training Important.

Titov told the gathering that his training as a fighter pilot had been most important in preparing him for his space assignment.

Going into a detailed account of his flight from the moment he blasted off at 9 a.m. Aug. 6, Titov said that once in space the cabin of his spaceship was flooded with sunlight and he could see the bright, sunlit surface of the earth and at the same time the stars—"clear and bright points on a black background."

At 10 a.m., an hour after blast-off, Titov said, he switched to manual control of the ship. He said he had complete control over the craft, could orient it in any direction and could send it on any course he desired.

He next used the manual control in his seventh orbit, Titov said.

Maintained Communications.

Throughout the flight "reliable communication with the ground" was maintained on short wave and ultra short wave radio. Even at his farthest point from earth he established contact with the ground with no difficulty, he said.

He said his radio apparatus also picked up ordinary long-wave radio broadcasts from stations all over the world.

Titov said he saw rivers, mountains and fields. He said he could tell clouds from snow because the clouds cast shadows on the surface of the earth.

He remarked that at times, through one of his spaceships's portholes, he saw the globe hanging over his head and "couldn't help wondering what was keeping it there."

During his 7½-hour snooze, Titov said, he slept fitfully at first but then settled down and overslept.

During his descent to earth in the Saratov region, about 450 miles southeast of Moscow, Titov said, he observed a luminous glow as his spaceship heated up in its plunge through the earth's atmosphere.

After the penetration of the earth's atmosphere the spacecraft's landing system went into operation, he continued.

Prof. Vladimir Yezdovski, speaking after Titov, said the Soviet scientists had timed the flight to coincide with a previously determined period of low radiation activity in the vicinity of the earth.

Yezdovski, a leading Soviet scientist, said that the Vostok II could have carried a man on a 10-day flight.

Yezdovski described the ship's automatic control system for maintaining air temperature and pressure level within the cabin at proper levels for human life. He said that Titov's reactions during the flight were studied by telemetric devices transmitting information to earth and on television.

Yezdovski reported that throughout the flight Titov was able to discharge all normal physiological functions.

A Russian reporter asked whether Titov had used eating utensils during his three meals aboard the craft. He replied that he ate specially prepared space foods squeezed from tubes.

Rusk Reports

a peaceful settlement of the Berlin dispute he has created.

Tentatively, therefore, United States officials have concluded that further steps in the military build-up charted by Mr. Kennedy recently, and discussed by Rusk in Europe the past week, will have to be taken before Khrushchev realizes the resistance he is up against.

In Europe, Rusk had seen the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany and Italy—Konrad Adenauer and Amintore Fanfani.

Flying back here last night from Paris, Rusk brought with him Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, United States envoy to Moscow, to join in the planning sessions.

Outline of Rusk's Report.

Officials familiar with Rusk's work in Europe said he was able to report to Mr. Kennedy that:

1. He is confident the NATO allies in Europe will take prompt steps to build up their military forces toward the goal of 30 combat-ready divisions which NATO is supposed to have on its western front.

2. The Secretary of State and the British, French and West German foreign ministers made substantial progress on working out contingency plans—plans specifying how to meet a variety of anti-Western moves which the Soviets may make with respect to Berlin and its access routes. Further planning will be carried on primarily in a series of meetings among ambassadors of the major Western powers and the State Department here.

3. Rusk got agreement with the other foreign ministers, including France's Couve de Murville, that at some point there should be negotiations with the Russians for a peaceful way out of the Berlin crisis. Apparently it was also understood that Khrushchev's present Berlin demands offer no basis for negotation; the ministers, therefore, agreed this was not the time to make proposals, and the question whether the Western powers should take the diplomatic initiative was left for later decision as Khrushchev's campaign develops.

Objection By France.

Over-all, Rusk was reported pleased with the high degree of allied unity on basic issues, despite differences on tactics. For example, the French are presently opposed to a Western initiative, while the United States and Britain tend to favor Western proposals to the Soviet Union at the earliest opportunity.

State Department officials said that Thompson came to Washington for consultation for a few days, after which he will return to Europe.

On his arrival here, Rusk said that "we have had very successful consultations" with representatives of Western countries. He added: "I am very much encouraged by the unity and solidarity of our alliance."

On his departure from Paris, Rusk had said of his talks with Allied leaders: "I think there is agreement there will be negotiations."

(In Bonn last night Adenauer expressed satisfaction with his talks earlier in the day with Rusk on the Berlin and German questions.

("I am very satisfied with all the talks I had," the Chancellor said on his return from a 12-day vacation at Cadenabbia on Lake Como in northern Italy.

Reported Drafting Replies.

(Authoritative sources said the Western powers are preparing notes to Moscow on Berlin and Germany expressing willingness to enter negotiations on the problem but making no direct offers for talks. The notes would be an answer to Soviet notes of Aug. 3 suggesting talks but making no specific proposals.

(The sources said the Western replies will be made in the near future, possibly before the West German elections Sept. 17.)

Informants here said that the Allied conversations in which Rusk took part will be followed by further planning sessions among Western diplomats and military men leading up to a possible Western summit meeting in late September.

Khrushchev is reported to have told John J. McCloy, Mr. Kennedy's disarmament adviser, that he is convinced the Allies wouldn't fight to hold West Berlin.

The Soviet leader also was said to have scoffed at their present military strength in his July 25 session with McCloy.

Senators Hear McCloy.

McCloy yesterday gave a report on the talk to a meeting of the Senate Republican policy committee. Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois declined to give details.

Others who attended the session quoted McCloy as saying Khrushchev asserted that in any hostilities the United States could not reinforce its military strength in the area by land, sea or air.

McCloy was quoted as having told the Republicans he is satisfied Khrushchev means business about signing a peace treaty with East Germany.

Khrushchev

of signing a peace treaty with East Germany.

"We shall, of course," Khrushchev said, "sign a peace treaty with Germany."

He shouted that "lies and shouts" on the part of the West will not stop the Soviet Union. For example, he said, the roars of the British lion no longer frighten anyone.

The imperialists, he said, have "short hands"—a Russian expression for somebody who has little power.

Khrushchev said the laws of war are "terribly cruel" and then mentioned the recent visit to the Soviet Union by Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy. He said he asked Fanfani where the North Atlantic Treaty Organization rocket bases were in Italy and, according to Khrushchev, got the reply that they were in orange orchards.

Threatens Italy.

Khrushchev said the Soviet people like Italian oranges but that if war came and Italy is "pushed" against the Soviet Union, he would not hesitate to send rockets raining on the orange orchards of Italy.

He said the same thing would happen to other small countries that harbor NATO bases, such as Greece and Norway.

The Soviet Premier departed from his notes at this point and launched into a table-thumping display of disdain and ridicule directed at the United States.

President Kennedy, he said, is having a difficult time reassessing his nation's values.

Khrushchev said the United States is "accustomed to have people speak to them with downcast eyes—fastened on their shoes or trousers." He said this was because the Americans had become used to thinking of themselves as the most powerful nation on earth.

Demands U.S. Respect.

"But we too are a powerful country," Khrushchev continued and demanded respect from the United States for "his majesty, the working class."

He recalled the Paris summit conference of May 1960, which broke down before it got started, and said Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain tried to make peace between Khrushchev and then President Eisenhower after the Soviet leader demanded an apology because of the U-2 spy plane incident.

Khrushchev quoted Macmillan as saying: "You must understand this is a powerful country and you cannot expect them to apologize."

Sharply striking the speaker's rostrum, Khrushchev said he replied:

"We too are a great country and we demand an apology when we are insulted."

Khrushchev made it clear that also at stake in the Berlin crisis is the question of Western recognition of Soviet prestige and power. The Soviet leader emphasized this point by shaking his fist and shouting unrestrainedly to his delighted audience.

Neutron Bomb.

Khrushchev ridiculed American talk of creating a neutron bomb that would "kill everything living but preserve material values."

"They want to kill a man but leave his clothes undisturbed," he said. "This is horrible."

He appealed again for negotiations to bring a German peace treaty, repeated his assurances that people of West Berlin would not be disturbed and that access to the city by Western countries would be guaranteed.

"Today I read about President Kennedy's press conference," Khrushchev said. "He said he hoped to achieve a peaceable solution. Such a statement we hail. Toward that the efforts of the Soviet Union are directed.

"We believe that common sense will win. We hope the Western powers will decide that the conclusion of a peace treaty will bring better results than sabre rattling or playing with fire.

"The Soviet government will do everything it can to prevent a new war. The Soviet Union is not afraid of any threats."

He added, "We will not be the first to push the button for a rocket war."

NATO Troops

and policing functions ,the Army employs about 80,000 Europeans. It wants to replace some of them with regular Army troops. That presumably was a factor in Norstad's proposal.

His hopes for a quick increase apparently were dashed on two principal counts, according to the journal:

The over-all United States Army manpower increase is now likely to be held to about 71,000 instead of the 133,000 first mentioned by President Kennedy and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

There is apparently a "political decision at the highest levels of government to prevent if possible, an escalation of Soviet military forces in Europe during the next several months when diplomatic negotiations over Berlin remain a possibility."

Meantime, Army forces in the United States will be brought to new levels of combat readiness by filling out three divisions, previously used only for training recruits, with fully trained troops.

on sentiment in the Communist area.

Bolz told Parliament Berlin would remain a free city. Under Communist definition this would mean withdrawal of Western garrisons. With Berlin in Communist hands, East Germany would be virtually sealed off from the West and its people would be unable to flee.

Stoph warned that new measures might be taken to stop the refugee flow, and he hinted they might be taken even before a peace treaty is signed.

West's 'Head Hunters.'

Stoph said Western "head hunters" operate at conferences in West Berlin and West Germany, trying to persuade East German delegates to defect. He charged advisory centers were set up at a medical congress in West Berlin last May to help medical men flee. East Germany has a serious shortage of doctors, as well as other skilled personnel. Many have fled to West Germany.

Bolz concentrated in his speech on the international aspects of the planned peace treaties, but he made clear they would give East Germany what it regards as the right to keep refugees from making the final and decisive step of their journey—a flight from the Communist-surrounded city through Western air corridors to West Germany.

Although he repeated East German assurances that the freedom of West Berlin would be respected as a "free, demilitarized city" and that traffic would flow unhindered after a peace treaty, he added:

"The right of every state to sovereignty over its traffic belongs also to the (East) German Democratic Republic. The prestige of those states which acknowledged this sovereignty would not suffer."

He also said peace treaties would open the way for "the military neutrality of both German states and so to a neutral, peacefully unified Germany."

In the West fears were voiced that further Red repression of the East Germans would result in a violent outbreak.

"The mood in the (east) zone is near boiling point," the West Berlin Morgenpost said editorially. "If the safety valve provided by Berlin is shut, it can come to an explosion."

Konev's appointment as commander in chief of Soviet forces in East Germany was disclosed as East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht, just back from Moscow, called for Soviet aid in the defense of East Germany's borders and new moves to stem the flood of refugees.

Tension Mounting.

Konev's appointment underlined the mounting East-West tension in the struggle over divided Berlin. It was announced just three days after Premier Khrushchev threatened to mobilize Russian reserves.

Konev takes command of about 20 divisions or more amid Communist charges that Chancellor Adenauer's West German government and the major NATO powers are threatening war over Berlin.

Ulbricht in a speech to workers in an East Berlin factory said:

"The borders of the German Democratic Republic must, if necessary, be defended militarily against the militarists in Bonn, and by the forces of the Soviet Union as well as the National People's army."

Ulbricht said strengthening East Germany "in all fields" would warn the West against what he termed "war hysteria ignited in West Germany."

A few hours later A.D.N., the official East German news agency, disclosed Konev's appointment almost casually. It said Ulbricht received the marshal, "who has been named by the Soviet government as supreme commander of the Soviet forces temporarily stationed in the German Democratic Republic."

No Word on Yakubovski.

Konev succeeds Col. Gen. Ivan I. Yakubovski, who held the command more than a year. There was no word on what happened to him.

Konev, has long been a top Soviet general and an important Communist party functionary. The marshal, a peasant who worked as a lumberjack before he joined the Communist party and the Soviet army in 1918, first won fame in the war against Finland in 1939-40.

After a distinguished career against the German armies in World War II, he served as a deputy defense minister and headed the tribunal that sent Lavrenty P. Beria, chief of the Soviet secret police, to death in Kremlin that followed Stalin's death.

Konev commanded Russian and east European satellite forces in the Warsaw Pact, the Communist counterpart of NATO, for five years until July 24, 1960. An announcement then said he had been relieved at his own request, and he has been out of the public eye since then.

The Communist party used Konev to counter the great popularity of Marshal Georgi Zhukov and to direct the purge against him four years years ago. Konev accused his chief of treating the army as his private domain and lumped him with Stalin as a blunderer.

JOBLESS ACTOR'S CLAIM FOR ALIMONY IS DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (AP)—"When a wife earns more money than her husband, he should be granted alimony," a lawyer for unemployed actor Chester Marshall told a superior court commissioner.

But Commissioner George M. Dell denied yesterday the 29-year-old Marshall's petition for $613 monthly alimony from his estranged wife, actress Karen Sharpe, 27. He said Marshall is "perfectly capable of supporting himself."

Marshall's attorney, Irving A. Kanarek, had argued that a woman's present status of equality before the law makes her subject to the same alimony requirements now "enjoyed by men." A divorce hearing for the couple is scheduled Sept. 19.

BOAT, 57 ABOARD, MISSING

MANILA, Aug. 11 (UPI)—An inter-island boat with 57 persons aboard has been missing since Monday and is feared to have sunk in central Philippines waters, the Philippine News Service reported today.

The report said the motor launch with 50 passengers and a crew of seven sailed Monday from Cebu for Negros Occidental island, normally a one-hour trip. Strong winds buffeted the area Monday and Tuesday.

800 Families Homeless in Fire.

TACLOBAN, Philippines, Aug. 11 (AP)—A seven-hour fire destroyed five blocks of buildings in this central Philippines city yesterday. No casualties were reported but police estimated 800 families were made homeless and estimated property damage at $5,000,000.

PRESIDENT'S RAIL PANEL WILL RIDE TRAINS 2 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI)—The five public members of the presidential railroad commission announced yesterday that they will ride trains the next two weeks to examine working conditions.

Judge Simon H. Rifkind, chairman of the commission, said the trips would help shed light on the dispute between the railroads and five unions over proposals to revise operating rules. So far the commission has been hearing testimony from witnesses.

Rifkind said the commission members would recess public hearings until Aug. 28 to observe train crews in action in passenger, freight and yard service. It intends to study operations in all kinds of terrain at all hours of the day.

The commission was set up to settle a controversy over work rules that had threatened to cause a nation-wide rail strike.

U.S. TOURIST DIES IN ANOTHER LAKE LUCERNE ACCIDENT

WEGGIS, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (UPI) — An American tourist drowned when his automobile plunged into Lake Lucerne today, nine days after a bus carried 16 other American tourists to their deaths in the same lake.

Police said Leo Martin Kaufmann, a farmer of Scappoose, Ore., accidently drove his rented car off a ramp he thought was a road and sank in 10 feet of water. It was raining at the time. Kaufmann and a passenger, Alfred Schenk, climbed out of the sinking car but Kaufmann could not swim, Police said.

Across the lake nine days ago, a chartered bus carrying 35 American tourists collided with a truck trailer, swerved through a metal railing and plunged into the lake.

U.N. SEEKS TO END ENTRY OF RED ARMS IN CONGO

LEOPOLDVILLE, THE CONGO, Aug. 11 (UPI)—The United Nations is trying to stop the flow of arms from Communist Czechoslovakia into the Stanleyville regime of Antoine Gizenga, informed sources said today.

The sources said the arms shipments have continued despite Gizenga's recognition of Premier Cyrille Adoula's regime as the legal government of The Congo.

Gizenga has accepted a post as vice premier in Adoula's government, but has not arrived in Leopoldville to take over the job.

Political sources said that despite his lip service to Adoula, Gizenga has control of Oriental province, of which Stanleyville is the capital, and continued shipment of Communist arms there could be a threat to the central government.

Adoula is believed to be involved in planning to meet this problem as well as the question of control over Katanga province. Although Katanga President Moise Tshombe finally has sent his deputies and senators to Parliament, he has not indicated what central control he will accept over his province.

The growing number of refugees from neighboring Portuguese Angola is proving a problem for the government here.

Yesterday, Congolese gendarmes used clubs to beat back a mob of Bakongo tribesmen who tried to lynch four arrested Portuguese soldiers in the streets of the capital. The tribesmen rushed the cordon of gendarmes guarding the prisoners outside Congolese army headquarters. There were shouts of "You killed our brothers . . . kill the Portuguese."

The Portuguese soldiers were captured Wednesday after chasing Angolan refugees across the border into The Congo.

There was no immediate indication what the government intended to do with the prisoners. It notified the Portuguese Embassy they were under arrest.

U. S. EXPECTED TO TRY TO ORBIT CAPSULE SOON

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Aug. 11 (UPI)—The United States is expected in two weeks to take a crucial step toward placing a man in orbit around the earth.

In repeating a trial that failed, United States missilemen will attempt to send an unmanned Mercury capsule into a once-around orbit and bring the capsule back to earth.

An Atlas D missile, which will be used for the flight, is on a launching pad here and has been joined to a Mercury space capsule.

There had been talk of putting a monkey into the forthcoming flight, but apparently the idea was dropped so as not to delay it. A chimpanzee is scheduled for an orbital flight later in the year before an astronaut takes the ride.

Sources at the Federal Aeronautics and Space Administration say studies are being made to determine whether to attempt a third sub-orbital manned flight before one of the seven astronauts goes all the way. The decision is expected to be negative.

Shot This Year Possible.

The success of the forthcoming flight, switching from the Redstone sub-orbital booster to the Atlas orbital power plant, probably will determine whether there is a chance of accomplishing the first United States orbital mission this year.

Since the Mercury man-in-space program began three years ago, the end of 1961 was calculated as the earliest time an orbital flight could be undertaken.

Slippages in the program made the date appear more likely for early 1962, but one space agency source said that "if all goes well, we still may be able to go this year."

If United States officials are disheartened by the Russian feat of orbiting two cosmonauts while this country is still in the sub-orbital class, they are not showing it at Cape Canaveral.

They look at the situation realistically. They expected the Russian successes, braced themselves for the reaction in the United States and went on with their work, which they insist is being pushed as fast as possible.

Can't Speed Up Materially.

They explain the man-in-space timetable cannot be speeded up materially "just because we want it to happen."

The same checkout of the Atlas is expected to be made for the orbital flight as was given the Redstone rocket that sent astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom on sub-orbital hops.

Full reliability of the Atlas is one of the main points that must be decided.

On Sept. 9, 1960, a Big Joe Atlas successfully launched a pre-production model of a spacecraft which was recovered in the ocean.

On July 29, 1960, however, another Atlas with an unmanned capsule in its nose blew up 65 seconds after launching. Wreckage of the craft was raised by divers.

Another successful shot was accomplished Feb. 21, 1961, when a full production model of the Mercury capsule was shot 115 miles into space.

In April an Atlas with a capsule aboard was destroyed when a device on the missile went bad shortly after takeoff.

Astronauts to Observe Test Shot From Scattered Posts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) —Four of the candidates for the first United States orbital space flight have scattered to stations thousands of miles apart from which they will observe the forthcoming test shot.

While these four watch from sites in Bermuda, California, Mexico and Australia, the three other Mercury astronauts will monitor the test from the Cape Canaveral (Fla.) launch area.

PROPOSED BUS SEGREGATION REGULATIONS ARE REVISED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) —The Department of Justice revised today the proposed regulations it is asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to adopt to ban segregation in interstate bus transportation.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy petitioned the ICC last May 29 to issue the regulations. Oral argument on the petition is to begin Aug. 15.

Major revisions were in the language of a sign it is proposed that interstate busses be required to display and in a proposed definition of terminal facilities. The department described the changes as clarifying language and noted it had held conferences with representatives of the motor carrier industry since the filing of the original petition.

Indonesian Bomber Squadron.

JAKARTA, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Indonesian Air Force activated yesterday its first long-range bomber squadron, to be composed of 20 Soviet TU-16 bombers. Two of the planes have been delivered and the rest are expected by the end of the year.

School Aid

(Dem.), Arkansas, who cast one of the opposing votes, told reporters the Senate might approve the eleventh cabinet department this year, but he thought chances would be better for action next session.

The new department would concentrate on programs and problems of urban dwellers and take over control of the large federal housing programs now under the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The original Administration bill was sharply revised by the Senate committee to emphasize that small towns and communities share in any of its programs and aid.

The Senate rejected yesterday a Republican move to veto a presidential reorganization plan placing the administration of shipping subsidies in the hands of the Secretary of Commerce. A resolution to disapprove the reorganization plan submitted to Congress by President Kennedy on June 12 was defeated 60 to 35. Efforts to kill the plan had previously failed in the House, so it now will go into effect automatically.

The plan abolishes the present three-member Federal Maritime Board and transfers its regulatory functions to a new five-member Federal Maritime Commission. The award of subsidies and other promotional activities become the responsibility of the Secretary of Commerce.

Republican members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee lined up yesterday against President Kennedy's proposal, now modified, for a tax incentive to businesses modernizing their plants. The plan proposed a tax break to businesses investing in new plant and equipment, and balancing the revenue loss by closing so-called tax loopholes.

The House voted yesterday to let long-time military aviators receive some flight pay without actually flying. The bill was sent to the Senate by voice vote.

Designed especially to help Air Force officers when their service is in transition to greater use of unmanned missiles, the legislation provides that officers who have been in flight pay status at least 10 years but are no longer needed in such status may continue to receive flight pay on a sliding scale. The rate would vary from 50 per cent of normal pay for 10-year officers to full pay for 20-year officers.

OLD PISTOL ON DISPLAY MAY HAVE KILLED HAMILTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)— A flintlock pistol that may have been the one that killed Alexander Hamilton went on display today at Columbia University.

The 15-inch-long pistol was described as one of four carried by seconds at the duel between Aaron Burr and Hamilton 157 years ago in Weehawken, N.J.

UNION HANDBILLS UPHELD AT FIRMS NOT IN A DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI) —The National Labor Relations Board ruled today that union members may circulate "do not buy" handbills in front of business firms not involved in a strike or dispute with a union.

The 4-to-1 decision said handbill distribution was exempted from the restrictions on secondary boycotts in the Landrum-Griffin Act.

The ruling grew out of a dispute between Teamsters' Local 537 and Lohman Sales Co. of Denver, a wholesale distributor of cigars, cigarettes, candy and sundries. Members of the Teamsters visited drug stores and supermarkets that bought Lohman's products and passed out "do not buy" circulars to customers of the retail stores.

The board said this was protected by a provision of the law allowing unions to publicize their disputes with employers on "neutral grounds—stores that deal with the primary employer.

IS THERE A SAFE WAY TO SMOKE?
Every thinking cigarette smoker is concerned to some degree about the possible dangers of smoking. Tobacco provides one of the greatest pleasures known to man, but often the pleasure is lessened by nagging worries about the effect of cigarette smoke on the human lungs and heart. This worry may now be dispelled. In a signed statement, independent research Doctors of Medicine Lawrence W. Smith and August J. Pacini stated: "... in short, a smoker may select any brand of cigarette and smoke with reasonable safety through an AQUAFILTER."
WHAT IS AQUAFILTER?
AQUAFILTER is a tiny, white, inconspicuous pre-moistened Filter-Holder for the cigarette you're now smoking — plain or filtered. AQUAFILTER removes up to 91% of the tar and 90% of the nicotine from cigarette smoke. Each individual holder costs less than 5c, is used with one pack of cigarettes (or daily if you smoke less than a pack), and then thrown away.
DOES AQUAFILTER REMOVE TASTE OR FLAVOR?
Not in the least. Pure water is the filtering agent in AQUAFILTER. Water removes irritants without affecting taste. Water (suspended in AQUAFILTER in a cartridge of patented fibres) is the most effective filtering agent for tobacco smoke known to science. Yemenite immigrants to Israel, who smoke the "hookah" or water-pipe, have not suffered a single case of lung cancer, while the disease has struck heavily among other immigrant groups. Water removes only the sharp, harsh nicotine, and the deadly and irritating tar. Neither ingredient contributes to "flavor." Many smokers say that AQUAFILTER actually improves taste.
DOES AQUAFILTER COOL THE SMOKE?
AQUAFILTER reduces the temperature of cigarette smoke to the lowest level possible, much lower than with any other filter or holder.
WHAT DO DOCTORS THINK ABOUT AQUAFILTER?
AQUAFILTER has been accepted for advertising in many of the world's leading medical journals (proof that medical boards have accepted independent research findings on AQUAFILTER)— in many cases the first acceptance of a tobacco-allied product in history. Many doctors prescribe AQUAFILTER for their patients.
DO I NEED AQUAFILTER WITH A FILTER TIP CIGARETTE?
Most certainly. AQUAFILTER removes up to 88% of the tars and 90% of the nicotine from filter tip cigarettes. Cigarette companies, most of whom have stopped making claims that ordinary filter tips reduce tar and nicotine, actually welcome AQUAFILTER, or any improvement that promises real reduction. Many former smokers, who had given up the great pleasure of smoking before the advent of AQUAFILTER, are now enjoying it again ... thanks to AQUAFILTER!
WHAT ABOUT "CIGARETTE COUGH"?
Many smokers who have developed a "cigarette cough" have found that AQUAFILTER completely stops such cough. It's simple ... AQUAFILTER strips the smoke of irritants, washes the smoke in pure water, and cools and humidifies the stream. Ask your doctor. Or try it yourself, and notice the absence of "smoker's mouth," that dried-out taste of the "morning after." Also eliminates stains of teeth and fingers.
HOW CAN I BE SURE THAT AQUAFILTER WORKS?
Laboratory test reports will be sent on request. Meanwhile, here's a test you can make yourself: Smoke 20 cigarettes with an AQUAFILTER. Then break open the plastic holder and remove the filtering cartridge from the holder. Squeeze the cartridge between your fingers. You'll be amazed at the thick, brown tarry stains on your fingers ... a dangerous substance that would otherwise have coated your lungs.

HENRY MILLER NOVELS COME OUT OF HIDING

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Henry Miller's controverial novels "Tropic of Cancer" and "Tropic of Capricorn" have finally emerged from America's literary underground.

The two books, originally published in Paris in the 1930s, had been banned in Miller's native country until yesterday, when the Department of Justice ruled they were not obscene.

A new legal decision became necessary after an American publishing firm, Grove Press, decided to test the ban by placing "Tropic of Cancer" on the United States market last spring.

The novel immediately began selling well even though many bookstores refused to handle it.

Grove Press ran into a legal snarl in Massachusetts where the book was banned by state authorities. The publishing house said yesterday the Massachusetts decision will be fought.

Assistant United States Attorney Malvern Hill disclosed that the Federal Government is withdrawing all complaints against Miller's novels on the recommendation of the Department of Justice. The department said its decision was based on a Supreme Court definition of obscenity.

The ruling stands out as another example of a growing trend in this country to regard literature in a more liberal light.

Grove Press published D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover" two years ago and fought the question of obscenity up to the United States Court of Appeals, where the book finally was approved for publication. Lawrence's novel had been banned in the United States since the early 1920s when it was published in Europe.

The Miller novels were occasionally smuggled into the United States and over the years several bookstores were accused of selling them under the counter.

Miller, who is highly regarded by many contemporary critics and authors, was an American expatriate who lived in Paris in the years after World War I. He now lives in southern California.

JURY COST INQUIRY BRINGS 55 CENTS AND ANGRY NOTE

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 11 (AP)—Passaic county's freeholders, who complained last month about the expenses of several long murder trials, have received a refund—55 cents.

With the coins came some complaints from Mrs. Tillie E. Mueller yesterday. She had served for 37 days on the murder trial of two brothers.

The two quarters, she said, were for two combs purchased for her in the trial. The nickel was for her share of three cans of shoe polish bought for the jurors.

She was angry, she wrote, about the public's getting the impression "that serving on a sequestered jury is one long Florida vacation. It just isn't so."

The freeholders, who had ordered an investigation into jury expenses, accepted the money. Then they returned to their discussion about appropriating an additional $15,000 to pay for this year's murder trials.

Udall's Dog Found.

MOOSE, Wyo., Aug. 11 (UPI)—A dog belonging to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall became lost yesterday when the Udall family was on vacation in the Snake river country near Grant Teton National Park. National Park Service men found the dog after a 10-hour search.

PLUS AND MINUS SIGNS MARK A RECORD MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP).—The stock market pursued an uncertain, irregular course in quiet preweekend trading today.

Gains by a few key issues proved enough to shove popular averages toward record levels, but the over-all picture showed gains and losses as pretty much of a standoff. A few wide movers in both directions provided about the only excitement.

Zerox was about 4 and MGM ahead 1¾ just before the close. Kennecott was off 1Z and Anaconda also lost ground because of Chilean strikes. A late flurry of selling in General Dynamics drove the stock down 1⅝.

Trading picked up a bit at the close after moving slowly most of the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.3 million shares compared with 3.57 million yesterday.

Most shares seemed content to move slowly with the weekend trading interruption coming up.

Brokers said stocks were responding more to chart patterns and news of individual issues than in industry trends and such basics as price earnings ratios.

On American Board.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in late trades, with a slight upside edge, as trading continued at a moderate level. Barchris, Belock Instrument, Cenco, Cinerama and Fairchild Camera were up a point or more, while losses hit Universal Controls, Old Town, Royalite, Seeburg and Stop & Shop.

SOYBEANS DOWN ON ESTIMATE ON CROP

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The government's August crop report triggered renewed liquidation of soybean futures today on the board of trade but the grains were affected only slightly or not at all.

Soybeans lost more than a cent a bushel and brokers said the decline would have been much more if dealers had not already pretty well gauged the estimated yield and brought its bearish impact into the market earlier this week.

Some contracts had lost considerable ground as numerous early private advices hinted strongly of a decided bearish government forecast.

Apparently the report contained no great surprises among dealers in the grain pits. Those commodities held generally within small fractions of previous closes.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

Interest rates in the recent recession were higher than in other postwar recessions Now, yields on marketable securities are beginning to rise after 12 months of remarkable stability.

W. H. Kester

The Federal Reserve System took limited action to offset the rise in long-term rates.

The general level of interest rates has been higher in the last year than during previous postwar recession and early recovery periods, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louist states in its current monthly review. Yields on three-month Treasury bills averaged 2.32 per cent in the last 12 months, compared with 1.93 per cent and .94 per cent in the corresponding periods of the 1958 and 1954 recessions and recoveries.

Yields on long-term Government bonds averaged 3.84 per cent in the last 12 months, compared with 3.38 per cent and 2.69 per cent in the comparable period of the two previous cycles, the bank reported.

Bank lending rates also have been higher. The current prime rate is 4½ per cent, compared with 3½ per cent in 1958 and 3 per cent in 1954.

Interest rates have generally risen in the postwar period, as each cyclical decline was less than the previous increase. As a result, interest rates have been relatively high in the last two years compared with those prevailing in the previous 30 years.

In the last 12 months, interest rates on marketable securties have been remarkably stable, the bank said. Rates might have been expected to fall during the recession from May 1960 to February 1961 and to rise during the subsequent recovery.

Money Supply Rises.

The total supply of available funds rose in the last 12 months as a result of the higher rate of personal saving. The money supply plus time deposits increased about 6 per cent. This would normally tend to cause interest rates to fall.

But there was a substantial outflow of funds to other countries last year and the demand for funds from corporate and municipal securities flotations also was relatively large, the bank said. These factors tended to maintain the level of interest rates.

During the first seven months of 1961, the stability of interest rates reflected a rise in both the demand and supply of funds. The outflow of funds to other countries has declined. The demand for credit by business increased along with the pick-up in activity. The Federal Government also added to the total demand for funds as surpluses gave way to deficits.

The stability of interest rates also reflects the actions of the Federal Reserve System. But total bank credit rose by 7 per cent in the last 12 months and the Federal Reserve would have had to add more reserves than it did in order to exert a greater downward pressure on the general level of interest rates, the bank states.

Decline in Bond Prices.

Since President Kennedy asked Congress to expand the defense effort and the Bank of England raised its rate from 5 per cent to 7 per cent on July 25, bond prices in this country have declined sharply. Yields on long-term Government bonds have risen about ⅓ per cent from the average in May. However, yields on three-month Treasury bills have remained fairly steady. The average rate on bills sold this week was 2.366 per cent, compared with 2.322 per cent four weeks earlier and an average of 2.288 per cent in May.

In the last two statement weeks, open market purchases of long-term bonds by the Federal Reserve System have totaled only $17,000,000. Purchases decrease the supply of such bonds, tending to raise prices and lower yields.

The Federal Reserve has also supplied slightly less reserves to the member banks in the last two weeks. Free reserves, or excess reserves less member bank borrowings from the Federal Reserve Banks, averaged $451,000,000 last week, compared with $401,000,000 in the previous week and $587,000,000 in the four weeks in July.

The rise in long-term yields has been attributed to the fear of inflation and the need for more financing by the Treasury.

American Car and Foundry Co.'s plant here will build 100 specially equipped boxcars for $1,250,000 for Norfolk and Western Railway, it was announced today. Ten of the 50-ton cars will be equipped with cushioned underframes.

M'DONNELL NET FOR YEAR SETS RECORD

McDonnell Aircraft Corp. reported earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30 of $12,109,357, a record high and equivalent to $3.54 a common share on 3,425,443 shares. Earnings for the previous fiscal year were $12,087,025, equal to $3.55 a share on 3,402,490 shares.

The company said earnings represented a 3.52 per cent return on sales of $344,413,501, compared with 2.77 per cent on sales of $436,981,100 for 1960. Improved efficiencies and final price adjustments on completion of two major programs contributed to the percentage increase, the company stated.

J. S. McDonnell, president, said the company ended the year with no borrowings of any kind for the first time since June 30, 1948. A $50,000,000 open line of bank credit at the prime rate of interest has been established, he said.

RETAIL SALES DIP IN JULY AFTER JUNE UPTURN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Retail sales dropped by 1 per cent in July after scoring a 2 per cent gain in June, the Census Bureau said today.

The bureau said preliminary figures indicate that sales last month totaled $17,900,000,000 — down $200,000,000 from June. After taking account of trading day differences and normal seasonal fluctuations, sales had advanced by $275,000,000 between May and June.

Stores selling durable goods bore the brunt of the sales drop. Their deliveries were down 2 per cent as sales of new autos dropped by more than enough to offset increases in other lines.

Sales of stores specializing in soft goods were down 1 per cent, although, in this category, sales of department stores increased.

The report was based on a survey of 2000 firms operating 39,000 stores.

LOCAL LOANS DROP

Loans and discounts by St. Louis Clearing House banks decreased $6,933,000 in the week ended Wednesday. Demand deposits decreased $21,237,000, while time deposits increased $798,000. Bond and stock accounts decreased $2,569,000.

BANK CLEARINGS

St. Louis bank clearings for Aug. 11 were $66,200,000 compared with $72,400,000 a year ago.

U.S. GOLD BALANCE UP $75,000,000 BY BRITAIN DEAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The United States gold balance shot upward by $75,000,000 last week as an indirect result of the two billion dollar drawing on the international monetary fund by the United Kingdom.

The increase was the largest since the United States purchased $300,000,000 in bullion from the fund during the first week of December 1960.

The gold stockpile stood at $17,602,000,000 Wednesday night, the Federal Reserve Board reported. The loss for the year to date was reduced to $165,000,000 by the latest boost.

Since late in February the United States gold position was improved steadily due to an improvement in the balance of payments and confidence in the dollar. In the last two years the drain on reserves has exceeded two and one-half billion dollars.

BOND PRICES ARE MIXED ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP) — Bond prices held mixed late today. Over the counter dealers in United States Government securities quoted long bonds up 2-32 to 4-32 and intermediates unchanged to up 1-32 or 2-32. This was a shade better than at the start. Trading activity was at a minimum.

Industrials gained a bit in corporate trading on the new York Stock Exchange. Rails fell as much. Utilities lost most of their opening higher edge.

Avco Convertible 5s fell 4½ at 225 at one time. There were no sizable new issues sold yesterday and none are scheduled today.

AEC ANNOUNCES MAJOR CHANGES IN STAFF SETUP

WASHINGTON, Aug 11 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced a major streamlining of its operating staff today.

The commission said the changes are to improve effectiveness and for "shortening the chain of command and communication with field operations, strengthening the role of the operations of office managers, and relieving headquarters program divisions of the administrative and supervisory burdens."

An AEC spokesman said the action was in no way prompted by the three-death explosion of a nuclear reactor in Idaho last Jan. 3.

In June, the AEC shouldered general blame for the accident. Commissioner Robert E. Wilson said that, for one thing, the AEC's own operations office, inspection division and reactor division had failed to have periodic safety reviews conducted by independent experts. Wilson also criticized the commission itself for failure to lay down clear lines of responsibility for safety and operating decisions.

New Division Setup.

Hitherto Plowshare—a venture aimed at determining the feasibility of using nuclear explosions for such things as carving out harbors and waterways — has been a function of the AEC's division of military application.

Presumably, the new set-up for the project augurs a stepped-up program, when and if the United States decides to resume nuclear tests of any kind.

Furthermore, divorcing the project from a division otherwise devoted to military uses of nuclear energy might well be a bid to re-emphasize the peaceful intent of plowshare.

Another major shift realigns the direction of the programs at the AEC laboratories under an assistant general manager for research and development, in direct contact with the laboratories themselves.

Heretofore, AEC said, formal directions from headquarters have been channeled through operations offices.

The new office will have charge of all non-weapons research and development except for peaceful nuclear explosives.

Functions Realigned.

In a realignment of functions in general headquarters, the AEC said, assistant general managers "will be delegated a greater amount of responsibility for the management of the areas of the commission's operations which are assigned to them."

Named to head the new division of peaceful uses of nuclear explosives was John S. Kelly, formerly chief of such work in AEC's division of military application.

A physicist, he received his bachelor of science degree in physics and mathematics from West Kentucky State Teachers' College in 1946.

From 1948-56, he worked for the Navy, serving first as a project scientist for development of infra-red detection systems, and then as senior electronics engineer in the nuclear power submarine program of the electronics design division, Bureau of Ships.

Aid to Civil Rights Director.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI) William L. Taylor, former congressional representative of Americans for Democratic Action, was appointed today as special assistant to Berl I. Bernhard, staff director of the Civil Rights Commission.

KENNEDY SIGNS CUT IN DUTY-FREE IMPORTS TO $100

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI)—President Kennedy signed a bill today that cuts to $100 the value of foreign goods which each American tourist may bring back duty-free to this country.

The maximum now is $500 a person. The lower allowance will take effect in 30 days and remain in force until July 1, 1963.

Thousands of Americans, including students, who plan to return soon from summer vacations abroad will get under the wire.

Americans now spend about two billion dollars annually on travel expenses and purchases in foreign countries. The Treasury has estimated that the reduction in the duty-free allowance may cut as much as $150,000,000 a year off their purchases.

STRIKE OF 16,000 IN CHILE CLOSES BIG COPPER MINES

SANTIAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—About 16,000 copper miners went on strike today for higher wages at major American-owned mines and brought copper production in Chile practically to a halt.

Workers at the El Salvador and Portrerillos mines walked out after Labor Minister Hugo Galves failed to bring about a settlement last night. Both mines are owned by the Anaconda Co. Miners walked out in sympathy at Anaconda's Chuquicamata mine at the Kennecott Co's El Teniente property.

Quakes in Tristan da Cunha.

TRISTAN DA CUNHA, Aug. 11 (AP)—A series of violent earth tremors has rocked this remote island in the South Atlantic, filling the 230 islanders with fear. The first tremor occurred Sunday evening. Others followed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Quick House Action Expected On Senate-Passed Hijacking Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) —Early House action is expected on a Senate-passed bill making airplane hijacking a federal crime carrying a maximum penalty of death.

The measure was passed by the Senate, 92 to 0, yesterday in a swift sequel to the pirating of a jet airliner over Mexico Wednesday. The House Commerce Committee is preparing a similar bill for possible action by the House next week.

The United States, meanwhile, has sent Cuba a note on the subject of hijacked planes and ships, officials disclosed. The contents of the message were not immediately made known.

The note is in reply to one from Cuba which arrived yesterday, replying in turn to a July 24 United States demand for release of the Eastern Air Lines Electra hijacked to Havana.

In its note, the Castro regime suggested exchanging the American airliner for a Cuban patrol boat in United States hands and an agreement that both sides return property hijacked in the future.

The minimum penalty for plane hijacking in the bill passed by the Senate is 20 years in prison.

The legislation would not apply, of course, to the father-son team of Leon and Cody Bearden who were captured at El Paso, Tex., last Thursday after hijacking a Continental Airlines jet, or to Albert Charles Cadon, Frenchman who hijacked a Pan American jet airliner over Mexico Wednesday and diverted it to Cuba.

Like Treason, Espionage.

(The United Press International pointed out that the bill passed by the Senate puts the hijacking of airplanes in the same class with treason and wartime espionage. UPI said those are the only two federal crimes punishable by death that do not involve actual death or serious injury to innocent persons. Piracy on the high seas carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.)

Lesser penalties are specified for a whole series of other crimes aboard aircraft.

The bill provides for five years' imprisonment or a $5000 fine for passengers who carry a concealed weapon aboard an airplane.

It also gives the airlines authority, under regulations to be prescribed by the government, to refuse to carry any passenger or property they deem "inimical to safety in flight."

Anyone who obtains or attempts to obtain control of an aircraft in flight by force or violence or who assaults, intimidates or threatens crew members so as to interfere with the performance of their duties would be subject to a $10,000 fine or up to 20 years' imprisonment, or both.

If assaults or threats are carried out with a deadly weapon, the minimum penalty would be 20 years' imprisonment. The maximum could be life imprisonment or, if the jury directs it, death.

A section making hijacking equivalent to piracy on the high seas was amended to provide for penalties ranging from 20 years to life imprisonment or death. This part of the bill, applying to hijacked planes flown outside the three-mile coastal limit, originally provided for a mandatory life term.

The bill also provides for a $1000 fine and one year in jail for willfully conveying false information about attempts to hijack planes. This is designed to prevent hoaxes.

The legislation makes it a federal offense to commit murder, robbery, assault and other acts of violence aboard aircraft in flight.

Daggett Howard, general counsel of the Federal Aviation Agency, said the FAA was "working overtime on many angles" to thwart hijackings.

Howard made this comment after Senator Russell Long, (Dem.), Louisiana, chairman of a Senate monopoly subcommittee, gave his own suggestion for blocking airplane piracy.

Long asked if it might be possible to equip airliners with a device which could be turned on by the pilot in the event of a hijacking and put the plane beyond the control of the crew. The Senator said it might be a type of automatic pilot which could be linked to military aircraft which could then control a hijacked plane and land them by remote control like a drone plane.

Howard said automation of airliners may be closer than most people think and commented, "There are not many gaps in the thought you have expressed and something like that might be feasible."

(The New York Times said Pan American World Airways has begun installing crossbars behind cockpit doors on planes flying its Latin American routes. This would make it more difficult for would-be hijackers to gain access to flight decks and directly threaten pilots.)

As noted by President Kennedy at his press conference yesterday, neither of the latest two hijackings was carried out by Cubans but the earlier case of the Eastern Air Lines Electra, together with inaccurate reports about subsequent plane seizures, brought forth demands in Congress for action against the Fidel Castro regime.

The question whether air pirates are acting as agents of Castro or as individuals is of interest to aviation insurance underwriters.

The insurers report that thefts by private individuals are covered by insurance but that thefts by agents of a foreign government are not.

Eastern Air Lines filed a claim for its plane which was diverted to Cuba two weeks ago. The airline claimed insurance coverage saying the incident was perpetrated by a private individual not connected with the Castro regime.

Which viewpoint will be taken by the insurance companies has not been decided.

The principal insurance underwriters of airplanes are Associated Aviation Underwriters and the United States Aviation Underwriters.

KARST SEEKS NOMINATION FOR COUNTY CIRCUIT JUDGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 11—Former United States Representative Raymond W. Karst, 7 Frontenac drive, Frontenac, filed yesterday for the Democratic nomination for circuit judge in the county's new division 9.

Karst, 58 years old, served in Congress in 1949-50 and was a member of the Missouri General Assembly in the middle 1930s. He filed for the position now held by George W. Cloyd of Glendale, who was named by Gov. John M. Dalton to fill the post until November 1962. Cloyd also has filed for election to the position.

'TOOTSIE ROLLS' ARE SHORT IN WEIGHT, U.S. CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI) —The Government has obtained a court order preventing interstate shipment of "Tootsie Rolls" from the Hoboken (N.J.) factory where they are made.

The label on a carton of "Tootsie Rolls" says it contains nine ounces but the candy actually weighs 8.25 ounces, the Food and Drug Administration said yesterday.

The FDA said a temporary restraining order has been obtained from the United States district court at Newark, N.J., against the Sweets Co. of American and its treasurer, Joseph T. Hand.

NEW FARM BILL IS VIEWED AS STOPGAP PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UPI) —The key sections of the omnibus farm bill signed this week by President Kennedy amount to a stopgap solution for a long-range farm problem.

The problem is the farmer's ability to produce more than domestic and export customers will buy. This productive power has left the Government holding about $8,500,000,000 worth of surplus crops piled up under price support programs.

Most of the surplus, about $7,500,000,000, is in wheat and animal feed grains like corn, grain sorghums and barley. The new farm law includes programs designed to cut production of these crops—but for 1962 only.

The law includes no long-range commitment either to controls stern enough to keep grain production in line with needs, or to a move toward reducing surplus production by reducing Government price guarantees. A permanent settlement on this issue has been sidestepped leaving the decision to be made in 1962 or later.

New Law is Compromise.

Like most major congressional moves dealing with the nation's economy, the new farm law is a compromise. Its net effect seems to be a short step in the direction of President Kennedy's policy of boosting farm income through "supply management" programs.

The Administration's plan for a new, permanent system under which farm commodity groups and the Secretary of Agriculture could draft a sweeping variety of control and price support programs was not adopted.

This plan, giving Congress veto power over new programs instead of its present role as the author of farm laws, was rejected by the House and Senate Agriculture Committees.

But the Administration scored gains on two fronts:

In adopting 1962-only programs to trim acreage of wheat and feed grains, Congress adopted formulas prescribed by the Administration.

These formulas call for cutbacks in acreage in return for land-retirement payments to farmers, In addition, co-operating farmers get price supports on their remaining grain acreage at rates above the levels of most recent years. Critics of administration policy maintain that the grain surplus problem can never be solved while supports are held above normal market values.

Congress made producers of turkeys, peanuts, and a number of other products eligible to adopt Federal marketing orders. This is a half-a-loaf gain for the Administration. Under the basic marketing order law, farmers can adopt restrictions on the sales volume of commodity handlers, but they cannot impose direct quotas on the output of individual producers.

List Could Be Cut.

Most major farm products, including livestock products, still cannot use marketing orders. But Congress has changed the entire focus of the marketing order act.

In the past, only a small number of specifically listed commodities could adopt orders. Under the new law, orders can be adopted by producers of all farm commodities except those on a list of specific exceptions.

The list of commodities banned by the exceptions could be narrowed by congressional action in future years. Farm leaders said in both the House and Senate that they would be willing to authorize marketing orders for any commodity when producers wanted the power.

Sections of the omnibus bill dealing with liberalized farm credit and other provisions stirred comparatively little controversy. No basic policy disputes were involved in sections extending a special Great Plains conservation program, the Federal school milk subsidy, and the wool price support program.

There was a strong hint, however, in congressional action on a section extending the food-for-peace program, that many lawmakers think the Administration has been too liberal in using farm surpluses as a form of foreign aid.

DO GOOD FOR ITS OWN SAKE, JUDGE PLEADS IN WILL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11 (AP)—The late Judge Joseph L. Kun of common pleas court counseled his family in his will that "good should be done for its own sake."

"I have endeavored to the best of my ability to follow this course throughout my life and therefore having no appreciable estate can make no charitable bequests in this will," Kun wrote in a six-line, handwritten will offered for probate.

He left his estate—estimated for probate purposes at over $10,000—to his wife, Effye. Most of the will, however, was devoted to Kun's idea of charity.

He expressed the hope that his wife and children would always remember an old Hebrew proverb to the effect that "what one gives to charity in health is gold. What is given in sickness is silver; what is given at death is lead. May they always give in health, as gold."

"If there is such a thing as a life beyond," the judge continued, "it cannot be purchased by alms giving at death. It is what one does in life that counts. Moreover, good deeds by service as well as money should be done not so much for future rewards but for the good they will do for those intended to be benefited thereby."

MEDICAL SCIENCE FOLLOWS LEAD OF WITCH DOCTORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) —Medical researchers are stepping up their world-wide search for the rare plants, herbs and barks used by witch doctors, says Medicine at Work, publication of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

It began about 1950 when American and Swiss scientists came across rauwolfia growing in Africa and India. Investigation of reports that natives chewed the plant roots to calm themselves and overcome certain types of mental depression revealed a chemical called reserpine, which proved effective in easing hypertension.

Annual sales of plant-produced drugs now total about $250,000,000, a five-fold increase in the last 10 years. One company recently sent a pharmacognosist into a Congo forest on a seven-month, 11,000-mile safari in search of a natural source of cortisone.

SALES OFF 4 PCT. IN DEPARTMENT STORES HERE

Dollar volume of department store sales in the St. Louis metropolitan area last week was 4 per cent less than in the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

In the Eighth Federal Reserve District, which includes St. Louis and extends into seven states, department store sales last week were 1 per cent less than in the comparable week of 1960. In the United States, sales were up 3 per cent.

For the four weeks ended last Saturday, department store sales were less than in the comparable weeks last year by 4 per cent in the St. Louis area and by 1 per cent in the Eighth District. In the United States, sales in the last four weeks were up 3 per cent from the volume a year earlier.

For the year to date, sales are less than in the corresponding period last year by 2 per cent in the St. Louis area, and by 1 per cent in the Eighth District. In the nation, sales are up 1 per cent.

2ND DEGREE MURDER CHARGE IN SHOOTING OF WOMAN

A warrant charging John R. Ridley, a coal dealer of 6201A Ridge avenue, Wellston, with second degree murder in the fatal shooting Wednesday of Mrs. Ada Williams, a 49-year-old factory worker of the same address, was issued yesterday by Magistrate Peter J. Maniscalco at Clayton.

Police reported that Ridley, 53, said the shooting followed a dispute over money. He told police Mrs. Williams, who was a widow, became angry and ordered him to leave the house.

Ridley said he took a revolver from a dresser drawer and started to leave. Mrs. Williams blocked the doorway, he said, and struck at him several times with an icepick. He said he shot her in self-defense. Police said Ridley fired several shots, but it was not determined how many bullets struck Mrs. Williams.

HEAD OF KINLOCH SCHOOLS DENIES BOARD'S CHARGE

An audit would show that the $37,000 which the Kinloch School Board has said was "missing or unaccounted for" was spent to pay bills, School Superintendent Sylvester L. Smith said yesterday.

Smith stated that any checks used by the district had to be signed by the treasurer and president of the Kinloch Board of Education. He said he has no authority to sign checks. He said the school board does not realize that three schools were operated this year on the same budget as two were the year before.

He charged that when he was locked out of his office, two filing cabinets from his office and one from the secretary's office were taken. The board has filed a motion to dissolve a court order restraining it from interfering with Smith.

CONSERVATION AGENT FREED IN SHANNON COUNTY KILLING

EMINENCE, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP)—Magistrate Carl Turley ruled yesterday that a Missouri conservation agent acted in self defense when he killed a Shannon county man. Prosecuting Attorney Friend Greene said no further prosecution is planned.

Agent Glenn McCormick shot John Frank Melton April 24. McCormick said Melton attacked him and struck him twice with a rifle, which was discharged, before McCormick fired his revolver.

Two state troopers, Sheriff Hubert Wright, a deputy, two other conservation commission officers and Frank Melton, father of the victim, testified. McCormick was investigating deliberately-set forest fires when Melton stopped him and accused him of trespassing.

URGES UNITY FOR WISCONSIN, MISSOURI LUTHERAN SYNOD

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 11 (AP)—The president of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, appealed last night for unity between his group and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Dr. John W. Behnken of St. Louis, speaking at the Wisconsin Synod's thirty-sixth convention here, voiced hope that the Wisconsin group would continue its fellowship with the Missouri group.

Wisconsin and Missouri synods have differed in viewpoints on church practice.

Dr. Behnken emphasized that the issues had arisen "out of practice, not of doctrine."

CUBA SENTENCES 16 MEN, WOMAN FOR ALLEGED PLOT

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 11 (UPI)—A revolutionary tribunal here sentenced 16 men and women to prison today for terms ranging from two to six years for "preparing a simulated attack" on the United States naval base at Guantanamo.

The military court charged that the pretended attack was to have provided a pretext for armed intervention.

Industry Minister Ernesto (Che) Guevara charged in Uruguay this week that the United States planned to simulate a mortar bombardment on the Guantanamo base July 26 as a preliminary to an attack on Cuba.

FOUR ST. LOUIS GIRLS HURT IN BUS CRASH

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 11—A bus returning 30 young persons to their homes in the St. Louis area after an international Walther League convention in Moorhead, Minn., went out of control on a curve near here today and collided with an oncoming automobile. The car driver was killed and four young women on the bus suffered minor injuries.

Those injured were: Miss Roberta Holzbaur, 21, of the Plaza Square Apartments; Miss Patricia Burke, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Burke, 1415 Topping road, Town and Country; Miss Cathy Koenig, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Koenig, 963 Elmont lane, Crestwood, and Miss Sandra Schubel, 15, of Hillsboro.

Larry Van Sickle of St. Joseph was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Methodist Hospital here, state police reported.

The passengers of the bus were transferred to another and driven to Missouri Methodist Hospital for examination.

The State Highway Patrol said the bus spun around on the highway, sideswiping the automobile, which plunged into a ditch and caught fire. Van Sickle, alone in the car, was pinned in the wreckage.

The bus driver, Raymond Rapps, 31, Labadie, Mo., put out the fire, police said. Preliminary investigation indicated that one wheel of the bus slipped off the pavement, causing the driver to lose control, state troopers reported.

The accident occurred on a stretch of U.S. Highway 36 known as "ten mile curve," 10 miles east of here. The bus is operated by the Mid-America Bus Lines of Washington, Mo.

In St. Louis, the Rev. Charles Peters, pastor of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 4528 Alaska street, said the young persons, who were delegates to the sixty-eighth International Walther League convention, had left Moorhead yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Peters, chairman of Missouri Synod youth work, had also attended the conference but returned yesterday by plane.

SKINDIVING COPS COME UP WITH SIX RIVIERA NUDISTS

NICE, France, Aug. 11 (AP)—Skindiving police wearing fins and packing harpoons instead of pistols broke up a nude sunbathing group at a secluded Riviera cove today.

Like sea lions, the cops waddled out of the sea and arrested four men and two women before any of the nudists had time to don a pair of sunglasses.

Officers said they had been trying for weeks to catch the sunbathers. But each time they raided the cove by land the sunbathers heard them coming and had time to slip into conventional beach attire or dive into the surf and the role of innocent swimmers.

Officers said the group was sunbathing in front of Villa Oralmonde, owned by Mrs. Maurice Maeterlinck, widow of the Belgian author.

Office machines, automobile service equipment, 10 car tires and two radios, with a total value of $1225, were stolen from Frances Auto Sales Co., 5259 Natural Bridge avenue, Frank Cosentino, manager, reported today to police. Entry was gained by forcing a rear door to the office.

Buglars took tools wort $589 from the office of Woermann Construction Co., 2723 (rear) South Seventh street, Edward Pallardy, superintendent, reported. A lock on a door had been pried open.

REPORTER AMONG 4 DEAD IN ARMY COPTER CRASH

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 11 (AP)—Four men, one a Chattanooga (Tenn.) newspaper reporter, were killed yesterday in the crash of an Army helicopter in a lake northwest of Colorado Springs.

The dead were Max Keister, a reporter for the Chattanooga Times; Lt. Kenneth Holt of Las Animas, Colo.; Bell Des Jardins, a civilian employe in the public information office at the Air Force Academy, and C. W. O. Frederick Tate of Atchison, Kan.

CONTEST OPENS FOR 1963 CHRISTMAS SEAL DESIGN

Competition opened here today for the best design of the 1963 Christmas Seal. The Tuberculosis and Health Society said that, after local judging, the best entries will be sent to New York where a $500 prize will be awarded the national winner.

Local judges for the contest, which ends Sept. 18, will include business men and educators. The National Tuberculosis Association co-sponsors the contest with local societies throughout the country.

Specifications and requirements for the seal design may be obtained at the society's office, 911 Locust street, or by calling for a free pamphlet. The contest has been held in St. Louis and St. Louis county since 1956.

CAN FIRE FIREMAN FOR CURSING BUT NOT FOR STEALING

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 11 (UPI)—A city fireman can be discharged for untidiness or swearing, but not for stealing, an Indiana appellate court ruling indicated yesterday.

The court ruled in favor of Lawrence Boger, a Washington (Ind.) fireman discharged from the department in 1959 on charges of "wrongfully appropriating money from a cash box kept in the fire station and converting same to his personal use."

Daviess county Circuit Court had ordered the city to reinstate Boger and awarded him back pay since his dismissal. The appellate court sided with the lower court ruling. The state court noted that the charge brought against Boger was "not one of the examples set forth in the rules and regulations" covering causes for dismissal.

The rules and regulations cited by the court allow the city to fire members of the department for such items as "use of vile and profane language" and "reporting for work in an unkempt, unsavory or untidy manner." Nowhere in the rules and regulations is there a section covering dismissal for theft, the court noted.

U.S. Putting New Emphasis On Internal War, Which Reds Say Is Chink in West's Armor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.

A NEW EMPHASIS in the Government on meeting Communist methods of guerrilla war was indicated in an address yesterday in San Diego by Roger Hilsman, director of intelligence and research, Department of State.

Hilsman pointed out that "the Communists have found what they regard as a new chink in our armor. The new tactic is internal war—using military force not across national boundaries, but inside them."

"Khrushchev has stressed this third approach (nuclear war and conventional war are the others)," Hilsman declared, "over and over again this past year. He sees the possibilities for internal wars in Asia, Africa and Latin America as the best way of using force to expand the Communist empire with the least risk.

"Internal warfare has gained new prominence in Soviet dogma. What Khrushchev calls wars of liberation or just wars are now considered the most promising paths of further expansion.

"SINCE MANY governments are weak, since some are corrupt, since there is much injustice in the world and since Communist conspirators are well-trained and supplied, it is usually fairly easy to take advantage of an internal war to claim that years of blood and terror are in the people's interest."

"A second development," Hilsman said, "is the flexibility and sophistication in tactics of guerrilla terror and subversion. The Soviets continue to sponsor Communist rebellions overtly wherever possible. They also do their best to infiltrate nationalist movements against colonialism."

Hilsman is well qualified to suggest solutions. He was the leader of an Office of Strategic Services battalion that operated behind Japanese lines in Burma in World War II. His group harassed enemy supply lines, blowing up bridges, ambushing and carrying on extensive intelligence operations.

ON THE QUESTION of how to stop the Communists from destroying independent states from within, Hilsman lists three headings: Military security, modernization and reform, and political factors, especially those undercutting a regime's stability.

Hilsman declared it was nonsense to think that regular forces trained for conventional war could handle jungle guerrillas adequately. Their heavy equipment forces them to rely on roads and they tend to cluster together, fighting for strong points and cities.

Speaking from his own experience, Hilsman said: "Nothing pleased us more in those days than to have a regular Japanese force take out after us. They operated in large unwieldy units that were easy to ambush. Their movements were simple to follow through the mountains and jungle. . . . At one stage my outfit, consisting of four Americans and about 200 Burmese, kept a whole Japanese regiment of 3000 men marching and counter-marching over the mountains far away from the front lines."

HE DECRIES the fact that "in the past our military aid programs for countries fighting against guerrillas have often followed the mistaken assumption that all war is similar to large-scale tank and artillery engagements so familiar in Western Europe.

"For effective counter-guerrilla operations we need radical changes in organization, combat doctrine and equipment. Our key units might be decentralized groups of 50 men, self-reliant and able to operate autonomously, fanned out into the countryside. The premium is on leadership, for only men of courage and great skill can make this system work."

The provision of military security through effective counter-guerrilla operations is more immediately important than modernization and social reform in underdeveloped countries, Hilsman believes. Indeed, modernization and social reform cannot be carried out in the absence of security or with an unstable government.

"IN THE LONG RUN, popular support is essential for stable governments and a stable world," Hilsman said. "But in my judgment it would be mistaken to think that guerrillas cannot thrive where governments are popular and where modernization, economic development, and reform are going forward. The notion that the existence of guerrillas is proof positive that the government is unpopular and therefore not worth supporting is even more mistaken. It is, in fact, defeatist."

Hilsman believes there are many things we can do to help responsible governments. Among them, besides training in counter-guerrilla operation operations, are:

Training of police and other forces to cope with lesser manifestations of violence; training in detection and surveillance so as to have timely intelligence of demonstrations or guerrilla operations; encouragement of reformers to organize mass parties; in some circumstances assistance in creating citizens' militia forces; finding easier ways to get assistance to beleaguered states. Once the Communists have made sufficient inroads, they use the concept of state sovereignty to seal off a land from "intervention."

There has been a struggle within the mutual security program for two years to pay more heed to the needs that Hilsman brings out. The requirement has been accepted recently by the State Department, although the Defense Department long has supported it.

Now that an influential official in the State Department is also behind new methods to cope with Soviet internal war, progress could be rapid.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).

MILITARY FORCES of the United States and its allies are in training maneuvers in far-flung quarters of the world as diplomats talk and the Communist crisis deepens.

Washington officials say it is coincidence that the troubled time and training come together. They say big scale military training is planned long in advance.

In West Germany, three battle groups of the United States Army and tactical planes of the United States Air Force have started a 10-day operation.

In this country, up to 30,000 Army troops and a swarm of planes are in the midst of a two-week operation, called Swift Strike, to test airborne and other techniques.

In South Korea—like West Germany, on the perimeter of the Communist empire—2000 troops of the Seventh Infantry Division have teamed up with Republic of Korea units in Operation Sharp Edge. A United States Navy amphibious force, including landing craft and destroyers, is in the operation.

HEADING DOWN the west coast of South America is a Navy force of four destroyers, patrol planes and a submarine, beginning "Exercise Unitas II. Prime purpose of this exercise is to help train navies of eight South American countries in anti-submarine warfare. From time to time, some of the smaller nations in that area make searches for suspected Communist submarines. Exercise Unitas II will continue until early this winter.

A North Atlantic Treaty Organization training operation, Tradewind Five, is under way in the western North Atlantic. This exercise, however, will be essentially a "paper" maneuver, to test out command functions. No big movement of ships is involved. Earlier this summer, United States, Canadian and other ships held exercises in the same area.

Military exercises, because of planning requirements and budgets, are scheduled months and even years in advance.

The big scale exercise of NATO and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are planned a year or two ahead of time, officials say.

Other medium and big scale training operations, by individual countries and by allies, will be held in the next 12 months.

THESE WILL include at least three and possibly four overseas deployments of United States Army and Air Force outfits. These are intended primarily to train and test the readiness for quick deployment of troops to points thousands of miles away. The Army has announced three such overseas deployments will be held between now and next July.

A deployment of more than 5000 troops in 300 transport planes to Europe was scheduled for last May. However, development of tensions in the Far East brought sudden orders to postpone Exercise Long Thrust.

The United States troops and planes in Long Thrust were to have worked with NATO forces in a major maneuver in Germany and elsewhere in Western Europe. The Department of Defense still describes Long Thrust as in a state of postponement. However, prospects are that the plans for that operation will be washed out and another combined NATO maneuver scheduled for perhaps late this year.

The last big NATO maneuver in Europe was Winter Shield II,

By SAM KING

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.

JUDGE JAMES BENTON Parsons won his first case when he was 15 years old. It happened in his home town of Decatur, Ill.

His older brother, who was 20, was in trouble because he was unable to pay for a suit of clothes he had bought. Jim, a high school sophomore, did some fast reading and discovered that a minor could not be held responsible for a debt because he could not make a contract.

Jim presented a petition to the magistrate in the case who, after reading the document, turned to the lawyer for the clothing company that was suing, and said: "Looks like you've lost and this boy has won."

Judge Parsons has been winning ever since.

HIS GREATEST victory came Wednesday when he was nominated by President Kennedy to the United States District Court in Chicago, the first Negro so honored in the continental United States.

Professionally, the 49-year-old Chicagoan is a late-comer. He passed his bar examination at 38, when most lawyers have a practice going. He was elected to his first public office, a Superior Court judgeship, last year at the age of 48.

Parsons, tall and athletically built, has moved from the position of assistant United States Attorney to the federal bench in less than a year. He currently is a presiding judge in criminal court.

Judge Parsons, the son of an evangelist, often speaks with a fervor seldom heard in Cook county courts. His instructions to juries are often sprinkled liberally with such phrases as "you are called here to greatness,"

New I.C.B.M. Said to Suit Soviet's Strategy of Pre-Emptive Attack

Khrushchev Thinks It Is 'Immoral' Not to Gain Politically Because He Has Developed Powerful Weapons.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

THE SOVIETS HAVE NOW TESTED a second generation intercontinental ballistic missile significantly better than the huge, unwieldy though powerful I.C.B.M.s which they have so far had to rely upon.

This news is far more meaningful than Nikita S. Khrushchev's talk about a giant—and wastefully powerful — new H-bomb. It obviously means, to begin with, that the Soviet rocket-scientists have achieved a considerable further advance in their grim art.

The advance they have achieved is not equal to the American advance from the Atlas-Titan type of I.C.B.M. to the successfully tested Minuteman. The Soviet I.C.B.M.s of the second generation, like those of the first, are still liquid-fueled. No doubt this is because the less compact and heavier Soviet H-bomb warheads still demand prime movers with more thrust than the solid-fueled rockets can provide.

But the new model Soviet I.C.B.M.s will at least be considerably lighter and more easy to move about than those which are now operational. The launching pads will be cheaper to construct and perhaps capable of being camouflaged as well. It may well have full inertial guidance, instead of the combination of radio and built-in guidance of the earlier model.

In sum, this is likely to be a very satisfactory weapon for a nation whose military theorists above all insist on the vital importance of pre-emption—meaning the need to strike the first blow if there is any likelihood that any blows are going to be struck.

IF YOUR STRATEGY is based on pre-emptive attack, you have no need to spend vast sums building into your deterrent the strength to survive a first blow, as the United States is doing. For this reason, there is less tactical importance than might be supposed, in the fact that the Soviet technical advance is less impressive than our advance with Minuteman. For the Kremlin's purposes, the new model I.C.B.M. is just about as serviceable as Minuteman for American purposes.

The news that the second generation of Soviet I.C.B.M.'s is now being born is, of course, important. But this news also has another kind of importance which has less to do with the new particular weapon that has been tested than with Premier Khrushchev's individual response to new weapons in general.

Again and again, in a whole series of meetings with Western leaders and diplomats, and most notably in his recent meetings of this sort, Khrushchev has betrayed an almost immature pride and delight in his fearful military hardware. A high school boy with a new rifle or a new motorboat would respond in the same way.

Add to this another Khrushchev peculiarity revealed in his more recent meetings with Westerners. This is his odd way of declaring that it would be "irrational," "wrong," and even downright "immoral" for him to refrain at this time from trying to arrange matters at Berlin to suit himself.

THIS CURIOUS Khrushchev conviction that "morality" now compels him to make a grab for Berlin raises an obvious question. Why did not "morality" compel him to begin threatening Berlin in 1954, or 1955, or 1956 or 1957? The answer, of course, is to be found in the curve of Soviet weapons development, and in Khrushchev's intense, prideful preoccupation with the programs of the Soviet weapons development.

He believes, in fact, that when the Soviets gain an advantage by their progress in weapons development, it is "immoral" not to use this military advantage to make political gains. If the Westerners neglect the balance of power, and if the Soviets work hard to tilt the balance of power

ISRAEL REPORTED TO HAVE FIRED ITS SECOND ROCKET

JERUSALEM, Aug. 11 (UPI) —Israel has fired its second space rocket in the last few days, reliable sources said today.

The sources said the rocket, called Shavit 3, had an altitude range of 100 miles. They said it had one more stage than Shavit 2, the multi-stage rocket which Israel launched July 5 to become a member of the world's space club.

The reports followed publication today of a dispatch in the newspaper Maariv saying that Shavit 3 was ready to fire and Shavit 4 was in preparation. The newspaper said Premier Ben-Gurion had ordered that Shavit 3 not be fired until after Tuesday's general elections so as not to give a political tinge to the launching.

The government explained recently that there was no Shavit 1 rocket, since the abbreviated symbol for such a name would be identical to that of Ben-Gurion's party.

IRAN CORONATION IN 1963

TEHRAN, Aug. 11 (AP) — The Shah of Iran will be crowned on May 14, 1963, at the climax of celebrations marking the 2500th anniversary of Iran's monarchy, it was announced yesterday.

The Shah succeeded to the throne in 1942, but postponed his coronation until the birth of a male heir. Last October, Crown Prince Reza was born.

What After Geneva?

President Kennedy would not say that Ambassador Dean's new mission to the Geneva nuclear test talks will be the "last try," but this was strongly implied in the tone of his press conference remarks on the subject. The West has, indeed, been extremely patient and has made many concessions in the effort to write a test-ban treaty that would include a reliable and non-vetoable inspection system, which is essential. We hope Mr. Dean's new effort starting Aug. 24 will succeed; but if it does not, nobody can say the United States has not sincerely and earnestly tried to reach a reasonable agreement.

The important thing, in the event that the deadlock persists, is what comes next. It would be premature at that point to resume testing. The Administration should, instead, carry its case to the United Nations, making the utmost effort to mobilize world opinion for a test-ban, so that if tests are eventually resumed there can be no doubt where the fault lies.

At some points in his press conference Mr. Kennedy seemed to be suggesting that if Mr. Dean cannot get a test-ban treaty within the next month or so there will not be much point in pursuing negotiations for general disarmament. In our opinion it would be a tragic mistake for the Administration to take this attitude.

Admittedly the middle of a substantial arms buildup such as the nation has embarked on is not the best possible occasion for disarmament talk, but Mr. Kennedy himself has directed Mr. McCloy to continue his negotiations. Mr. McCloy will merely be going through a series of empty motions if the Administration he represents has already decided that disarmament is not worth thinking about without a test-ban treaty first.

It is quite true, as the President said, that a test-ban treaty would be "an admirable beginning in the long road toward general disarmament." But it never has been and is not now true that prior agreement on a test-ban treaty is a condition for agreement on an arms treaty. Disappointing as it would be to fail at Geneva, nevertheless the most serious efforts should continue to negotiate a broad disarmament agreement—which would, necessarily, include a nuclear test-ban at some stage.

It is generally supposed that since the Russians insisted on a vetoable three-man inspection control for nuclear tests they would make the same unacceptable demand for disarmament inspection. Perhaps they would in the showdown, but the fact is they don't say so now. The Soviet Government's note of July 5 said: "If the Western powers accept the proposal for general and complete disarmament, the Soviet Government, for its part, is prepared to accept unconditionally any Western powers' proposals for control." The terms here used allow much room for argument, but they do suggest that if a disarmament plan can be agreed upon an effective inspection system can also be agreed upon.

In any case it is worth a try, and the effort ought to be sincere and strenuous. Mr. McCloy in his meetings with the Russians has not been talking disarmament, but talking how to talk disarmament. Is it possible that he pursues these tactics because, among other reasons, he has nothing really to talk about, in the sense of a fresh, constructive, imaginative plan as a basis for negotiations?

We think the Administration ought to have such a plan. There is a mass of expert findings on the subject which would provide the materials. If the Administration can think of nothing else, it might even go back to the 1955 plan, developed in the United Nations subcommittee, and present that as a basis for balanced, controlled, phased and inspected disarmament.

The 1955 plan has one peculiar characteristic: it was at one time proposed by the West, and at another time accepted in substance by the Russians. Unfortunately the two acceptances did not coincide and the arms race went on. Is this going to be the story again—another round of presenting the same tired proposals, another failure to come together, another step-up in the arms race? We would expect that a fresh Administration which came into office on such a worldwide wave of hope only a few months ago could do better.

New York to Moscow by Air

The State Department's announcement that Soviet Russia and the United States have agreed to establish direct air service between New York and Moscow is good news. As the first direct commercial air link between the two nations, the 5000-mile route across the Arctic has a happy potential for developing better relations. It also means that Moscow, with a keen eye on the world aviation market, has decided now is the time for seeking a share in the trans-Atlantic air routes. With the established superiority of our airliners, we should welcome this challenge as heartily as we welcome the opportunity for better cultural contacts between peoples.

Protectionism: A Folk Myth?

The difficulties many Japanese manufacturers are experiencing in cost competition with manufacturers in other countries, including the United States, throw some interesting light on the protectionist doctrine. They seem to indicate clearly enough that low labor costs are not always necessarily the bogeyman the exponents of infant industrialism have long made them out to be.

Cost areas in which the Japanese are operating at so heavy a disadvantage as more than to offset their advantages in labor costs are, moreover, those in which manufacturers in the United States enjoy marked advantages. Capital supply, which is only the beginning, costs Japanese manufacturers 8 to 10 per cent, their United States counterparts 4½ to 6; and whereas much of the capital requirements in this country comes from plowing back earnings, Japanese industrialists must borrow 60 per cent or more of theirs.

The list of Japanese disadvantages which have their mirror images in United States advantages goes on from there: Raw materials must be imported at high costs, production methods are inefficient, foreign and (still more critically) domestic markets have not been built up to a point at which mass production is feasible, far precluding automation.

Japan's remarkable industrial spurt since the end of the Second World War has come in fields such as transistor radios and chinaware, where raw materials cost a very small part of the finished value; toys, which involve a large amount of handwork, and textiles, for which the Japanese have well-developed domestic and foreign markets and hence can reap the advantage of mechanized methods in mass production—in general, the light industrial field. Where Japan suffers is in heavy industry—steel, bulldozers, tractors, refrigerators, synthetics, machinery, home appliances, petroleum refining, chemicals.

What Japan is finding out the practical way is that low labor costs are not the sovereign advantage the protectionist philosophers assume they are.

If this is so, may it not also be true that the advantages manufacturers in the United States enjoy can be utilized to offset and more than offset lower wages in other countries?

The Right to Feel Safe

Everybody would enjoy "the right to feel safe." It is an appealing "right," and that may be why it was touted before the criminal law section of the American Bar Association by County Attorney Keith Mossman of Vinton, Ia. Indeed, he tried to make it the more appealing by saying that the United States is engulfed in an epidemic of crime while law enforcement officials are "handcuffed" by "a civil rights binge."

This, however, was a "binge" of misleading oratory. There is crime, yes. Given human nature, there always will be crime. But that law enforcement is in any remote danger of being frustrated by "the false and unrealistic application and expression of civil liberties" is poppycock.

When Mr. Mossman is supported by District Attorney Edward S. Silver of Brooklyn and others—for whom this is an old theme—one may well wonder whether they speak primarily because they chafe under the modest and reasonable restraints of the Bill of Rights.

Mr. Mossman argued that "individual rights and freedoms must be weighed against the rights of the general public." The "public," it should be remembered, is an abstraction, and individuals are real. Policemen and prosecutors always deal with individuals. So it behooves them to respect the rights of individuals as much as do the courts. These rights are liable to be violated more often than they are upheld.

The cards are not stacked against law enforcement, nor are they meant to be. Protection against wrongful search and seizure, the right to a prompt and fair trial, the safeguard against cruel and unusual punishment—not to mention such rights as freedom of speech and religion—are not intended to enable the guilty to escape; and where there is good police work, they do not. They were proclaimed for the protection of the innocent. Indeed they come about as close as is possible to establishing Mr. Mossman's "right to feel safe."

Mr. Kennedy's Prudence

President Kennedy honored the responsibilities of his office in agreeing with Vice President Johnson on procedures to be followed in case of incapacity. The law is clear enough about succession in the event of a President's death, but President Eisenhower's illnesses—and his eventual arrangement with Vice President Nixon—revealed the lack of provisions regarding a temporary disability. This could be especially serious if a President were so suddenly and seriously stricken that he could not express his wishes after the event.

Mr. Kennedy's wise arrangement, of course, should not be twisted into a reflection on the current state of his health. Perhaps it was a disinclination to furnish even the slightest tinge of color for such talk that kept both Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Kennedy, not to mention their predecessors, from asking Congress to fill this hiatus in the law. Such a statute will not be needed if succeeding Presidents follow the set example of coming to an agreement such as Mr. Kennedy's shortly after inauguration.

The Kennedy-Johnson understanding might well be their model since it goes even farther than the Eisenhower-Nixon pact in taking account of all possible eventualities. In doing so, it fully protects presidential prerogatives, and it also protects the Vice President against possible accusations of "usurpation" by providing for consultation with other officials. We trust that neither the President nor the Vice President will have to fall back on this document. Nevertheless it is a form of insurance which the President wisely provided for the proper government of the nation.

Ten Days of Grace

U.N Secretary General Hammarskjold has sent out the telegrams announcing a special session of the Assembly on Aug. 21. Subject: "The grave situation in Tunisia obtaining since 19 July 1961."

For all his monarchial disdain of the U.N., Gen. De Gaulle ought to regard his wire as a notice of 10 days of grace in which to quiet the trouble over Bizerte instead of having it—and all its implications—compounded by a U.N. debate in which many of the participants are bound to be critical of France—and probably of other Western governments as well.

The French foreign office already has announced a boycott of the debate. Nothing will be gained by such a display of contempt. Quite the contrary. But France also has again stated a desire "to normalize the situation in Bizerte through a settlement with the Tunisian government." This should be possible. But it will not be accomplished by haughtiness toward President Bourguiba. Fundamentals will have to be faced now, instead of in France's own good time.

There may be situations in which De Gaulle can stand aloof, sure that time is on his side. But he is not alone in this mess. The United States is involved if only because it did not join those calling the U.N. session. Correctly enough, this is regarded as stemming from consideration for France. Yet the Africans and the Asians are fast taking the attitude that who is for France is against them. Because this view is even more emotional than factual, legalistic arguments are not likely to prevail against it.

A parliamentary victory over the friends of Tunisia in the U.N. would be a near-disaster. So the debate might well force the allies of France to range themselves against France, Berlin crisis or no Berlin crisis. Pressure must be exerted to induce De Gaulle to avoid such a misfortune for the West by making good use of his 10 days of grace.

ICA: Making Haste Slowly

The Courier-Journal, Louisville.

Governments are constantly under the gun to make decisions quickly. United States bureaucrats are sometimes understandably envious of a dictatorship's ability to move fast without the delay of endless deliberations in a democratic society. But sometimes too it pays to make haste slowly. An American effort to help The Congo is a case in point. The State Department and the International Cooperation Administration, the foreign aid agency, are sadder, but wiser, for the experience.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

A year ago, as a special gift marking the independence of The Congo, the United States Government established 300 scholarships and training grants to qualified Congolese. The impact on The Congo and elsewhere in Africa was good. But somewhere between germination and realization, the idea ran away with itself and now Washington is involved in trying to undo damage that need never have been inflicted in the first place.

The original gesture was a mixture of typical American magnanimity and a calculated desire to establish some United States influence in The Congo. Talk was in terms of a "crash program." Last February, about 47 young Congolese men, most in their 20's and married but with the rough equivalent of no more than a high school education, were brought to Washington for teacher training.

Almost nobody in the Congolese group spoke more than a word of English. The first job was to teach them. They were enrolled in saturation six-month language courses at Georgetown University, preliminary to their school year of teacher training. But the notice was so short that Georgetown could not house them on the campus and they were installed, dormitory-like, in a couple of midtown hotels. Here the trouble started.

In the hurry to get the program moving, nobody in ICA or State sufficiently anticipated the deep emotional problems that were bound to arise in wrenching these young Africans from their wives and families, transplanting them, almost overnight, into a civilization they had never seen before, in a strange city, whose culture, habits, prejudices and language were completely foreign to them.

There are other Africans in Washington but partly because of their own prideful if defensive choice the French-speaking Congolese were isolated even from them. Virtually their only contact with U.S. officials was their weekly trek to pick up their $8 per diem checks from an ICA functionary.

They were homesick, lonely especially for female companionship and their feelings were not sweetened in learning that Congolese training in Belgium (there are some 4000 there now) had their families with them. The Congolese government was in such chaos at home that it had failed to provide wives of those in the United States with livelihood, as originally agreed, so letters to the husbands were full of complaints. Some wives were virtually destitute.

To make things worse, the selection process fell down somewhere and one Congolese trainee turned up here with a police record from home and continued, unsurprisingly, to make trouble. (He has just been sent back to Leopoldville.) For a mission designed to promote understanding and help train Congolese to help themselves, the project was faltering badly.

Gradually, though, things have begun to improve. The Belgian Embassy in Washington subscribed to Congolese newspapers for the visitors, distributed to them a weekly press summary in French of Congolese events as well. Some Washington hostesses arranged gatherings for the men. In June, the ICA was authorized to pay for basic needs of their families left behind in The Congo—a policy the Belgians were already pursuing.

Perhaps most important of all, a dozen or so students have been moved out of the hotels into Georgetown University dormitories. A French-speaking graduate student has helped them organize a soccer team which has licked virtually all comers. A French-speaking psychiatrist has helped some put their emotional problems into perspective. Some of the Congolese now want to extend their United States stay for a full college education.

Actually, the over-all news on the United States scholarship program for The Congo is happier. Under it nearly 200 students have been studying abroad, mostly in the United States, with success ranging from fair to excellent. The ICA is learning from experience. It realizes now that separating families—especially Congolese families with tribal backgrounds—creates critical problems which must be handled. It concedes its housing plans for the 47 potential teachers were hasty and inadequate and that its failure to recognize that they had social as well as academic needs was a damaging mistake which put the good will and effectiveness of the whole program in jeopardy.

The question is even being asked—though belatedly—inside the Government, was it wise or necessary to ship potential teachers clear to America to learn English when they might have been taught more effectively and cheaply right in The Congo or in some other French-speaking area of Africa or Europe? Congressional insistence on a "Buy American" policy hasn't helped on that point. But as an indication of a new trend, the ICA is committed to provide up to 400 scholarships for students at Lovanium University in Leopoldville next semester.

A thorough reorganization of ICA's structure, now in progress, and long-term foreign aid planning, if Congress permits it, will both do much to avoid such well-meaning but dangerously haphazard projects as this one started out to be. This is highly encouraging but the experience has been expensive, not only in dollars but in damage to human understanding.

RUSSIAN TRANSLATIONS

The Nashville Tennessean

A high-speed electronic "brain" recently demonstrated in Washington is capable of translating Russian into English at a speed of 60,000 words an hour. Such a device is undoubtedly of immeasurable value. But in the case of most Russian speeches, its value would be enhanced by an accessory which could translate what is said into what is meant.

Between Book Ends

The voyage of the sailing yacht Phoenix in July, 1958 into a prohibited zone set up by the Atomic Energy Commission for a series of nuclear tests is the indicated subject matter of this book. However, only four pages are devoted to the period from the decision to enter the zone to the arrest. This was an unspectacular incident because the Navy was prepared for the possible entry into the zone and simply boarded the Phoenix after it got in the prohibited area.

Other than this, the book covers two main areas, the two trials and appeals and, secondly, a convincing recitation of evidence tending to show the deleterious effects of continued nuclear testing. Through it all comes the interesting philosophical question of whether an individual who feels his government is pursuing a morally wrong policy is justified in intentionally violating a regulation so as to publicize his viewpoint. In the end, however, the case against Mr. Reynolds is finally disposed of when the regulation he violated is held invalid on quite dry legal grounds.

The first trial was extremely interesting in that it concerned a layman handling his own trial in a federal court after the judge refused to postpone the trial until the lawyer of his choice was able to attend.

One has the feeling the writer ended up being piqued by our system of justice. This might be because the government agreed on his first appeal that Mr. Reynolds was erroneously denied his right to counsel at the trial, and because, on the appeal after the second trial, the case was thrown out on a ground which was raised on the first appeal but passed over at that time. The law did give him his ultimate victory, however, and he did make a large contribution to the public's understanding of problems presented by continued nuclear testing.

Ann Kilborn Cole, a sort of Duncan Hines of the antique collectors, has written an interesting and practical guide to antiquing with helpful suggestions both for the veteran collector and the novice. It tells something of where antiques come from, what the shops are selling, how to bargain, and the etiquette expected of the antiquer. The seven chapters of advice and information are followed by a directory of dealers.

Letters from the People

The Problems of the Ghetto

Meacham Park, Windermere Place, the West End Community Conference statement, the findings of Father Maher's study for the Ford Foundation—all recently prominent in your columns—serve to underline what becomes increasingly obvious. Our carefully maintained ghetto-pattern in Negro housing is an extravagance which we can neither long nor rightly afford.

Yet the combined pressures of racial prejudice and economic fear are so great, and so easily exploited, that we continue in the dreary cycle of block-busting, speculation, flight, blight, frustration and deeper separation which we know is one serious symptom of a sick city.

Why must timidity call the shots in the matter of where Negroes may live or whom a relatively decent white citizen may encourage to be his relatively decent (but colored) friend and neighbor? So far as the white residential community is concerned, it seems that all our actions are reactions, and ill-considered ones at that, which stem from cultivated fears, and result in an inevitably bitter, potentially violent, rending of the social fabric. Must the many St. Louisans of good will and sound sense be so "realistic" as to do nothing about it?

I should think not. Last fall we saw the remarkable power of local leadership in mobilizing support for a live School Board. In the Stadium project we are witnessing a somewhat analogous effort to assure us a live downtown.

With the problem of the ghetto we face matters much more difficult, but not one whit less urgent for the health of St. Louis. What might not be accomplished if the same caliber of city and county leadership were publicly organized and committed to work for the imperative goal of peaceful and voluntary neighborhood integration?

In the nature of the case this necessary healing of our dangerously split society probably cannot be done by isolated efforts here and there. Windermere Place is splendid, but in its apparent uniqueness too easily dismissed as a sort of unrepeatable freak. Collective timidity in the face of prejudice and economic threat is still far stronger than private hope for a unified community.

What is wanted is a co-ordinated effort for a more rational residential pattern in many city and county blocks at once. Without it we shall not likely check the continued dominance of a shortsighted exclusivism.

The Value of Fuses

In reply to your article on the real estate page of last Friday's Post-Dispatch, it may be true that many fires are caused by faulty wiring and appliances, but that is no reason to condemn fuses. In fact, there is no reason whatsoever to condemn them in favor of circuit breakers; as fuses are still the safest form of electrical protection. Circuit breakers are mechanical and many times fail to operate when they should. A fuse is electricity's safety valve. You can depend 100 per cent on them and that is more than can be said of circuit breakers.

Bob Gund

Black, White and Truth

The present Berlin crisis has produced two types of letters in many of our newspapers.

The first demands to know why this country is willing to fight for the sake of Germans.

The second retorts that anyone who trusts the Russians has the intellectual powers of a dimwit, the backbone of a wet noodle, the patriotism of a Benedict Arnold.

The writers of these letters would do well to recall the words of George Kennan: "Let us beware, in future, of wholly condemning an entire people and wholly exculpating others. Let us remember that the great moral issues, on which civilization is going to stand or fall, cut across all military and ideological borders, across peoples, classes and regimes—across, in fact, the make-up of the human individual himself. No other people, as a whole, is entirely our enemy. No people at all—not even ourselves—is entirely our friend."

DORIS FLEESON

NEW YORK.

THERE SEEMS TO BE NO PERCENTAGE for President Kennedy in New York, no matter what happens in the exploding mayoralty fight. None of the candidates have it made yet in the general election, but it now appears that the best the President can get in this great population center is one of the following trio:

1. A Democrat elected on the Liberal ticket who is hated by the party organization as a renegade (Mayor Robert F. Wagner).

Wagner

2. A Democrat picked by the county leaders and elected on the Democratic ticket whom all liberals view with the deepest alarm (State Comptroller Arthur Levitt).

3. A Republican on the best of terms with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller (State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz).

The latest development is the solid 4-to-1 lead Levitt scored over the mayor in the number of signatures collected on primary petitions. This does not prove that the battle is over for the Democratic nomination. Party machines have turned out the troops before in a primary only to bite the dust in the last engagement. But it certainly suggests that the Mayor must arouse really great popular enthusiasm to turn the tide, and that the public is disappointed with his record in office.

Republican chances continue to rest on the possibility that the residents of New York want a change and feel they cannot get it either from "the new Wagner," free of machine control, or Levitt.

Levitt is able and respected, but so was District Attorney Frank Hogan when the county leaders squared off with the then Gov. Averell Harriman in full view of the public and forced the Hogan nomination for Senator in 1958. Hogan, through no fault of his own, lost in the general election to Kenneth Keating, an upstate Republican.

Pleas to White House.

Supporters of the mayor continue to appeal to the White House for help, but so far no one seems to be able to figure out a way of helping him which will also help the President. An Administration attempt to split the county leaders failed signally a month ago.

The Levitt camp bitterly suggests that the President should and could have taken Wagner off its hands when it became apparent he had lost so much ground with the public. The Kennedy spokesmen reply that no purely machine candidate can get the public's confidence.

In Kennedy quarters it is felt that major blame attaches to Boss Charles A. Buckley of the Bronx, a veteran member of the House, with whom they thought they enjoyed close ties. Buckley has sided with Carmine DeSapio and Tammany Hall, and they were able to take the other three counties of the greater city in with them.

The Rockefeller Vote.

There is argument, too, over what happens next in the Liberal party. Levitt claims its sympathy if not its avowed support. Mayor Wagner feels he has been strengthened by the failure of an independent of that party to get enough nominating signatures for the primary.

The President can always make time nationally by fighting Tammany Hall. What concerns him is that there is absolutely no prospect now that a strong candidate for governor can be named to run against Rockefeller in 1962. Kennedy has not really expected that his potential rival in 1964 would be defeated for re-election; he had hoped that some kind of unity could be achieved which would make it possible to cut down the Rockefeller vote.

Few Democrats now can be bothered even to discuss any big names who might be willing to attempt the campaign against Rockefeller; somehow it just doesn't seem to them worth the effort.

Third Set of Twins.

WATERVILLE, Me., Aug. 11 (AP)—A third set of twins, girls, was born yesterday to Mrs. Robert L. Hamlin, 36 years old, wife of a truck driver. The Hamlins have 16 other children. The oldest is Robert Jr., 19; the youngest are Ricky and Randy, 2-year-old twins. The first set of twins are boys, Mack and Jack.

RUTH STOLAR'S ART AT SHAW'S GARDEN

By PATRICIA KREBS

A show of 20 oil paintings by Ruth Stolar, depicting scenes at Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden, opened there today in the tropical setting of the Floral Display House.

The show will be open daily through Aug. 20. It probably is the first art exhibition to be held at the garden, a spokesman said. It is also Mrs. Stolar's first one-man show.

The Friends of the Garden is sponsoring the show to encourage artists to work at Shaw's Garden. The organization believes that not many persons know they are welcome to do this.

The exhibition represents four or five years of work at the garden by Mrs. Stolar, who chose the spot for its beauty. It is an excellent place to work year round, for in winter the greenhouses afford good light and interesting subject matter, she said. Mrs. Stolar guards against one possible drawback to painting at the garden.

"I come early to avoid the tourists," she said.

In two of the most successful paintings, buildings rather than flowers and foliage are the central interest. "Varied Industry House" contains a spacious view of the center aisle of a greenhouse. A line of hanging pots leads the eye down the top of the composition to the peak of the far wall. The lines are sketchy, the colors are pale and the feeling of the work is light and airy.

A graceful linear composition has been achieved in a study of the ribs, vaulting and glass panes of the water lily propagation house. The drawing is set off by the opaque white used for the panes.

Opaque colors, with heavy admixtures of white, have been used in most of the paintings. The colored areas are flat; the outlines are crisp and curving. Dashes of red provide effective foils to pale backgrounds in a number of paintings. The vivid pink and vivid blue in two paintings of hydrangea beds are less effective, used together as they are.

No attempt at literal delineation has been made. The rendering is free and decorative.

The paintings have been titled after the places they depict. The title were furnished by Ladislaus Cutak, greenhouse superintendent, and he has labeled the corresponding buildings on the grounds so that visitors may compare the paintings to their original subjects.

Anna Walinska's "Exodus" is an outstanding work in the traveling show of water colors at the Central Public Library. Thirty-four paintings, by as many members of the National Association of Women Artists, are on view.

In the Walinska work, strong textural and spatial effects have been achieved with a non-objective paper collage. Pieces of soft, fibrous, light-brown paper have been pasted over areas painted black, and these appear to have been painted over areas of gray and white for the most part. By overlapping all these areas in places, the artist has created a space for the picture that tightly incloses all its elements, and also, a highly pleasing design.

A plastic tempera, rather than water color, appears to have been used in Evelyn Wentz's elegant "Stained Glass Window No. 11." The highly glazed background, which represents stained glass, looks almost like enamelware. A glutinous black substance has been trailed and dripped over this, forming thick, sinuous ridges, for window leading. Tiny, crystalline bubbles have formed alongside them.

Other paintings in the show are conventional water colors, in a wide range of styles. The paintings were shown in Japan last year under an exchange agreement with the Women Artists of Japan, and they began a tour of this country in December. The show will be at the library through August.

WALTER H. GIRDLER JR. DIES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (AP)—Walter H. Girdler Jr., Los Angeles industrialist and son of the founder of the Girdler Steel Corp. in Louisville, Ky., died yesterday in his home. Relatives said he suffered a heart attack. He was 48 years old.

He was vice president of the Girdler company before its merger with Chemetron Corp. of Chicago. He resigned as vice president of Chemetron in 1958 and moved to Los Angeles.

FUNERAL SERVICES HERE FOR MRS. WILLIAM F. MARTIN

Funeral services for Mrs. Gertrude Martin, a long time resident of McAuley Hall, 325 North Newstead avenue, will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at St. Louis Cathedral, 4431 Lindell boulevard.

Mrs. Martin, widow of William F. Martin, died early today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. E. F. Irvin, Chaffee, Mo. She formerly lived at Louisville, Ky. The body will be at the Donnelly undertaking establishment, 3840 Lindell.

Surviving Mrs. Martin, in addition to Mrs. Irvin, are four other daughters, Mrs. Robert C. Rowden and Mrs. Jule P. Miller, both of St. Louis; Mrs. George Ewald, Louisville, and Mrs. R. E. Broe, Springfield, Ill. Burial will be in Louisville.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR J. FREDERICK KNAUP

Funeral services for J. Frederick Knaup, retired production manager of the old Farm Equipment Retailing magazine, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

Mr. Knaup, 78 years old, died yesterday of complications following surgery at St. Luke's Hospital. He had been production manager of the farming publication of the National Retail Farm Equipment Association for seven years prior to his retirement in 1952. Previously, he had been associated with the old Midland Publishing Co. He lived at 7469 Hoover avenue, Richmond Heights.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Amy E. Knaup, and two daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Louise Knaup, both of St. Louis.

MILTON C. KUNZE DIES; OFFICER OF AUTO FIRM

Milton C. Kunze, vice president of Costello-Kunze Ford Inc., 9000 West Florissant avenue, Jennings, died early today, apparently of a heart ailment. He was 31 years old.

Mr. Kunze's wife, Evelyn, said she called an ambulance at about 3 a.m. after her husband complained of indigestion and slumped over when sitting in a breezeway at their home, 4701 Candace drive, Affton. He was pronounced dead at Deaconess Hospital.

Surviving besides his wife, are three daughters, Christine, 6; Marcia, 4; and Patricia, 1; and his mother, Mrs. Estelle Kunze, 4342 Creelman drive, Gardenville.

MORTON D. MAY EXHIBIT IN CHICAGO

By GEORGE McCUE
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—The Art Institute of Chicago opened today an exhibition of German expressionist paintings from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Morton D. May of St. Louis. The collection is on a two-year tour of American museums.

The 100 works in the show include 49 oils and a watercolor by the late Max Beckmann — the largest number of his paintings ever shown here. Twenty other German artists of the early Twentieth Century are represented. The exhibition is distributed through nine large galleries of the Art Institute and will be on view through Sept. 14.

In the foreword to the exhibition catalogue, actor-collector Vincent Price, a former St. Louisan, describes the May German expressionist paintings as "the most varied and comprehensive collection in existence today." Otto Karl Bach, director of the Denver Art Museum, wrote in a brief essay on the movement that the Mays have assembled "unquestionably the most complete collection of Beckman's work in existence at this time."

Chicagoans at a preview of the show yesterday took special interest in a number of early Beckmanns, in a forceful style that foreshadows his mature manner, but is more pictorial and narrational. His enormous "Sinking of the Titanic," done in 1912, and the 1902 "Destruction of Messina," are both storytelling works, done with many figures and given epic staging. The later works usually are held to two or three figures which often nearly fill the composition.

The May collection was brought to Chicago from the M. H. De Young Memorial Museum, San Francisco. Previously, it was exhibited at Denver, Los Angeles and San Diego. From here, it travels to several eastern cities.

Next year, a part of this group will be combined with German expressionist works from other collections for a show at Boston, arranged by Perry T. Rathbone, director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and former director of the St. Louis City Art Museum.

Mr. and Mrs. May and their son, Morton J. May II, were in Chicago for the opening.

'MET' AND UNION HOLDING SECOND DAY OF TALKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Metropolitan Opera representatives and musician union leaders met today in an effort to settle a labor dispute and reinstate the Met's canceled season.

The talks, spurred by an appeal from President Kennedy, were being guided by federal and city mediators. Yesterday's session lasted four hours.

The Met gave no assurances that the season, which had been scheduled to start Oct. 23, could be restored even if an agreement was reached. The opera twice has canceled seasons because of labor disputes, only to reinstate them when a settlement was made.

Mediators said the talks between opera executives and Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians were exploratory. The union has demanded a $78 a week rise. The Met, which loses money each year, said it could not meet such an increase.

G. W. MITCHELL NOMINATED

Mitchell would complete the term of M. S. Szymczak, who has resigned. The term expires next Feb. 1. Mr. Kennedy had announced June 27 that Mitchell would be given the post. Mitchell, a Democrat, has been vice president in charge of research of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank.

JULIA PETERKIN DIES, WON PULITZER PRIZE

Her novel, "Scarlet Sister Mary," was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1928. Her other works included "Green Thursday," "Black April," "Bright Skin," and "Roll, Jordan, Roll."

Mrs. Peterkin contributed to numerous magazines.

She was born in Laurens, S. C., and attended Converse College, where she received her bachelor, master's and doctor's degrees. She lived at Fort Motte, near Orangeburg.

Surviving are a son, William G. Peterkin of Fort Motte; two grandsons, William G. Peterkin III and J. Preston Peterkin, Fort Motte; a brother, Dr. A. H. Mood, Sumter, S.C.; two sisters, Mrs. A. P. Burgess, Asheboro, N.C., and Mrs. Laura Mood Schneider, Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services will be held late today at St. Matthew Episcopal Church. Burial will be in the family plot there.

AMERICAN LAW STUDENT GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

Thomas D. Phelps, George Washington University, Washington, was elected president of the American Law Student Association yesterday. He succeeds James D. Batchelor, University of Oklahoma, Norman.

Other officers elected to one year terms by voting delegates attending the association's meeting at the Ambassador Hotel include Howard H. Kestin, Rutgers University, executive vice president; Joe T. Hood, University of Texas, second vice president; Fred J. Wilkins, University of Kansas, secretary, and John O. Jones, University of Oklahoma, treasurer.

Dr. Thomas G. Thompson Dies.

SEATTLE, Aug. 11 (AP)—Dr. Thomas G. Thompson, founder and for 20 years director of the University of Washington School of Oceanography, died last night after a two-year illness. He was 70 years old. He won the Alexander Agassiz gold medal of the National Academy of Sciences in 1948. He was elected to the academy in 1951.

"Our Pension Dollars Buy Less and Less"

Their days in the shop are over . . . but they have a lot left . . . including their pride, their self-respect . . . as well as their strong ties to UAW Local 25.

Since 1950, when the UAW first negotiated pension agreements with GM, more than 400 people have been retired on pensions here. We share their pride in their self-reliance, for they have not been a burden to anyone—their families or the community. They have made their own way, paid their own way, spent their money right here in the community that they and you call home.

It hasn't always been easy for these folks. Living costs have gone up almost 25 percent since 1950, but, unfortunately, pension increases haven't kept pace. The UAW seeks an increase in pensions in its current negotiations with GM so that these people—your neighbors—can maintain their prideful, self-supporting role in our community.

Good health costs more when you reach pension age, too. Every dime of health insurance costs for GM pensioners comes out of their too-small monthly pension check. (In St. Louis, the average GM pension is about $72.50 a month.) The UAW is asking that the Company assume the cost of health insurance for those on pension.

Redbirds Looking Up--to Dodgers--After 8th Straight Triumph

Sadecki Tops Bucs, 3-2, Wins 10th Game

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

BILLINGS, Mont., Aug. 11 — The Red Bird Express made a brief stop here for an exhibition with the Cardinal farm club this evening, but the eyes of the players were focused on the Coliseum in Los Angeles.

The Cards take their eight-game winning streak — longest since 1957—into a head-and-head battle with the league-leading Dodgers tomorrow night for the start of a three-game series that could shake up the pennant race.

Ray Sadecki won his tenth game and reached a two-year career high last night when he polished off the Pirates, 3-2, before a gathering of only 13,812 disenchanted Pittsburgh fans.

The victory moved the Cardinals into a virtual fourth place tie with the Braves and gave manager Johnny Keane a fine 23-12 record since he succeeded Solly Hemus. Milwaukee's winning percentage is .51428 to the Cardinals' .51376.

Keane, who used southpaws Curt Simmons and Sadecki to tame the 1960 world champions, has his righthanders all set for the Dodgers. Larry Jackson goes tomorrow night, Bob Gibson Sunday and probably Ernie Broglio on Monday night.

Two Unearned Runs.

The Cards' picked up their eighth win in a row on brilliant defensive work and some scratch hitting that won't show in the box score. The last two St. Louis runs were unearned and nullified a fine pitching performance by Earl Francis.

Sadecki gave up a first inning run and another in the ninth inning when Roberto Clemente slammed a right field homer (No. 19) but, in between, he held off the Pirates.

Bill Virdon and Don Hoak started the game with singles, but Bill White scooped Clemente's shot and turned it into a double play and took the return throw at first. Dick Stuart singled to left for the run.

The Cards tied it in the second when Ken Boyer singled and made a smart play by tagging up and going to second on Stan Musial's long fly. Carl Sawatski sent a broken bat single into short left and Boyer came in.

Charlie James reached first when Hoak threw wild on his grounder to start the fifth inning and Curt Flood ripped a drive down the right field line. Clemente played it expertly and threw a strike to second to cut off Flood's bid for a double but James went to third.

Sadecki Comes Through.

The infield came up close and Sadecki's liner was just out of Bill Mazeroski's reach as James tallied. The final run was a pure gift, but it turned out to be the winning margin.

Julian Javier singled to open the seventh and took second on a passed ball. Two outs later he was on third base when Boyer ripped a drive that Hoak bobbled, then threw high but Stuart dropped it for an error as Javier touched home plate.

After Clemente's homer opened the ninth, Sadecki nailed Stuart and Mazeroski, but Dick Groat singled through the box. However, Sadecki flagged down Joe Christopher's shot and threw him out.

Redbird Notes

The Cards turned in three double plays, twice getting Clemente but on Bob's third trip, he singled . . . From the third through the seventh, Sadecki faced 15 batters, double plays twice stopping the Bucs . . . Bill Virdon, the ex-Cardinal, greeted Sadecki with a single and his lifetime mark went up to 995 hits.

Harry Fanok, a righthander from the Card farm in Tulsa, will pitch for the Red Birds tonight in the exhibition with the Class C Pioneer League team.

Although Musial went hitless in four trips, he still has a .407 season average against the Pirates . . . Cardinal pitching has allowed 11 runs in the last seven games.

Clemente robbed Sadecki after Flood drew an intentional walk to load the bases with two out in the sixth, racing back to stab the Cardinal pitcher's shot on the run.

The Cards, who gave the Pirates trouble a year ago by holding them even in 22 games, now have a 9-6 edge for 1961 . . . Roy Face appeared in his forty-sixth game.

Sadecki helped himself when he grabbed Francis's bunt in the second inning with one out and two on and threw a strike to Boyer for a forceout.

Metropolitan Junior Golf Entries Closed

No more entries will be accepted for the Metropolitan Junior golf tournament scheduled to be held in Forest Park, starting Aug. 21, Merv Clark, tournament chairman announced.

Sadecki Gambles and Wins

Pittsburgh's DICK GROAT is forced out at third base on a close play in the second inning of the Pirates' game with the Cardinals. Redbird pitcher RAY SADECKI fielded Earl Francis's bunt and threw to third. KEN BOYER made the putout. The Cards won, 3-2.

Arthur Ashe Upset, Parker Also Beaten In Jaycee Tennis

Second-seeded David Reed, from Glendale, Calif., whipped another St. Louisan, Jim Parker, 6-2, 6-1, to gain the other berth in the boys finals to be played tomorrow.

Belekin, a native of Montreal, who was the 1960 U. S. Lawn Tennis Association national boys division champion, was fourth-seeded in the Jaycee tourney.

He whipped Ashe, national interscholastic champion, 6-4, 6-4, in the top semifinal match of the boys' 18-and-under division.

Second-seeded Barbara Mueller, Mequon, Wis., was upset by Sharon Pritula, in the same division.

In the boys 15 and under class yesterday, Charles Darley, Iowa City, came through with a thrilling 7-5, 1-6, 12-10 victory over top-seeded Bill Harris, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Ashe whippe Jim Beste, Baton Rouge, 6-1, 6-1, yesterday to go into semifinals.

Belkin had gained the next-to-last round by whipping unseeded Bill Brown, Omaha, Neb., 6-2, 6-8, 6-3. Reed had beaten Ed Turville, St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-1, 6-2, in the quarterfinal round and Parker had taken the measure of Mickey Schad, Louisville, Ky., 6-4, 6-2.

McKinley Battles Holmberg

The first half of the semi-final flight was completed in brilliant style yesterday when Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., a pair of 19-year-old aces, turned in eye-popping performances.

Ralston, seeded fifth, defeated James Shaffer of St. Petersburg, Fla., 7-5, 6-2, while Froehling ousted Mike Green of Philadelphia, 10-8, 6-4. Ralston got off to a slow start against Shaffer but stepped up the pace in the second set and had the crowd gasping with his brilliant play. Froehling had trouble with his service in the first set but in the second set his sharp baseline drives proved too much for Green.

Dodgers Defeat Grays to Win Muny Loop Title

Charley King's three-run double sparked a seven-run second inning that sent the Dodgers to a 9-7 victory over the Grays and gave them the first-half championship of the Western Division of the Muny Baseball Association's Metropolitan League.

The playoff was necessitated when the two teams ended up in a tie for first with 9-3 records.

Marion Tillard joined King in leading the winning attack with three hits in five times at bat and two RBIs.

The St. Louis Cubs will meet the Grays at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at Vashon Center in a game that could go a long way toward breaking the three-way tie in second-half Western Division play.

The Cubs, Grays and Dodgers for first place in the division's second-half race. Each team has a 7-3 record. The Dodgers will meet the Monarchs at 12:45 there in a makeup game.

In Muny Association action tonight, the Kimacks, who have clinched the South Side Traveling League title, will meet the Diamonds, who are still in contention for second place and a spot in the playoffs, at 8:15 o'clock at Carondelet Park No. 1.

Dascoli Apparently First Umpire Ever Fired During Season

CINCINNATI, Aug. 11 (AP)—Controversial umpire Frank Dascoli was fired yesterday by National League President Warren Giles in an action that apparently was unprecedented in modern day major league baseball.

A spokesman for the National League said he could recall of no such instance of an outright dismissal of an umpire during the season.

Giles said Dascoli's dismissal came about because recent remarks attributed to the umpire "makes his continued employment incompatible with the best interest of our umpiring staff, our office and the league."

Back in 1952 Umpire Douglas (Scotty) Robb quit after it was reported he was fined more than then St. Louis Cardinal manager Eddie Stanky and Solly Hemus, then a Cardinal player, after a ruckus over a called third strike on Hemus. Robb later joined the American League.

Hemus also had figured in Dascoli's troubles.

Giles made it plain there was no question of Dascoli's integrity or impartiality on the field.

Controversial Figure.

Dascoli was registered at a Cincinnati hotel last night but he could not be located for comment.

Dascoli, a resident of Danielson, Conn., joined the National League umpiring staff in 1948. He has been a subject of controversy among players, managers, fans and league officials many times during his tenure.

Several weeks ago he and Hemus, since-ousted manager of the St Louis Cardinals, got into a dispute before a television audience. Hemus called Dascoli "arrogant." Dascoli called Hemus "a busher." Both were reprimanded.

Last week, columnist Murray Olderman of the Newspaper Enterprise Association wrote a story quoting Dascoli as saying "Games . . . have gotten completely out of hand because he (Giles) refuses to back us up."

Olderman quoted Dascoli as saying he would quit at the end of this season.

Last weekend, Giles and Dascoli went into another of their many conferences here and a statement was issued in which Dascoli was quoted as saying he denied ever making such statements.

It was learned tonight that Olderman later told Giles's office the name of the restaurant where the conversation took place and gave further details. In New York, Olderman said, "Dascoli made every statement which I attributed to him."

FRANK DASCOLI

Denied Other Quotes.

It was also learned that on other occasions when Dascoli has been called on the carpet for his remarks he claimed he was misquoted.

Giles's dismissal statement said: "His (Dascoli's) integrity and impartiality on the field have not been, nor are they now, questioned and in no way contribute to this decision."

(Robb, now in business here, told the United Press he would not discuss any similar disagreements he had with Giles before his resignation.

("I will say this about Dascoli, though," Robb remarked. "He's a good man. A bit high-strung, but a good man. I can't see Giles firing him. I broke in Frank while umpiring in the International League and he's one of the best.")

Cards Sign Hal Smith's Brother

Tommy Smith, 18 years old, brother of ailing Cardinal catcher Hal Smith, was signed to a Cardinal contract yesterday and given what scout Fred Hawn called a "substantial bonus."

The Cardinals never announce bonus figures, but Smith was expected to receive about $20,000.

Like his brother, Tommy is a catcher. He stands 6-3 and weighs 200 pounds and, as a formality, was assigned to the Cardinals' Winnipeg (Man.) farm club.

He won't don a uniform until next spring, when he will report to St. Petersburg, Fla., for special instruction under his brother, who is now a Cardinal coach.

Then he will go to Homestead, Fla., to be assigned to a minor league club.

Hal Smith retired from the active ranks this season because of a heart ailment but was retained in a coaching capacity. He was signed by Hawn in 1948 and worked up through the Cardinal chain, then spent five years with the parent club.

His younger brother is a good hitter, having batted .469 the past season in American Legion baseball. Besides catching, he played third base and pitched.

The Smiths live at Barling, Ark., about five miles southeast of Fort Smith. Their father, Ronald Smith, is a grocer. Tommy was graduated from Fort Smith High School last spring.

Jake Gibbs Belts 3rd Homer in Week

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 11 (UPI)—They may have to rewrite the "book" on Jake Gibbs, Richmond's $100,000 bonus boy. Until a week ago, Gibbs, the former University of Missisippi All-American football player, had been considered more or less of a singles hitter. But he has started to reach the fences.

Gibbs hit his fifth homer—and third within a week—during the eighth inning of a nightcap with Toronto last night to give the Virginians a 6-4 victory. His homer came with one on. Toronto won the opener 6-5.

Little Fellas

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Just as vacation started, Eddie Gaedel died. Eddie Gaedel was the midget who went to bat once in major league baseball, if you could call the St. Louis Browns of 1951 a major league team.

The plot was written years before that by Jim Thurber, but Bill Veeck, who signed Gaedel to a contract, always swore the idea was original with him and said he hadn't read Thurber's yarn until after he had arranged for life to mirror art.

Both in fiction and in fact, the deed was done in St. Louis. In Thurber's story, "You Could Look It Up," a midget named Pearl du Monville, signed to a proper contract, was sent to bat with two out in the ninth inning and the bases filled, the tying run on third.

Pearl's orders were to get a base on balls and force in a run, but after throwing three balls the pitcher eased one up with an underhand lob, so soft and tempting that the midget swung. He grounded out, ending the game.

On Aug. 19, 1951, Eddie Gaedel went to bat for the Browns against the Tigers and did draw a walk from Bob Cain, who couldn't find the tabloid strike zone. Eddie was replaced by a pinch-runner.

Amidst screams of "Sacrilege!" from baseball's stuffed shirts, Will Harridge, then president of the American League, voided Gaedel's contract, but never did define legal size limits for players. Eddie measured three feet, seven inches.

Well sir, Eddie's death reminded Dick Reynolds, of Providence, R.I., of still another case in which a fingerling pinch-hitter won renown. Odd how often lively minds run in similar channels.

How Tall Is a Midget?

Seems there's a little squirt out of Providence who is the world's midget rassling champion right now, though this is a fairly fuzzy title and will remain so until somebody answers the question: How big is a midget?

Suppose Conn McCreary or Willie Shoemaker were to switch from the race track to the rassling mat? Would they qualify as midgets or dwarfs or pygmies, though they are perfectly formed, or would they have to take on Antonino Rocca?

Anyhow, the midget rassling champion of the world performs under the name of Sonny Boy Cassidy, but his square name is Larry Tattersall. He's a trifle over four feet tall, about six inches longer than Eddie Gaedel.

In 1948 he was hailed as the smallest pinch-hitter on the globe after he had won a game for North Providence High school. This was three years before Eddie Gaedel burst into the big league scene.

Tat is a natural athlete who played high school hockey and basketball as well as baseball. He was on the bench that day in 1948 when North Providence loaded the bases against Woonsocket in the last of the ninth with the score tied, two out, and a weak hitter due at the plate. Dick Flynn, the North Providence coach, waggled a finger at Tat, who leaped down from the bench, picked up a bat approximately as long as himself, and shaped up for instructions.

Tat at Bat

"You're on your own," Flynn said, "but keep away from that umpire. He's so blind he'll trample you to death."

The umpire was Hank Soar, now an American League veteran but then a refugee from the New York football Giants coaching the Rhode Island State College backfield and trying to break into baseball.

"I'm the hitter," Tat said.

Soar wheeled to bellow toward the North Providence bench. "Get this kid outta here, Flynn. He's too low for an umpire."

"Don't be silly, Albert Henry," Flynn said. "There's nothing too low for an umpire."

The Woonsocket pitcher did his best, but the first three deliveries were too high for Tat's tidy little strike zone. Gus Savaria called time. He was coaching Woonsocket. He is a solid baseball man, justly respected for sending Clem Labine to the big leagues.

Point Counterpoint

Savaria spoke to his catcher. "Kneel down," he said, "and give him a target." The catcher knelt, and the pitcher got two strikes over. The count was three and two when Flynn called time.

"Lie down and give him a target," Savaria told the Woonsocket catcher.

Everybody gave it his best Sunday try, but the Woonsocket pitcher missed the strike zone, Hank Soar said "Ball four," and the winning run crossed the plate for North Providence.

Randle Eager to Try Big Red's New Flanker Offense

Receiver Regaining His Speed

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 11—Sonny Randle is regaining the zip in his legs, and he is looking forward to the football Cardinals' prospective switch to the flanker style offense this season.

The flashy Virginian, a split end, made all-pro last season when he was the top touchdown-pass receiver in the National Football League.

During that campaign, the Cards used a lot of double-wing stuff that kept both halfbacks relatively close to the center of operations. Randle was often the only wide-spread potential receiver.

But now that former defensive halfback Billy Stacy has shown possibilities as a flanker back—a wide position to the side opposite Randle's—the flanker formation may be used more extensively, even at a cost to the running game.

This flanker style is more or less the standard pro offense of the present day. Randle expects it to make a difference in the Cards' aerial efficiency—the bombing attack that must augment the frequently rugged going in the ground game.

Conrad Also Threat.

"They (the opposition) won't be able to overload the defense on one side as they did last year," said Sonny. "And I told Stacy that if he keeps catching the ball as he has been, I'll be taking the pressure off him, instead of his taking it off me.

"Another thing—keep your eye on Bobby Joe Conrad as a flanker back, too. He has good moves and even more experience than Stacy has at that position because he ran it last year when we used it to some extent."

Despite a blow in the ribs at Toronto, Randle's spirits were rising, and he can grin at all the wisecracks now, including the joshing he got when Stacy outran him in early camp sprints.

On three occasions, at about 50 yards, an overweight Stacy edged the Virginia speedster, once with a five-yard handicap, and then twice at scratch.

People smilingly recalled the remark of baseball Cardinal catcher Hal Smith at St. Petersburg, where Randle was employed to advise the diamond Redbirds about running.

"Stick with me, Sonny," Smitty had said, "and I'll make you the slowest end in the National Football League."

Randle was on his feet a lot at St. Pete, he recalled. Then later in the spring, he did a lot of running himself as he coached at John Burroughs School in St. Louis.

"I was working out for two months before I came to football camp this summer," Randle said.

It turned out that he had got into condition too soon. His weight dropped from 206 to 185. Apparently overtrained, he found here he didn't have the usual spring in his legs. But when he suffered a slight rib injury at Toronto and then was relieved this week from some of the hard work, his zip began to come back.

Stacy Trimming Down.

Meantime, though, it had been painful in the pride department for the stylish speedster to be outrun in sprints by an overweight, ex-defense halfback who runs with an odd sort of gait, perhaps a carry-over from his hurdling at Mississippi State.

"Hey," said Stacy, "that overweight business is a sore point with me."

Looking fat but really healthy now after his jinx sophomore season as a defensive halfback, Stacy has been ordered by head coach Frank Ivy to cut his weight from his off-season 210 to 190. He is at 197 right now.

"I haven't lost my speed," Sonny warned, talking about his flat spell. "At Burroughs this spring, when I weighed 206 pounds, I ran a 10-flat hundred on the grass against one of the boys I was working with—Jack Biggs."

But the camp joshing has given both players some goals to work for, and Stacy's shift to the offense has been encouraging.

"Learning the pass patterns hasn't been as great a problem as how to set up the pass cuts to outmaneuver the defensive back," Stacy said.

"You can't do it with speed alone. For instance, we've got one of the best defensive backs in the business—Jimmy Hill—and when you try to outrun him deep, it hardly can be done. You have to try to outmaneuver him—learn when to cut, to slow down, to speed up, to take advantage of any moment when he may be off stride."

If Stacy can develop, though, and if Conrad can play the flanker spot, too, split end Randle will be delighted.

"Remember our games with the Eagles last season," he said. "Whichever side I went they revolved their defensive backs—the corner back playing me short and the safety taking me when I went deep. I got shut out (no passes caught) in Philadelphia and I caught only two or three in St. Louis.

"But if Stacy and Conrad come through as flankers, it'll be different. The Eagles, or anybody else, won't be able to play that defense. I noticed last year that Philadelphia went back to straight coverage the week after we played the Eagles at St. Louis. Their game was at Pittsburgh. The Steelers had Buddy Dial on one side and Jimmy Orr on the other, and the Eagles' defensive backs had to play it straight-away."

Further rest and heat treatment have been ordered by doctors for sore-armed quarterback Sam Etcheverry, who has returned from a medical check-up in St. Louis. The former Canadian star said examination showed some roughness in the right shoulder socket tissues.

Etcheverry thus has been further delayed as the Cards prepare for the Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital game against the Green Bay Packers next Friday night at Busch Stadium, St. Louis.

St. Louisan Benecke Released by Cards

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 11 Ernie Benecke, 19-year-old former football star at DuBourg High School who never played college ball, has been cut from the grid Cardinals squad. He was trying to catch on as a place-kicking specialist.

Benecke, whom the Cardinals said lacked experience to play either offense or defense, had kicked three extra points in five attempts last week against Toronto in the Big Red's first exhibition game. He missed on three field goal attempts in that contest.

The Cardinals said that because of the 36-player limit, they could not carry a player who only could be used for place-kicking.

Marcella Rose Shoots an 80 In K.C. Open

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 11 (UPI) — Veteran Louise Suggs took a three-stroke lead into today's second round of the $7500 Kansas City Women's Open golf tournament.

The Atlanta (Ga.) perfectionist fired a two-under-par 72 yesterday in the opening round of the 72-hole tournament over Kansas City's exacting Brookridge Country Club course. The temperature hit 92 as Miss Suggs finished the front nine in 35. Coming home, under a sweltering sun and punishing humidity, she climbed to a 37.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth was the low amateur for the first round with a 39-40—79. Marcella Rose of St. Louis shot an 80 for the second best score by an amateur.

Rieser New Muny Junior Net Champ; Shares Doubles Title

By Harold Flachsbart

Gary Rieser, a 16-year-old from DuBourg High School who is growing up in inches and in tennis authority, today held two municipal titles.

The high school star, just a year out of the boys' division, won probably the biggest prize of them all when he defeated Claude Bakewell Jr., son of the St. Louis postmaster, 6-1, 6-0, for the Junior singles title yesterday.

"It naturally was my biggest win in the Junior division," said Rieser. And it was surprisingly easy in the heat of the afternoon, after matches scheduled in morning were delayed because of thunderstorms.

Doubles were played first at the Washington University courts and Rieser was a victor there, too, paired with Harry Burrus, Jr., in a 7-5, 7-5 victory over Bakewell and Danny Singer. The doubles titlists also had won District honors earlier this year.

Over in Forest Park, on the Jefferson Memorial courts, where play also was delayed because of rain, Frank Connor won the 15-year-old boys' title by defeating Bill Horwitz, a brother of a former Washington University star, 6-4, 6-4. And in a hotly-contested 13-year-old boys' final, Billy Simpson edged Bob McKinley, a brother of Davis Cupper Chuck McKinley, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

The kids played with great sprit, nice lobs and occasional hard drives, but the junior class seemed to be missing the stars of recent years such as Butch Buchholz and Chuck McKinley.

One of the stars of Muny junior play was Pamela Foxworth, daughter of former boxer Box Foxworth, who won the title in the girls' 15-year-old singles division and was runner-up in 15-doubles, but was defeated by Patty Mersinger, 6-4, 6-2, in a try for the 18-year-old title, too. It was asking too much.

Rieser previously had advanced to the Men's Muny final. He's just half an inch short of being 6 feet tall and he's growing, and his strokes are improving by leaps and bounds.

Ex-Buds Pull Out Of League

By John J. Archibald

Don Carter and Co.—the bowlers usually referred to as "the former Budweisers"—will not compete in St. Louis during the coming season. Pat Patterson, who captained the Buds until they lost their sponsorship May 31, said the group had notified the B.P.A. Champions League that they had changed their minds about shooting in the loop that will start next Tuesday.

"We had hoped that we would have a satisfactory sponsor by this time, or that we could make arrangements for most of us to be available for the weekly league sessions," Patterson said, "but we now realize that it would not be practical. With the 17-tournament schedule lined up by the Professional Bowlers Association starting in January, there would be too many weeks when we would not be back in St. Louis to bowl." None of the 17 tournaments will be held in St. Louis.

The former Buds include Dick Weber, Ray Bluth, Tom Hennessey, Bill Lillard, Chuck O'Donnell, Carter and Patterson. They won the Champions League title for three successive seasons.

Patterson said that the ex-Buds would arrange to have a strong team replace them in the league and that this quintet might be sponsored by Don Carter Bowling Gloves.

"We hope that some of us will be able to fill in with this team occasionally," Patterson said. "Our plan at one time was to have a 10-man team that would include those of us who bowled as the Budweisers, but we feel now that it would be better to let five or six other men operate as the team and not count on us at all."

Patterson said that while the new club's roster was not definite, the bowlers on it would probably include O'Donnell, Jerry Tharp and Dick Volling.

Grid Little Leaguers Register Tomorrow At Three Locations

Registration for the South Side division of the football Cardinals Little League will be held tomorrow at three places.

Boys living in the Jefferson Barracks area should report to Mathews field at 11 a.m. Those living in the Lemay area should report to Heine Meine field at 1 o'clock. Boys from the Carondelet district can report to Holly Hills and Grand Drive picnic area at ^ p.m.

The league will be broken into five age groups for boys from 7 to 9, 9 to 11, 11 to 13, 13 to 15 and 15 to 17. Coaches who have teams already formed should call TW 2-6777.

Father-Son Meet

A field of 102 teams were expected to compete in the St. Louis District Golf Association's annual father and son tournament today at the Lockhaven Country Club in Alton. Les Slattery and Les Jr. won the 1960 tourney.

Yank Ace Has Won 14 in Row

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—It's a southpaw's world at the moment in major league baseball. Lefthander Whitey Ford, with his usual help from lefthander Luis Arroyo, has become the first 20-game winner of the season, and tonight left-hander Warren Spahn shoots for a rare 300th victory.

Spahn, pitching in his seventeenth season at 40, goes for the big one tonight for the Milwaukee Braves against the Chicago Cubs. If the National League's premier lefthander gets it, he'll be only the thirteenth pitcher ever to win 300 in the majors.

The last to do it was Lefty Grove, in 1941 with the Boston Red Sox. Eddie Plank is the only other southpaw 300-game winner.

Ford, who has a 153-61 record for 10 years in the majors, won 20 for the first time with a 3-1 decision over the Los Angeles Angels yesterday. That kept the New York Yankees three games ahead of second place Detroit in the American League race.

It was Whitey's fourteenth victory in a row, tying the Yankee record set in 1904 by Jack Chesbro. And it also marked the sixteenth time in Ford's 28 starts this season that Arroyo has trudged in from the bullpen.

Make It "Luis Ford."

The Ford-Arroyo combination has become such a ritual that one New York paper, the Mirror, headlined it:

"'Luis' Ford wins twentieth."

While the Yankees pushed their longest winning streak of the year through eight games, Detroit kept the pace by beating the Chicago White Sox, 3-2. Baltimore beat Kansas City, 8-0, and Boston defeated Minnesota, 3-2, in the other A.L. games scheduled.

The St. Louis Cardinals won eight in a row for the first time this year with a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh in the only N.L. game scheduled.

Ford (20-2), last a loser on June 29 at Boston, allowed eight of the Angeles' nine hits before giving way to the heat and Arroyo in the eighth inning. It was the fourth victory Arroyo has saved for Ford, and he has been the finishing pitcher in six others.

Bobby Richardson, Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron homered for the Yankee runs off Jim Donohue (4-5), with Berra's fourth-inning shot breaking a 1-1 tie. The Angeles have failed to win any of their nine games at Yankee Stadium in the season series.

Tigers Moving Fast, Too.

The Tigers made it eight out of 10 with a three-game sweep at Chicago. A double by Norm Cash and Chico Fernandez's single off Juan Pizarro (7-5) broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning.

Milt Pappas (8-6) blanked the A's on six hits. He breezed after the Birds scored five runs in the first inning, two on a single by Whitey Herzog, against Bill Kunkel (2-2). Dave Philley of Baltimore set an A.L. record with his twenty-first pinch hit of the season, topping the record set in 1936 by Ed Coleman of the St. Louis Browns with 20.

A third-inning double by Frank Malzone wrapped it up for the Red Sox as Tracy Stallard (1-1) won his first in the majors.

Anheusers' Right-Hand Man

MIKE HUGHES, the player voted most valuable in the American Legion tournament at Ballwin last weekend, wasn't in the starting lineup in any of his team's four games, but he was in at the finish of all of them. Mike is a relief pitcher for Anheuser-Busch Post, which won the tournament and will compete in the two-team state finals at Jefferson City on Saturday and Sunday. In 12⅓ innings last weekend, Hughes allowed just one earned run.

St. Louis Legion Team Goes to State Final With .318 Swat Mark

The Anheuser-Busch Post baseball team doesn't know anything about its weekend opponent in the American Legion state finals, Lowry City, but it's a sure bet that the representative of the western half of Missouri had better be strong on pitching. In compiling a 15-3 season record the Anheusers have batted .318.

A best-of-three series will determine Missouri's entry in national competition. The meet will open with a game at 9 o'clock (St. Louis time) Saturday night and there will be another contest at 2 p.m. Sunday. If a third game is necessary, it will be played immediately afterward.

Wattler, a lefthanded fastballer, will be the Anheusers' starting pitcher tomorrow night, because it is believed that he will be more effective under the lights.

Dan Rudanovich, who has an 8-1 hurling record, will start Sunday's first game.

Ready in the bullpen, however, will be Mike Hughes, the curveballing relief pitcher who received the most-valuable-player award in the four-team meet at Ballwin. Hughes, a St. Mary's High graduate, pitched 12⅓ innings over four games and allowed just one earned run.

"Mike is like Stu Miller," said Ed Burns, the Anheusers' pitching coach. "You wonder how he gets 'em out. But he has three speeds on his curve ball and he has been tough for everybody so far."

Jastremski Breaks World Record for 100-M. Breaststroke

HONOLULU, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Chet Jastremski of Indiana University broke the world record in the 100-meter breaststroke last night at the Namamaka invitational meet at Farrington Memorial pool. Jastremski, who already holds the recognized American record, swam the 100 meters in 1:11.3.

The record was made four years ago by Russia's W. Minaschkin with a time of 1:11.5. In his performance last night, Jastremski clipped two tenths of a second off the mark, and five tenths off his old American record of 1:11.8.

Trans-Miss. Newcomer Upsets Foe

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 11 (AP)—Two favorites and two relative newcomers to women's amateur tournament play yesterday reached the semifinals of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Association tournament here.

The newcomers were 18-year-old Heidi Prentice, Winnetka, Ill., and Nancy Roth, a 22-year-old country club manager from Hollywood, Fla.; the favorites, Judy Eller, Old Hickory, Tenn., and Joanne Gunderson, Kirkland, Wash.

Miss Prentice, who never before had reached a tournament semifinal, upset 1960 British Amateur champion Barbara McIntire in a four and one-half hour, 19-hole match Thursday afternoon. Trailing at the start, Miss Prentice put on a strong rally at the finish to oust the favored Miss McIntire, who lives in Jupiter, Fla., on the first extra hole.

Miss Roth, 1959 Florida women's champion, wore down 40-year-old Mrs. Ruth White Miller, Long Beach, Calif., and scored a 4-and-3 victory by sweeping three straight holes. A few hours earlier, she had eliminated 18-year-old Sharon Fladoos, Dubuque, Ia., 1 up.

Miss Eller, who said she was nervous in both matches, shot 6 over par in defeating Jeanie Thompson, Tulsa, Okla., 5 and 3, and Linda Anderson, Olympia, Wash., 1 up.

Douglas Is Fourth U.S. Davis Cupper

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., the Marine corporal who has been one of the most consistent players on the summer tennis circuit, was named today to the four-man United States Davis Cup squad scheduled to play Mexico at Cleveland starting Aug. 18.

Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, Chuck McKinley of St. Louis and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., were the others selected.

Archers to Compete At Forest Park

The St. Louis Archery Club will be host to the Missouri Archery Association in a tournament tomorrow and Sunday at the club's range located in Forest Park on Clayton Road near the planetarium site.

Entrants will register tomorrow from 10 o'clock to noon, with competition to start at 1 p.m.

Buzz Fazio to Bowl At Skylark Lanes

Buzz Fazio, whose list of bowling achievements is one of the longest in the American Bowling Congress record book, will perform in exhibitions at Skylark Bowl, 10680 St. Charles Rock Road, tomorrow and Sunday. Fazio bowled in St. Louis as captain of the Falstaff team in 1957-58. His appearances at Skylark will be at 2 and 8 p.m. both days.

In addition to shooting against local bowlers in one-game matches, Fazio will give instructions.

3 Longshots Victorious At Fairmount

Dave Gall is in something of a riding rut. The young jockey rode the winners of the third and fourth races at Fairmount Park last night and he had done the same thing on Wednesday, booting home the winners in races three and four.

Gall was astride Brecair in the third and was up on Tilly's Filly in the fourth.

Outsiders clicked in the fifth and sixth races with Line Crew paying $46.20 in the fifth and Hold on Tight refunding $50 by winning the sixth.

Duke Rodney Sets Mark in Yonkers Trot

$100,330 Race Run In 2:10 3/5

YONKERS, N.Y., Aug. 11 (AP) —Duke Rodney, a $7000 bargain, stood at the head of the class today as the nation's top 3-year-old trotters turned toward Du Quoin, Ill., and the classic Hambletonian on Aug. 30.

Duke Rodney, purchased as a yearling by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Di Gennaro of Rochester, N.Y., won the first leg of the triple crown for 3-year-old trotters with a record smashing 2:10 3-5 for 1 1-16 miles in the $100,330 Yonkers Futurity at Yonkers raceway last night. The Hambletonian and the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington, Ky., in October, complete the triple crown.

Under the guidance of 29-year-old Ed Wheeler, who now calls Troy, O., his home although born in Brooklyn, the Duke overcame a bad post position to take the lead after one-quarter mile, then hung on for a head decision over Charlotte S. Devan's Galeb.

The time was the fastest 1 1-16 miles ever turned in by a 3-year-old standardbred. The old mark of 2:11 was made by John A. Hanover in winning the 1959 renewal of the race.

And the winner's purse of $55,-181.50 proved the Duke to be a real buy for it boosted his total earnings to $123,930.50 for 11 firsts, three seconds and three thirds in 30 starts.

"The best horse I've ever driven," said Wheeler after seeing that his horse was bedded down. "He was all out at the finish. He was tired and had every reason to be."

Spectator, coupled with Orbiter as the Castleton Farm entry, broke stride after going a quarter mile but recovered under Ralph Baldwin and got up to take third. Orbiter, handled by Hugh Bell, also broke entering the home stretch after setting the pace for the first quarter mile.

Kroll's 62 Gives Him Golf Lead

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 11 (UPI)—Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fired a blistering nine-under-par 62 to take the lead at the 36-hole mark among the early finishers today in the second round of the Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Kroll, who won the first ICO tourannent in 1952 and lost to Arnold Palmer in a playoff in 1956, shot nine pars and nine birdies on the par 71 Wethersfield Country Club layout. He shot a four under par 67 yesterday for a two-round total of 129.

Four strokes behind Kroll with a total of 133 was yesterday's first-round leader, Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who never has won a major tournament. Goetz shot a three-under-par 68 today and a six under par 65 yesterday.

Kroll hit 15 greens in regulation and needed only 26 putts to complete the 18 holes.

"This 62 was one of my best rounds in years," Kroll said. In 1954 Kroll fired a PGA record of 60 in the Texas Open. He has not won a tournament since 1956 when he won the World golf championship in Chicago at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club.

Yesterday's co-leader amateur Bobby Allen of West Hartford faltered to a three over par 74 today after his six under par yesterday. He was 10 strokes off the pace today.

BASIC POWER UNIT OF BODY FOUND, SCIENTIST SAYS

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Prof. David Green, director of the University of Wisconsin's enzyme institute, said yesterday that American scientists have identified the basic power unit of the human body's mechanism.

In a paper read at the International Bio-chemical Congress, attended by scientists from 57 nations, he explained these units were discovered in cell units known to scientists as the mitochomidrion, about one ten thousandth of a millimeter in diameter and present in virtually all body cells.

He likened the units to "raisins" in each of these mitochomidrion "cakes." He said their observation was made possible by improved electronic microscope techniques devised by H. H. Fernandez-Moran, a Venezuelan working at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Each of the 17,000 "raisins" observed in heart muscle cells, he said, burned sugar in oxygen to produce carbon dioxide, water, and energy—the power that makes the human machine work. Green said biochemists at his institute were able to take apart the "cakes" from heart muscle cells and put them together again.

He said similar power units also were observed in brain, muscle, and kidney cells.

It's the savingest time of the year on the trucks with the workingest ways

SAVE! You just can't beat August buys for saving. It's the time of year when Chevrolet dealers traditionally pull all the stops. You'll find sweeter-than-ever savings waiting for you on every '61 Chevy truck—from the nimble Corvair 95's, through the easy-haulin' Fleetside pickups, right up to the mighty medium- and heavy-duty jobs. Come in and save a bundle!

SAVE! You just can't beat Chevy trucks for working. With easier riding independent front suspension, Chevrolet trucks work harder and stay young longer. And that adds up to more savings for you. Loads ride easier, drivers stay fresher, the truck lasts longer—because Chevy I.F.S. filters out shock that racks other trucks. You get more work, more hauls, for your truck dollars!

SAVE! And for the frosting on the cake—you just can't beat Chevy trucks at trade-in time, either. The intrinsic value, the superior worth, that Chevrolet builds into every truck, shows up big when it's time to trade. Latest official industry reports prove that Chevrolet trucks lead in trade-in value, week after week after week, over every major competitor in Chevy's price range.*

MISUSE OF REPORT ON ROADS CHARGED

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 11 (UPI)—Gov. Farris Bryant charged yesterday that Representative William C. Cramer, (Rep.), Florida, has taken advantage of his position in Congress in disclosing a secret state report.

Bryant, a Democrat, has had frequent disputes with Cramer in the last few months.

Bryant charged yesterday that Cramer used a report prepared by two former Federal Bureau of Investigation agents to distort circumstances surrounding reinstating a duval (Jacksonville) county contracting firm to bidding privileges on state projects.

Cramer told the House in Washington that Bryant had said he did not plan to make the report public. The Florida Congressman said if Bryant did not release the report he would.

"The Congressman threatens to make public this investigative report," Bryant said. "This would be the same as our road department releasing the information received in confidence from the (Blatnik) committee during the course of our joint invstigations."

Cramer said the report showed Duval Engineering & Contracting Co. short-loaded asphalt on road projects for the last 10 years.

Duval was suspended from bidding recently after a legislative committee hearing. Cramer said State Road Chairman John Phillips agreed Duval had short-loaded "for several years."

"The chairman (Phillips) has not made such a statement," Bryant said in retaliation.

Bryant said the report contained unproved allegations and did not contain enough information to warrant legal action.

In Washington, the House highway subcommittee said it would probably reopen its query into Florida road projects "just to clear up some unfinished business."

U.S. Seeking $5,100,000 Tax From Slot Machine Operator

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Government is trying to collect $5,100,000 in taxes and penalties from an international pinball and slot machine operator whose equipment is installed in many United States service clubs in the Pacific area.

The target of the unusually large tax case is Martin Bromley of Honolulu. Bromley and his wife, Allyn, have denied owing any taxes and are contesting the claims of the Internal Revenue Service in the Tax Court.

The revenue service contends that the Bromleys owe $3,400,000 in income taxes for the years 1953 through 1956. In addition, the agency is trying to assess $1,700,000 in penalties, alleging that the Bromleys underpaid their taxes "due to fraud with intent to evade taxes."

The Bromleys are major partners in a Panama corporation, Service Games Inc., which installs slot machines and other coin-operated devices in American military clubs in the western Pacific area.

Although slot machines are prohibited at bases on American soil, they are permitted at encampments overseas.

Service Games Inc., was fined $300,000 last April by an American judge in Okinawa. The fine was levied after three employes were accused of evading Okinawan taxes, bribing United States officials, and other offenses.

The revenue service says the Bromleys reported income of $229,016 for the four years 1953-1956 but contends they actually had an income of $4,100,000.

The tax agency alleges, in a document filed with the Tax Court, that Bromley used fictitious names to hide income. The names were listed as Jerry Jerk, Jeff Jerome, Robert Mason and Peter Smuck. Bromley has denied this.

The revenue service has told the court that the Bromleys "had large substantial interests in various business enterprises and undertakings relating to the buying, selling, servicing and operation of coin-operating machines, commonly known as slot machines, music boxes and merchandise vending machines, which were located in Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa, Guam, Republic of Panama, Formosa, and various other places.

The Bromleys have told the court that the allegations of unpaid taxes were false and based on arbitrary findings by the commissioner of internal revenue. The revenue service replied that they were based largely on an analysis of Bromley's Honolulu bank deposits. The agency said it relied heavily on deposit records because the Bromleys refused to co-operate in furnishing proper records.

The Bromleys said they were willing to co-operate, but that agents had violated various unspecified agreements relating to the records.

INDIA PLANS NEW HATE GROUP CURBS

© New York Times News Service

NEW DELHI, Aug. 11—The government introduced legislation yesterday to curb separatist tendencies and bias in religion, language or caste.

Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri submitted two bills to Parliament. One provides three year in prison and a fine for anyone who promotes or attempts to promote intergroup hatred. It would extend to three years the present two-year sentence for persons maliciously attempting to upset the feelings of any religious group.

The other bill is similar to the first, but applies to promoting bias in election campaigns. Conviction under it would mean disqualification from voting and holding elective office.

The government acted as the chief minister of the Indian states began a three-day meeting in New Delhi. They agreed in their discussions that advocating the secession of any part of India should be made a penal offense.

Officials consider the issue of national unity urgent. They pointed to the agitation of the Sikh community for a separate state in northwest India, the recent riots in Assam of opposing language groups, the Hindu-Moslem violence early this year in central India and the separatist movement in Madras.

In June, 600 prominent Moslems held a convention here with the tacit approval of the ruling Congress party. Several of their leaders complained of discrimination against India's 42,000,000 Moslems by the overwhelming Hindu majority.

Hindu extremists plan a similar convention next month. The Congress party has made clear, however, that it strongly disapproves of this.

KHRUSHCHEV AND TITOV JEST WITH PRESS AT PARTY

"I didn't see it," Titov said. "It was covered with fog." Then he laughed with the others. An American correspondent asked what the United States looked like and he said: "Land, just land."

Several correspondents gathered near Khrushchev who was in a mood to chat. An Indian correspondent reminded Khrushchev that he said on a visit to India that Kashmir is an inseparable part of India, and asked if he still held the same view. Khrushchev said he did.

As Khrushchev autographed menus, a Russian pen handed to him failed to write. He pulled out his own and said: "Mine writes. It is American. You have to recognize when a thing is well made."

held last February, with troops of the United States Seventh Army, Germany and France participating.

Training exercises are for training personnel in the use of weapons, equipment and tactics, together with familiarizing ground and air forces with areas and conditions in which they might have to fight. They are designed for the sole purpose of training. However, forces sometimes are moved suddenly into an area to provide psychological support in international situations.

THE UNITED STATES has sent its Seventh Fleet into the Formosa Straits and South China Sea areas on at least two occasions in the last few years. This was a show of force, to convince the Communists that aggression against small, free nations on their borders would be unwise.

To head off trouble between angry nations, the United States sent a land-air-sea force into Lebanon, in the Middle East, in 1958.

The overseas deployment of training forces is in addition to other large operations held in the United States for purely defensive purposes. These include such training exercises as the forthcoming Sky Shield II.

Scheduled for Oct. 14, this will test the whole North American Air Defense system. Everything involved in detection and defense of the continent against attack by air will be tested. For 12 hours, the military will have control of the air. Most commercial aviation will be grounded during part of the test period.

"we need your complete dedication," and "I love people and I have faith in humanity."

HE AND HIS WIFE, Amy, have one adopted child, Hans-Dieter, 14, a German-born orphan they adopted several years ago.

Parsons comes to his new position with the knowledge that as the first Negro to be so honored, he is being watched by 17,000,000 Negroes in the United States.

"You might say that those 17,000,000 Negroes will be installed with me," he said.

He said he considers the United States District Court to be "among the noblest of government responsibilities.

"I did not seek the responsibility nor did I request anyone to seek it in my behalf. To have done otherwise would have demonstrated a personality and temperament I consider unworthy of the position," he said.

in their favor, then "morality" demands that the changes in the military balance should be reflected by other kinds of changes, as at Berlin.

A British historian some time ago suggested that Adolf Hitler held the same view of the "moral" meaning of the balance of military power. For this reason, the historian argued, Hitler sincerely regarded the wretched Neville Chamberlain as the true aggressor in 1939, because Chamberlain resisted automatic registration of a great change in the military balance when he turned and fought with his back to the wall.

At any rate, when such a view is held by the unchallenged leader of a vast military tyranny, like Khrushchev today, the development of any important new weapon is a potentially crucial political event.

West Side Four-Family Apartment Building

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crump and Robert Crump Sr. have sold this four-family apartment building at 6709 Plymouth to Miss Helen Menard, who is associated with the Ambassador Hotel. The transaction was negotiated by the Lin Realty Co.

Four-Bedroom House of Stone and Frame Design

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Dennis recently purchased this residence of stone and frame design at 39 Barberry Lane, Kirkwood. The house has four bedrooms. The buyers are newcomers to the St. Louis area. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Montgomery, who sold the property, have transferred to San Francisco. Ira E. Berry, Inc., and the Harry Herring Co. were the agents.

New Completed Webster Area Apartments

Property called the Titchfield, a group of 16 buildings with a total of 64 apartments, has recently been completed at the southeast corner of Rock Hill Road and Chippewa (Highway 66) by Kruse & Janssen Construction Co., which owns and manages the project. There is landscaping and off-street parking area. Each unit has five rooms, including two bedrooms with large closets. Buildings have full basements with laundry and storage areas. All units are air-conditioned, have gas heat, kitchens equipped. Engineering was by George Kropp Engineering Co., design by Sal Dien, architect. Property was named after the late Errol Flynn's Titchfield hotel in Port Antonio, Jamaica.

Property Bought by Pastor to Use as Parsonage

The Rev. and Mrs. Orville W. Johnston have purchased from the Stiffelman and Barken Construction Co. this residence at 11941 Barkman Drive, in the Craig Hills subdivision. The Reverend Mr. Johnston is pastor of Mount Zion Methodist Church, which is to have a new church building on Craig road, in the area of the subdivision, in St. Louis county. Shaw, Brichler and Coleman was agent in the sale.

Recently Completed

Units in the 14-family Cavalier Apartment at 550 South Brentwood, Clayton, range in size from 1500 to 3000 square feet. The building has an elevator, motor-driven awnings, electric snow melter under garage driveway, kitchens with double ovens, individually controlled central air conditioning, and sound resistant walls. The owners, Melvin Steinbaum, Donn H. Lipton and Harlan Steinbaum are holding the property as an investment. Robert Elkington was the architect and Hankins Construction Co., the builder.

Need Grows For Expert Management

A recent survey of the rental market by the National Association of Real Estate Boards points up a growing need for the services of professional property managers, Oscar F. Renz, president of the St. Louis Chapter of the Institute of Real Estate Management, said yesterday.

"The survey revealed that apartment vacancies are increasing, some of these units are remaining vacant for longer durations, and frequently operational costs are rising," Renz stated. "This indicates that expert management of property is becoming more and more essential for owners to receive the highest possible return on their investment."

Pointing out that property management is one of the fastest growing fields of specialization in real estate, Renz noted that many properties in the St. Louis area already are being operated by certified property managers. These include not only apartments but also single-family homes for rent and office and store buildings.

"Many area real estate firms have certified property managers on their staffs to relieve owners of the many problems involved in operating a building," he said.

"This means they have qualified as a certified property manager by satisfactorily demonstrating their experience, training, knowledge, and skills in the management field, according to rigid requirements of the IREM," Renz explained.

The Institute, founded in 1934, has a current national membership of 1339. It is an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"As the custodian of another man's property, a CPM assumes all of the headaches a man who manages his own property must bear. A property manager's duties consist of a great deal more than collecting rent—which many erroneously believe is his only function," Renz continued.

"His knowledge of real estate must be broad—from determining the highest and best use for a parcel of raw, undeveloped land, and working with architects and builders to insure that the property will be easy to rent and economical to maintain, to the ultimate goal of seeing that the owner receives the maximum return on his investment," he explained.

"He must know about advertising, tenant relations, rent collecting, maintenance, and merchandising, among other things, for he handles virtually every aspect of the operation of a property—from seeing that the building is as fully rented or leased as possible to keeping it in perfect condition," he asserted.

SEPARATE SYSTEM

Many engineers hold that the optimum comfort conditions in a home result when the cooling system operates independently of the heating system, according to the national Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Economist Would Put Tax on Land, Not On Improvements

WASHINGTON D. C. — Shifting local real estate taxes from improvements to land would improve the character of urban land use, reduce sprawl, and encourage building and capital investment, suggests Mary Rawson, land economist of Vancouver, B. C. She writes in the Urban Land Institute's fourth Research Monograph, "Property Taxation and Urban Development." The ULI of Washington, D. C., an independent research organization specializing in urban planning and development is currently developing a research program dealing with effects of taxation on urban land uses. While not a part of this program, the Rawson study contributes to the understanding of tax impacts on land development.

Tax levies would be more constructive if property taxes on improvements were abandoned and applied only on land, the author suggests. Recommended is a land value tax applied only on land or site value. This tax, bearing no similarity to Henry George's "single tax," is now widely used in New Zealand and Australia and has been partially adopted in a few American cities.

Would Cut Sprawl

Such a tax, writes Miss Rawson, has a tendency to bring sites into use by discouraging the practice of holding vacant or ill-used urban land. The removal of the tax on buildings, she continues, would make them a more attractive investment and would increase the intensity of land use.

The problem, according to the writer, is compounded by the traditional thinking of American land economists. "They have almost consistently failed to analyze the divergent effects of taxes on land and buildings — apparently taking the view that it didn't matter to the individual property owner," she writes.

The inhibition of land speculation by a land value tax would reduce a major cause of urban sprawl, the monograph contends. The exemption of buildings from taxation and an increase in land levies would provide a "double incentive" to owners of derelict structures to demolish them and to use the land more intensively, it maintains.

Misapplication

She believes that a land value tax would eliminate situations where higher taxes are paid on a lot occupied by a well constructed building in good repair than by its opposite — a poorly constructed building poorly maintained. Under today's tax structure, the owner of the building which is a credit to the city, is required to pay higher taxes than one who builds a poor building or allows his building to decay. The less the poorly maintained property is required to pay by reason of its continuing deterioration, the more the well maintained property is asked to contribute as its share of taxes. It is a misapplication of the principle of ability-to-pay that brings about this frequent but incongruous situation.

Research Monograph 4, "Property Taxation and Urban Development, Effects of the Property Tax on City Growth and Change," is an extension and updating of Miss Rawson's 1959 master's thesis at the Department of City and Regional Planning, University of North Carolina. Miss Rawson documents her conclusions by charting 59 sample blocks in Burnaby, British Columbia, a large suburban municipality adjoining Vancouver, showing the probable effect of the land value tax.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE

Hunt Foods—Wesson Oil

Recently we announced the consolidation of the Hunt Foods and Wesson Oil Sales efforts and the establishment of a sales force in your area. As a result, we still need one additional experienced salesman.

Our position requires a man who has had a minimum of two years recent experience merchandising to the various types of grocery outlets. Food sales or related sales experience, such as soap, cereals, paper products, tobacco, etc., is quite acceptable, as long as the selling experience has been to the grocery trade. We do not consider fresh meat and produce as being related.

The Company in turn offers a career position, good salary, company car, and an outstanding opportunity for personal growth.

4D FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1961
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

PORTRAIT OF A YOUNG SALESMAN WHO NEEDS TO GROW

You've been selling three to six years now. You've laid the rock-hard foundation of your sales career with blood, sweat, toil and tears in insurance, industrials, intangibles. Now you're around thirty. You've done well. Making six to nine thousand.

But you want more: more money and more challenge. You want a chance to flex your creative muscles and grow. You want to find out how good a man you are . . . and can be.

You feel you can't develop the bigger man that's within you on your present job. The best you can hope for where you are is an eventual 6 figure selling job and a few thousand more a year. You ask yourself: don't I amount to more than that; don't I need to amount to more than that?

If you see yourself in this portrait, I'd like to talk to you. We may have a perfect fit. Don't get me wrong. I can't perform any magic trick to transform you overnight. All I can do is show you an opportunity.

My Carolina-based organization serves over five thousand established accounts (firms such as banks, dairies, department stores, etc.) nation-wide with highly organized public and community relations programs designed to sharply influence special markets on behalf of clients. You will present our programs to the chief executive officers of leading firms within a 300-mile radius of St. Louis.

If you show me you are smart enough to see the real potential of this opportunity, tough enough to jump into a new field and land on your feet running, energetic enough to work like blazes the first year, and stable enough not to let temporary set-backs or easy early success throw you, I'll pay you the salary and expenses you personally need while you're learning. If you learn fast, you can quickly graduate to lucrative commission income that brings most of my men a five figure income the first year.

If you think you're the man I'm looking for, telephone Cliff Hodges between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. Fri., 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Sat. or 2 p.m. at FO 1-2500.

This streetscape provides only a slight indication of the incredible beauty of St. Gerard Park. The camera cannot capture its panoramic setting. Nor can it record the lasting value of its sturdy, charmingly colonial brick homes. Two plans are available in a variety of elevations. The most comprehensive financing arrangements in the area, make it easy for you to own either. Take advantage of this final opportunity to enjoy natural park-like living.

Biederman Leases Fifth Big Warehouse

Biederman Furniture Co., operator of 14 home furnishing stores in Missouri and Illinois, last week leased its fifth large warehouse in the St. Louis area. The building covers an entire city block bounded by Monroe, First, Clinton and Second streets.

The new warehouse supplements other storage space by approximately 168,000 square feet, giving the firm a total area of 12 acres of warehouse facil- ... building has five ...

6000 Men Take Part in Parachute Attack in Exercise Swift Strike

FORT BRAGG, N.C., Aug. 11 (UPI)—More than 6000 paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division took part in a mass parachute attack today to face the entrenched 82nd Airborne Division in maneuvers of exercise Swift Strike.

The 101st Airborne, from Fort Campbell, Ky., is playing the role of aggressor and the 82nd Airborne the part of the defenders in the extensive test of this county's "brush fire" war potential.

The mass assault from the air was delayed more than two hours by a low ceiling and overcast skies.

Tactical Air Command and Air National Guard troop carriers flew more than 300 sorties in ferrying the 101st to the drop zones. The troopers dropped into three pre-selected but unprepared areas where they immediately encountered troops of the Eighty-second.

The 101st troopers were backed up by cargo flights which dropped 167 heavy equipment loads.

Carrying New M-14 Rifle.

Today's jumpers were equipped with the M-14 rifle, a semi-automatic or automatic weapon which replaces the M-1 rifle of World War II and Korea.

The 101st is the first Army division to be equipped with the rifle which is planned as the common weapon for all NATO armies.

By the Associated Press.

One feature of the M-14 is its 7.62 millimeter cartridge, a standard size agreed on by NATO countries.

The Army said that 345,500 M-14s are on order under a contract calling eventually for $15,530,231.

About 40,000 men are involved in Swift Strike, first such exercise held on civilian land since the Louisiana maneuvers in 1941.

The Eighty-second and the 101st, two of the basic divisions of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC), will engage in maneuvers to give realistic training in the field.

On Constant Alert.

STRAC forces stay on constant alert to be flown to any part of the world as needed. In Exercise Swift Strike the 101st, as the enemy, has invaded a small foreign country and the Eighty-second, has been sent to its aid in a typical STRAC action.

The Eighty-second, which made a near perfect jump Tuesday, has moved into the area of Chesterfield, S.C., and will attempt to link up with a simulated force near Hamlet, N.C., 35 miles to the northeast.

The 101st, dropping in a triangular area near Cheraw, will move to establish an airhead so that cargo planes can fly in supplies, then attempt to cut off the Eighty-second.

Tactical air support is provided by the latest in jet fighters and reconnaissance planes, including a limited number of F-105s, the new superconic fighters equipped with a six-barrel, 20-millimeter cannon capable of firing 6000 rounds a minute.

Another primary purpose of tthe massive war games is to provide training for Air Reservists and Air National Guardsmen. Reservists generally fly the big cargo planes and the guard the fighters.

CHOLERA CASES SPREAD FROM RED CHINA TO MACAO

© New York Times News Service

HONG KONG, Aug. 11—Cholera has spread from Communist China to the Portuguese colony of Macao, lending substance to refugee reports of an epidemic in the neighboring Chinese province of Kwantung.

Macao authorities announced yesterday that of six cholera cases reported, three persons had died. Chinese newspaper reports said that hundreds of persons had died from cholera in Toishan county, across the border from Macao.

Communist authorities have neither admitted that there is an epidemic in Kwantung nor informed Macao or Hong Kong authorities that cholera has appeared. With hundreds of refugees slipping into Macao and Hong Kong every week, there is a serious danger of cholera breaking out and spreading rapidly in crowded refugee settlements.

Auto Hits a Submarine.

ILLINOIS U. DENIES DR. IVY DEFERMENT OF RETIREMENT

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 11 (AP)—Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, militant supporter of the drug krebiozen in treatment of cancer cases, was denied a deferment of his retirement as a faculty member of the University of Illinois yesterday.

The university's board of trustees said the institution's rules must be followed. The rules require a faculty member to retire at the end of the academic year that follows his sixty-eighth birthday anniversary. Dr. Ivy was 68 Feb. 25.

Two Chicago medical men, Dr. John Pick and Dr. George Crane, appeared before the trustees to ask that Dr. Ivy be retained so that his research with krebiozen would not be hampered. In 1953, after long sessions before the trustees, Dr. Ivy was ordered to stop research and clinical work with the controversial drug at the university. He was permitted to conduct such work elsewhere.

A Blow for Better Morals.

NLRB ORDERS MOLONEY CO. TO DEAL WITH IBEW LOCAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—A National Labor Relations Board examiner today ordered Moloney Electric Co., of St. Louis to bargain collectively with Local 1 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as representative of the firm's maintenance electricians.

In an intermediate report in the case, trial examiner Wellington A. Gillis found that Moloney committed an unfair labor practice by refusing to bargain with the union after the union won an election in April and was certified by the NLRB as bargaining agent.

A spokesman said the regional office in St. Louis has been notified by the company that it is complying with the order and has been bargaining with the union.

2 HOLD UP CAFE, TAKE $64

Mrs. Cora Smith, operator of the cafe, said the men entered the restaurant and ordered soft drinks. She said that when she returned with the drinks, one man drew a revolver and demanded the money from the cash register.

AUDITS SAVED $38,000,000 IN YEAR, GAO SAYS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The General Accounting Office figures it saved taxpayers at least $38,000,000 last year by keeping watch on the cost of such things as nuts, bolts, airplane engines and transportation charges.

That was the amount of refunds and collections paid the Treasury by Government contractors in the fiscal year ended June 30 as a result of GAO studies of contracts. The GAO is an independent arm of Congress.

The $38,000,000 does not include untold millions in economies which a GAO spokesman said resulted from the auditing agency's activities in persuading Government contracting officials to be more careful with taxpayers' dollars.

The GAO says the Government saved at least $10,000,000 last year when defense officials decided to utilize stocks on hand before contracting for new supplies of equipment.

In the last year, the GAO examined transportation payments of $1,800,000,000. It sent out 88,580 notices to carriers claiming overcharges of $25,800,000, of which $21,500,000 was refunded to the government.

In the year the GAO audited 497 non-military and 401 military contracts and programs. In many cases, it discovered that Government contracting agents were accepting without question the cost estimates of contractors, only to find out later that the estimates were too high. In many instances, the contracts were renegotiated and the prices reduced.

"There is no telling how much the actual savings in tax dollars amounted to," a GAO official said. "The very fact that it was generally known that we might take a second look at the contracts caused contracting officials to be more alert. It also put a little fear into some of the contractors who were resolving all doubts in their own favor."

BRITAIN FREEZES WAGES OF 1,500,000 IN CIVIL SERVICE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

LONDON, Aug. 11—Britain clamped a temporary wage freeze yesterday on 1,500,000 civil service employes as part of its plan to bolster the nation's economy.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd told civil service union leaders that their estiunion leaders that their 1,000,000 members will not receive for the time being any salary increases above those already offered by the government. He said he would review salary and wage scales early next year.

The Health Ministry said later that the same policy will apply for some 500,000 National Health Service employees.

Lloyd said the government for the time being will not sit in the arbitration tribunals which heretofore have helped to negotiate salary and wage issues involving the state and its employees. Union leaders immediately protested and warned of possible trouble among state employes, thousands of whom have laid salary increase demands before the government.

TOKYO POLICE REPEL MOB OBJECTING TO RED'S VISIT

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Policemen using truncheons repelled a march on the Soviet embassy today by more than 1000 Japanese ultra-rightists protesting against the visit next week of Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

Three hundred policemen, backed by four armored trucks, scuffled briefly with the slogan-shouting demonstrators 200 yards from the embassy's main gate in downtown Tokyo. The police line, five deep, held firm against two charges. The demonstrators gave up after 40 minutes and marched off. One policeman was injured slightly. No one was arrested.

Mikoyan, the first top Soviet leader ever to visit Japan, was invited by a private Japanese trade promotion organization to open a Soviet trade fair Tuesday.

UNIDENTIFIED SHIP IN TARGET AREA DELAYS MISSILE TEST

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP) — The Army delayed firing a Pershing missile last night until an unidentified vessel sailed from the downrange target area, then destroyed the rocket when it appeared to go off course.

The range safety officer blew up the 34-foot solid fuel rocket after the first and second stages had appeared to ignite normally. Four failures in 20 tests have been counted for the weapon, scheduled to be deployed next year with troops in Europe.

A delay in the countdown was ordered when radar spotted a ship in the intended target area about 250 miles down the Atlantic.

AEROBEE UNDERWATER SHOT

AZUSA, Calif., Aug. 11 (AP)—Aerojet General Corp. announced that it achieved the first successful underwater launching of a liquid fueled rocket yesterday.

A 15-foot Aerobee was shot out of a water-filled test basin at the plant at Azusa. Tethered by a steel cable, it flew only 30 feet into the air. The company said the engine was ignited when submerged, thus proving the feasibility of launching giant rockets directly from the ocean.

Look of the Future

Bull Fights Through Eyes of Small Boy

CLARISSA START

WE HAD DECIDED before we departed for Mexico that we did not want to see a bull fight. That is, two of us had decided. We had not consulted the youngest member of the family and all the way to Mexico City, we kept hearing the anxious entreaty, "We are going to see a bull fight, aren't we?"

All I know about bull fights is what I've skipped over in Hemingway on my way to the more interesting parts. I try to have an open mind on subjects about which I'm ignorant and I'd heard there is great grace and skill involved in bull fighting but I had doubts that we'd appreciate it.

I repressed a shudder and hoped he'd forget the whole thing. He didn't. The first question he asked our guide in Mexico City was, "Can you get us tickets to a bull fight?"

"Can we leave any time we want?" my husband asked.

He was remembering friends who told us they were trapped at a bull fight. The wife feared for her husband's safety because eventually he began cheering for the bulls.

The guide assured us we could leave after three of the six fights. The next afternoon we arrived at the Plaza Mexico. The fights begin at 4:30 and the guide explained that this is one of the few events in Mexico which begin on time. We hurried in, stopping only long enough for the little boy to buy a red cape.

THERE ARE THREE STEPS to a bull fight, the guide explained. First the picadors distract the bull so the matador can look him over and see how blind he is. Then they "decorate" the bull by sticking the colorful banderilla darts into his hide. Then comes the combat to the finish. When they approve, the crowd shouts "Ole." When they disapprove, they whistle.

Exactly at 4:30 the parade began. The first bull charged out. When the first dart was plunged in, blood streamed out.

"Is that blood?" our son asked.

"I think it's just red paper on the banderilla," I said.

They stuck more banderillas in the bull.

"I'm sure it's blood," he said.

THE BULL STOPPED, stood in the center of the ring and looked around, trapped and bewildered. The matador advanced.

"I don't like this," the young fan said. "Can we go?"

"You wanted to see it," I said, trying not to look.

"What did you expect?" snapped his father. "Did you think they'd put boxing gloves on the bull?" He didn't like it either.

There were whistles as the matador lost his sword repeatedly. Finally the bull was dead but it had been as neat as an unsuccessful job of chopping off a chicken's head.

The second fight was better. ("Oh that's a brave bull," said the man in back of us, just like something out of Hemingway.) The fighter received more "Ole's." Soon the bull was dead. The third bull hurdled the fence and started after the scurrying handlers. I shouted "Ole." After the third fight we left.

I still have an open mind about bull fighting. I'm sure it involves grace, skill and all the things which thrilled Hemingway. My son, however, is not this charitable.

"We saw the bull fights," he wrote on a postcard to a friend. "They were creepy."

He's TV's First Pulitzer Prize Winner

By Margaret McManus
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.

TAD MOSEL

TAD MOSEL, the playwright, is gentle, mild-mannered, almost diffident; at the same time, he is chatty and very articulate. Mosel is television's first Pulitzer prize winner. His career was born in television. His first professional work was seen on "Omnibus," in 1953, and he has written steadily for television ever since.

This past season his Broadway show, "All The Way Home," adapted from the late James Agee's novel, won the Pulitzer prize and also the Drama Critics Award as the best play of the year.

Mosel, 39 years old, is floating. There is only one cloud in his clear blue sky. Ever since the Pulitzer, he has had tremendous difficulty settling down to work. Work he has.

Currently he has three assignments. He is writing the book for an off-Broadway musical, "Madame Aphrodite," to be produced by the same threesome who produced last season's most successful off-Broadway hit, "Little Mary Sunshine." As "All The Way Home" was Mosel's first Broadway show, this will be his first musical.

He is also at work on an adaptation of three short stories about three non-Italian women living in Rome, which will be a special on ABC-TV, produced by Fred Coe and starring Deborah Kerr in her television debut. He has just completed the outline of an original script for producer Gordon Duff for his hour-long Westinghouse dramatic series on CBS-TV.

"I have a tentative title on the play for Duff," said Mosel. "I'm calling it 'That's Where the Town's Going.' It's about a woman in a small midwestern town, my favorite setting. It's so much easier to write about life in a small town. You can get at people better. There is so much frenzy and chaos in a big city, the people are overwhelmed, or at least diminished. Humanity is lost among the skyscrapers."

Mosel, who was born in Steubenville, O., and lived there until he was 14, said one of the reasons he felt so comfortable while writing "All The Way Home," is that the setting of the book was Knoxville, Tenn., which physically at least, is built very much like Steubenville.

The Broadway show, since its inception, has been linked to television like a Siamese twin. Mosel said when the novel first came out he read it with great pleasure and then he read one day in the paper that CBS had bought the television rights and that Fred Coe was going to produce it.

Therefore, when Coe called him shortly after and asked him to lunch, he was certain Coe was going to ask him to adapt the book for television.

"I didn't believe it could be done properly for television," he recalled, "and I worried all through lunch about how I was going to say no. It is very difficult for me to say no to Coe after all the things we'd done together on television. He is such a good friend. I was concentrating so hard on how to express my regrets, I hardly understood him when he asked me if I'd like to adapt the novel for the theater. I think I said yes before I fully realized what he had said. I don't know what ever happened to the television rights. We never discussed that."

When Mosel, Coe and Arthur Penn, television director, had all finished their work and "All The Way Home" opened on Broadway, the reviews were good but business at the box office was poor. Still another television personality saved the show.

The fatal notices had been posted on the bulletin board back stage and the show was slated to close within the week when Ed Sullivan, on a winter's Sunday night, gave the show rave notices. The next day there were lines at the box office and the play survived to win the two most important awards of the year.

"When I was a kid," said Mosel, "the first book I ever bought that cost more than 50 cents was a collection of Pulitzer prize plays. That was really big money, so you can see where my dreams were, even then. I still have the book."

"We knew we had a chance," he said, "and we knew the announcements come out about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. I didn't leave my apartment. It's fascinating, what you do all day. I tried to write but I got very little on paper. At one point, I remember I looked up the correct pronunciation of Pulitzer. At 3 o'clock I was holding the phone so they wouldn't have to ring me long. At 3:15, I put it down. By 3:30 I had given up. I told the dog we didn't get it.

"At 20 to 4, a newscaster from a radio network called to ask for a phone interview and I almost stopped breathing. I hardly dared ask him for what reason. I tell you, I really haven't been able to settle down since. I just kept saying to the dog, 'Imagine that, the Pulitzer prize.' "

Mosel, who is a bachelor and has no plans to change his status, celebrated the triumph in two ways. With the $500 prize money, he gave a party for the cast of the play.

"We were so poor, we had never had a party," he said.

This summer he moved from a small apartment on East Fifty-fourth street here to a spacious six-room apartment on Central Park West, where he has ample room for his dog, his books and his collection of 23 clocks.

He said he is very bad at keeping to a work schedule and his conscience is his ultimate guide.

"I used to write at night but I stopped when the lady downstairs in another building complained I was keeping the baby awake with the typewriter. I would like to say I work from 11 to 4 but I don't keep to that schedule until I'm so driven by guilt and by deadline that I feel chained to the desk. I'm about at that stage now. I'm beginning to get polite phone calls from producers and directors which will eventually get less polite if I don't get to work."

Tad (George) Mosel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mosel, graduate of Amherst, 1944, and of the Yale Drama School, also has a teacher's degree from Columbia University. He felt he should be prepared to earn a living some other way in case he failed as a playwright.

Mosel started to watch television as a possible market for his work in 1949. He wrote 30 plays before he sold his first one in 1953. He said it astounds him that so many young writers finish one play and wait to sell it before they think of starting another.

"I just kept on writing plays, even when I was selling nothing," he said. "I guess it didn't occur to me to do anything else. I was selling tickets in an airline office during the day and writing plays at night and weekends."

Those plays he was writing nights and weekends included "The Haven" and "My Lost Saints," both starring Eileen Heckert; "The Waiting Place," starring Kim Stanley; "Ernie Barger Is Fifty," starring Ed Begley; "Guilty Is The Stranger," one of the television plays which sent Paul Newman to subsequent success in Hollywood; and "Star In The Summer Night," which he wrote as a Valentine for the late Fritzie Scheff.

"I thought the newspaper account of this great musical comedy star dying alone in a boarding-house room was so touching, I wrote the play as a little farewell salute."

Tad Mosel, for all his success before 40, is not left without ambitions. He would next like to write an original Broadway play and he has an idea for one jelling in his mind. He would also like to write a play for Katherine Cornell, so conceivably he could combine the two.

"I've had a crush on Miss Cornell since I was a boy in Steubenville," he said. "I've never met her but I can think of no greater reward for a playwright than to have this actress bring his words to life."

Some New Products For Home

By Lawrence Galton

CHILL CHASER: If you have a hard-to-heat room, or are adding a new room, latest solution offered is a compact wall heater that works off any hot-water source, including the hot-water tank used for dishes, baths and laundry, and reportedly operates for as little as one-fifth the cost of a comparable electric heater. Thermostatically controlled and free of flames, vents and high temperature elements, the unit can be recessed in a wall or mounted on a free-standing frame. Recessed, it projects only 4½ inches, can be finished off to match any room decor.

MAGIC SOLVENT: Here's a help for model railroaders and other hobbyists working with with small, hard-to-clean pieces of equipment — and for housewives, too: a new cleaning solvent first used in industry and now available in small containers for home use. It has such a highly selective cleaning action that it removes grease and dirt without affecting, in any way, plastics, metals, electrical insulation, paints or varnishes. Beyond its usefulness in cleaning model auto and airplane parts and model railroad engines, switches and track, it is effective on paintings, book edges and covers, photographic film and slides.

BREADMAKING MADE EASY: The lost art of producing homemade bread may come in for some revival thanks to a new breadmaker that eliminates much of the hard work. It's a 12-quart spun-aluminum mixing pail with a cover fitted with a stainless steel kneading rod and an aluminum crank handle. The pail holds enough dough for four bread loaves. Turning the crank mixes and kneads the ingredients and the dough can be left in the mixer to rise. After a second kneading, when the ball of dough has formed on the mixing rod, it is removed, cut into equal parts, shaped for loaves and placed in pans for baking.

The Vegetarian Point of View

By Robert Peterson

ROBERT PETERSON

AS ONE WHO relishes steaks and chops, I've often wondered what gives with the vegetarian set. So I grabbed the chance the other day to talk with Symon Gould, 66, who was in the press last fall as the Vegetarian party's candidate for the United States Presidency.

"Many people become vegetarians for humanistic reason," said this slender, pink-cheeked man who has the quiet, scholarly mien of a philosopher. "They turn to this way of life when they contemplate the vast, incredible slaughter of innocent animals which goes on daily to meet the demands of the meat-eating population.

"Others become vegetarians for health reasons. They may have read about the values of vegetarianism or they may have personally discovered that they feel better when they restrict their diet to fruits and vegetables. I've been a vegetarian ever since I passed 40 and have enjoyed wonderful health."

I asked in what respects vegetarians find meat harmful. "We believe the uric acids in meat are harmful to human tissues, that meat is more difficult to digest, that it places an unnatural burden on the organs, that it causes residues to accumulate in the body which lead to chronic diseases, and that it is a causative factor in various forms of heart disease. It's well-known, of course, that vegetarians are largely immune from high blood pressure and rarely suffer coronary attacks.

"Some people believe that meats are essential to a balanced diet. But this is definitely untrue — vegetables and fruits provide all the elements required for bodily needs," he said.

I asked what he eats. "I eat only enough to keep my body in efficient working condition," he replied. "I enjoy food, but enjoyment is not my purpose in eating. I eat to live—I do not live to eat.

"For breakfast and lunch I have nothing but raw or stewed fruit—preferably fresh fruits in season such as blueberries, peaches or apples. For dinner I have a bowl of cooked wheat followed by vegetables, such as lettuce, celery, tomatoes, lentils or beans. I eat the vegetables raw or perhaps boiled in water with no butter.

"I also believe in an annual fast. Once a year I retreat to a quiet place for a 21-day fast. It's a wonderful time to think and write. When you are fasting your body requires little sleep and exercise, and your mind becomes astonishingly clear.

"In a century or two most humans will be vegetarians," he concluded confidently. "Increasing numbers of studies are showing the values of a vegetarian diet. And with an expanding population vegetables will eventually become the primary form of food. Each year pasture lands diminish and it is a matter of record that an acre of animal pasture can produce 10 times as much human food if planted in vegetables."

Gym Shower Issue

DEAR ANN LANDERS: School will be starting in a few weeks. I would like to get this settled in advance.

Our 16-year-old daughter flunked gym last year because she refused to take showers. She explained that the shower curtains don't cover the stalls and sometimes it is embarrassing. I've told her that she is right and as far as I'm concerned she doesn't have to take showers.

ANN LANDERS

The school authorities say no showers, no credit. Are we living under a dictatorship or what? I think our schools should encourage modesty among young girls. Please print your answer. I expect to fight it out with the school in September.

MICHIGAN MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Your daughter should adhere to the rules and take showers after gym class. What you call modesty is an unhealthy feeling about herself which has implications of greater importance than whether or not she flunks gym. Please, for her sake, reverse your stand and urge her to do as the other girls do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to say something to the wife who complained about her husband's cousin—the construction worker. I'm a construction worker, too, and I know the story from the other side.

All my relatives would love to have a garage added to their home, or a cement wall, or a new sidewalk, or a patio, or a sunroom, but they just can't afford it. When they finally decide to "go ahead" they ask me to do the job because I'm a construction worker and can get the materials for next to nothing—they think.

In the middle of the job they change the plans to include more materials and labor but the price is supposed to stay the same. They offer to help with the work and say they will hire some guys, but the guys never show up. As for them—after two Saturdays of helping they decide that they can't spend any more time on the project because they have to go out and make time and a half. BEEN THERE.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Bill Vaughan Says

A TAX FOUNDATION estimates that the average American works six days a month to pay his taxes, and it would be handy to know which ones so we wouldn't get too enthusiastic on the job.

WE ARE TOLD that other countries don't like us because we are too smug and self-righteous. Perhaps what we need to do is recruit and send overseas a Slob Corps of lovable bums.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

YOU ARE the dealer, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠Q9762 ♥AKJ83 ♦A5 ♣4
2. ♠AQ84 ♥AKJ6 ♦5 ♣A973
3. ♠AK5 ♥AJ8 ♦AJ96 ♣QJ2
4. ♠KQJ984 ♥AKQ82 ♦7 ♣4

1. One spade. Many players tend to bid suits according to their strength rather than their length, and, on this basis, would open with a heart. Obviously, the hearts are much stronger than the spades, but this is not the determining factor in choosing which suit to bid first.

The aim in this hand is to play the final contract in a suit, and the best trump contract, as between spades and hearts, is apt to be the one in which partner has the greater length. Thus, if partner has four spades and three hearts, regardless of their texture, or three spades and two hearts, the better trump suit will most likely be spades.

The general rule of opening with the higher-ranking of two five-card suits is therefore followed. An opening heart bid, followed by a later spade bid, could lead partner to believe that the hearts were greater in length, and might consequently result in getting to the wrong contract.

2. One club. This is consistent with the theory that it is best to open in the suit beneath the singleton of 4-4-4-1 distribution. This method permits all three suits to be shown at the lowest possible level if partner responds in diamonds. If the opening bid were a heart or a spade, it would be impossible to name the three suits without climbing to a high level.

3. One diamond. Many players feel nervous about opening with one of a suit on a 20-point hand. They are scared to death that partner, not realizing the size of the opening bid, might pass. This is an ungrounded fear because they should realize that if partner does pass, he will have from zero to five points, which in turn means there is no game in the hand.

It would be wrong to open with one notrump, which shows 16 to 18 points, or two notrump, which announces 22 to 24 points. One diamond is best. The big bid comes later.

4. Two spades. For practical purposes, this is a game-going hand, and the game-forcing bid of two spades is therefore made. Point count is not the criterion in hands with such powerful distribution and solidity.

This hand, with a 15 high-card points, has a greater chance of producing a game than the previous one with 20. Furthermore, by opening with two spades and identifying a powerful hand immediately, it becomes easier to arrive at a slam contract.

A Different Western

"TWO RODE TOGETHER," which is having its first-run here at 11 drive-ins and neighborhood theaters, is at least a different western. From a novel by Will Cook, Frank Nugent's screenplay tells how a Texas marshal and a cavalry lieutenant bargain with a Comanche chief to return a captive white woman and a boy captured years before. The blunt irony is that most of the captives the men see are in such a pitiful or degraded state it would be a cruelty to return them to white society.

The white woman, a Mexican (Linda Cristal), goes back with James Stewart, as the marshal. They are trailed by her ferocious Indian mate, who tries to ambush Stewart and is shot to death. Further irony—she is despised, shunned and snubbed at a military ball by the other women because she had been the woman of a Comanche—whether against her will doesn't matter. The 17-year-old boy, returned by Richard Widmark, as the army lieutenant, turns out to be a maniacal savage who murders the woman who thinks she is his mother. He is lynched forthwith by the infuriated settlers.

But in spite of this harsh realism, the picture isn't by any means as grim as it sounds. The Stewart and Widmark characters are warmly humanized and their roles filled with that rough humor in which director John Ford specializes. Stewart is an off-beat hero—as marshal, he collects 10 per cent of all enterprises in his town and is the saloon queen's lover. His quest to free the captives is avidly commercial—for pay—even if he is thwarted in that. Widmark is lean, tough and cynical, but with a sense of humor. One thing, I think is overdone. That is the constant reiterations, the fumblings and stumblings in speech to give it naturalism. At some points it seems as if Stewart is making up his dialogue as he goes along.

The film is not one of Ford's best westerns, but it has interest most of the way. Ford's eye for composition and use of color is as marked as ever. Shirley Jones makes a pretty heroine. Andy Devine is a good comic fat sergeant, and John McIntire contributes a role of a crusty major which is much more human than the usual starchy commander.

The second film, "THE WARRIOR EMPRESS," is a doozy. It is one of those hammy and gaudy Italian classic spectacles, badly dubbed as usual. Tina Louise, looking lost, plays Sappho, a poetess at the temple of Aphrodite who falls in love with Kerwin Mathews when he, as the wounded leader of a rebellion, crawls into the temple. There are lots of beautiful temple maidens running about in diaphanous veils and warriors banging away at each other's shields with clanging swords, but it doesn't make much sense.

The Werewolf Delinquency Problem

PRODUCER ANTHONY HINDS and director Terence Fisher, the British team which came up with such juicy horror items as "The Curse of Frankenstein," "Dracula" and "Hound of the Baskervilles," now offer us "THE CURSE OF THE WEREWOLF," a pretty little picture at the ST. LOUIS.

Like its predecessors, this has good production values, if a virtually unknown cast. Sometimes it achieves an Edgar Allan Poesque feeling of the macabre and the horrible as it recounts an eerie tale of eighteenth century Spain. A deaf-mute servant girl (Yvonne Romain) is thrown into a cell by a degenerate Marquis with a beggar who has been treated like an animal and has grown into one. The ravished girl dies in childbirth. Her son grows into a werewolf. It's as simple as that.

As the boy (Oliver Reed, nephew of director Carol Reed) comes into manhood, it's not a question of what he is, after all those slaughtered sheep in the meadow, it's a question of what to do with him. Several murders later, his kindly stepfather, a professor (Clifford Evans), mercifully dispatches him with a silver bullet, made from a crucifix, in a church steeple while a mob howls below.

This, which stems from the novel, "The Werewolf of Paris," would have been much more effective if they had played up the pathos of the young man's position more—he certainly didn't WANT to be a werewolf. Who does? That was the secret of Lon Chaney's horror portrayals—you felt immensely sorry for him. What a picture he could have made of this! Incidentally, after I saw this somebody asked me if I believe in werewolves. Well . . . I don't know. There's a lot to be said on both sides.

Beauty After 40

SIMPLE BASIC CLOTHES and very carefully chosen accessories will make you tops in good looks and taste. I know it is said that it is not the amount of money that you spend that will make you well-dressed. This is not exactly true, because you must spend a certain amount of money to achieve a basic wardrobe. After that you can spend carefully to fill in and acquire new accessories.

You must decide on a color scheme. You must often sacrifice a love of certain colors, and different colors, also, because they will not always harmonize with a basic outfit.

For instance, if you look well in blue, choose a rich dark blue for a suit, dress and coat, and for dinner and evening wear have midnight blue. You can have accessories in shades of blue and, for a change and a touch of color, you can have shoes, scarves and beads, bags and hats in a color of striking contrast.

There are simple ways to elegance. Don't go overboard in the purchase of costume jewelry. You will find that it is most attractive to have some unusual clip, pin or necklace which you can wear for "atmosphere," but look well for such a piece. It is not always the most expensive one that counts, but the one which is "different."

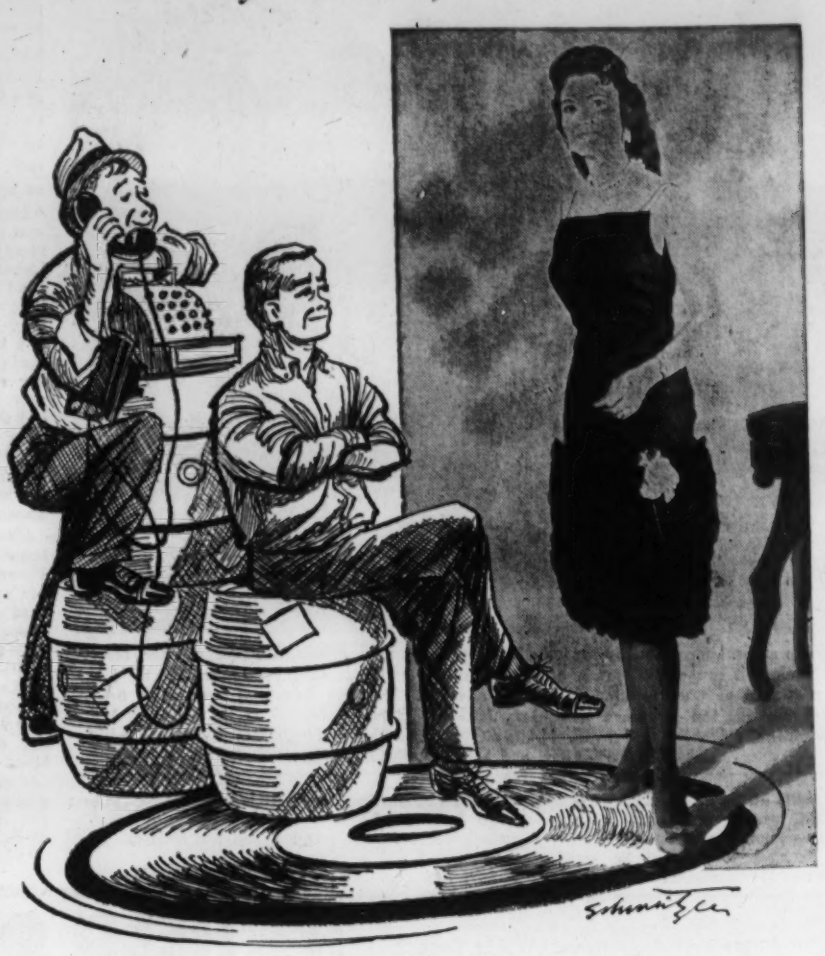
The after-forty woman needs elegance, also a bit of drama and glamour. You must study yourself, consider your needs and find just the right color and accessories to really put you over as your own personality demands. Sleek, well-dressed, after-forty women are a fascinating group. Those who take the time and make the effort to dress with a design look the part.

Take a long look at your present wardrobe. Throw out what displeases you. Do some clear thinking about your face and your figure. Now is the time, not tomorrow, or next month, but now!

One Singer, a Record and High Hopes

They're Current Assets of Gateway Record Co., Whose Partners Dream of Hitting It Rich

By Dickson Terry
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff



MOST OF THE PEOPLE whose paths I cross in the entertainment field are big names, people who've got it made. But somewhere along the line, I suppose, they were struggling, too, dreaming big dreams and looking for a break. Maybe this time I'm in on the ground floor of one of those dreams. If so, fine. If not, there's nothing lost but the time it takes to tell about it.

He came barging into the office carrying a photograph of a girl in one hand and a 45-r.p.m. record in the other. I saw the editor telling him to talk to that man over in the corner; me. The story of my life, I groaned inwardly as he sat down.

He was a big fellow and looked just like what he used to be, a truck driver. He wore a brown sports shirt. He had a crewcut and he was slightly in need of a shave. It was obviously the first time he had been in a newspaper office and he was a little embarrassed. But he had a friendly grin and the look in his eyes was that of a man who trusts people, likes people and has never doubted that if he just asked nicely people would help him.

"I been talking to Russ Carter at KSD and some of the other fellows around," he said as he thrust the record and photograph at me, "and they said if I could just get some publicity or something, maybe they could give this thing a push."

I looked at the record. It bore the label, "Gateway Records." "That's us," he said proudly. "Me and my partner. My name's Jerry Wright and his name's Mickey Lumsden." I wrote the names down. "How does he spell Lumsden?" I asked. He thought for a minute and grinned. "Darned if I know," he said. I let it pass.

The photograph was of a young woman in black evening dress. She had a long bob which hung to her shoulders, and a stiff smile. "That's Jenny Jamison, our singer, who made the record," he explained. There was a tear in the photograph which went right down through her hair. "I had to take it off the wall," he explained. "It's the only one I had."

"Let me get this straight," I said. "You and your partner are in the record business —?"

"He's been in it three or four years," he said. "I only went in about six months ago. He's cut a couple of records before, with this same gal. But they didn't do so good."

Was she their only singer? I asked. "Well," he said, "she's the only one we got signed now. We've made a couple more records with her, but this is the only one we're pushing now."

I read the titles. On one side was "If I Can Stay Away Long Enough." He said, "That's the one we're pushing." On the other side was "All In The Name of Love." They weren't really pushing that one.

"Jenny's up in Ohio pushing it now," he said. How? I inquired. "Well, she's appearing on TV and radio shows," he explained. "You can get your record played, as a rule, if the artist comes along."

"Who handles your publicity?" I asked, as one who could hardly recall the days before everybody and everything had a press agent. He looked a little surprised. "Me and my partner," he said. "We just make phone calls, and we get a date for Jenny, and from there she makes another date, and so on."

"Where is the Gateway Record Co.?" I asked. He grinned. "At 700 South Broadway, more or less," he said. "We have a telephone there."

This was proving educational. "You mean record companies start this way, or can be started this way?" I asked. Oh sure," he replied. "One record company I know started with nothing and now they're worth $5,000,000." He named a fairly well known producer of rock and roll. "They had Presley at one time. "They sold him for operating cash." "Like a baseball team?" I asked. "Sure," he said. "They sold a star and used the money to buy others. But he wasn't big then."

"If we can get this record, or any record going," he continued, "we can get in the big time." I was interested in how the Gateway Record Co. was born.

Jerry explained that he is 28 years old and his partner is 33 and they are both veterans. "I own a night club in North St. Louis called 'The Fifty-Fifty Club,'" he said. "Before that I drove a truck. My partner had one in South St. Louis called the Hillbilly Club. He came by my place one night and we got to talking about the record business. He had made a couple with Jenny. One was called 'Please Keep On Fallin' and the other was 'Glad I Got To See You Once Again.' They sold a few. Anyway, I decided to go in with him."

So you have a record company, I said. Then what? He grinned again. "Me and Mickey and Jenny went down to Nashville, to a commercial studio, and told them we wanted to make a record."

"Who wrote the songs?" I asked. "Fellow named Benny Martin, there at the studio," he explained. "We told them we needed songs, musicians and everything. There was a fellow there named Buddy Somebody who was an arranger, and he just went through his files and pulled out songs he thought she could sing. If she couldn't he just threw them out and tried something else. They had a piano and a guitar and a drummer. We made four records."

Then how do you get it going? "Well, first thing," he said, "is to get this one going, then bring out the others. You send it around to disk jockeys all over the country and hope they'll play it."

And what are the odds? He grinned and looked at the floor. "Pretty slim," he admitted. "But you got a better chance if you send the artist along. That's what Jenny's doing now. If you can just get one going," he said earnestly, "then you got no troubles."

At present, he admitted, the night club business is supporting the record business. "That and the money we've saved," he said. "We cut 8000 records and it cost $110 a 1000. But I know we got a good record. If we can just get it going in St. Louis, then Kansas City and Chicago will take it up, and it would go all over. He paused and then added, with a note of hope, "It's already going real good down in the Bootheel."

"I asked all around and they told me if I could get someone to give it a push, it would help a lot so, well, I just thought I'd come up and ask."

"If I can do anything, I'll call you," I said. The old brush. "What's the phone number at the Gateway Record Co?" He looked at the floor and then he looked at me and grinned.

"What it is, it's a tavern, to tell you the truth," he said. "My partner lives upstairs. All he's got's a bedroom. That's our office. Like I said, we're not a big company, yet. But if we can just get something started . . ."

He turned back as he started out the door. "You ever in North St. Louis? If you are, stop in. Drinks are on me."

"Thanks," I said, "and I hope the Gateway Record Co., makes a million dollars." And who knows. Maybe it will.

Mentally Ill Aided by Use of Cameras

By Alton Blakeslee

Associated Press Science Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 11 (AP).

TRAPPED IN THE JUNGLE of her mental illness, the woman was deluded, incoherent, disheveled.

A camera clicked.

Minutes later she was looking at her own picture—and angrily she tore it up.

But three days later she was greatly improved. To her husband, she explained: "I didn't want to be like that." She was home seven weeks later.

Her experience is one clue that the camera's eye, in still and motion pictures, perhaps can help lead some mental patients back to health.

The new technique was developed and is being explored by Dr. Floyd Cornelison, who started on a career as a photographer, then turned to psychiatry, and now is associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Oklahoma Medical center.

The intriguing idea is that pictures may help patients focus attention on the outside world, and so walk the bridge more easily back to mental health.

The mental patient is turned inward, centered upon himself, as a defense against the threats he fears or realities he refuses to face, Dr. Cornelison explains. Getting him to reach out to the world again is a first step in cure.

Seeing himself in pictures offers a way of inducing him to reach out. His picture is familiar—but it is outside him. It is less fearsome than other things on the outside. Hopefully, it's a method of helping the patient understand himself and his illness. And, as patients tell how they felt at different stages of illness, the technique could bring clearer understanding of what goes on in patients' minds.

There is apparently quite a difference in seeing a picture of one's self, and looking in a mirror, Dr. Cornelison says. Men and women look into mirrors everyday, shaving or applying make-up. That image moves, is part of them, while the picture is distant and unattached.

DR. CORNELISON began the photography-psychiatry studies five years ago at Boston State Hospital, and has expanded them during the last three years here.

Most of the patients seen in the self-image experience studies recognize themselves, in motion pictures or photographs taken with a self-developing camera, and apparently benefit in varying degree, he reports.

One man, babbling like a baby and paying no attention to the world around him, recognized himself in color motion pictures. With contact and talk established through the pictures, he came a long way toward health.

Another man, silent and in a trance-like catatonic state, would smile whenever he saw his picture being taken, then lapse back into his rigid, dull pose. But he improved after a number of sessions, remarking about the picture that he didn't think "I have a very good smile."

Other catatonic patients said, later, that they could recognize themselves in pictures, and could think of the words to say so, but the words just wouldn't come out.

Women were more interested in the appearance of their hair and face, men more interested in whether their illness pictures showed signs of strength or weakness.

Dr. Cornelison now is combining his motion pictures with simultaneous recordings of heart rate—picked up and recorded through pocket-sized instruments worn by patients.

This is a first step in learning the physical reactions as mental patients recognize themselves and reach out toward reality. Soon he plans to add recordings of breathing rate, blood pressure, and measurements of skin temperature.

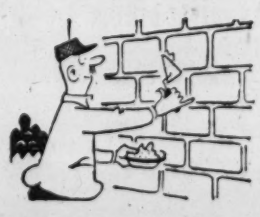
All patients, or their relatives, must grant permission for the picture-taking. Patients are selected carefully, to avoid risks that some might be thrown into worse condition.

The technique, says Dr. Cornelison, shows promise as a means of helping patients, of instructing students in psychiatry, and of understanding the workings of the human mind during emotional illness.

How to Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

WHEN A FAMILY decides that it needs more living space indoors, about the first place they turn to is the basement or, in the newer homes, the below grade unfinished area. In far too many cases after spending a good deal of time and money finishing off this space, the family ends up with a room that can only be used at certain times of the year and then not in great comfort.



One of the most common problems you will have in any area below grade is condensation. Especially in warm humid weather you will find moisture collecting on the concrete slab floor and also on the concrete or block walls. If you just put tile or paint over the floor, you will still have this problem. If you just paint the masonry walls, sweat will appear on the paint.

What you must do is to insulate the finish floor and walls from the concrete and this is done in the case of the floor by first setting 2x4" "sleepers" over the concrete and then covering these with sheets of plywood. The plywood then serves as a base for the floor tile. The sleepers do not have to be anchored to the concrete, they can be applied with a special mastic.

In the case of the walls, you should first apply 2x2" or 2x4" furring strips spaced about 16 inches apart and then cover these with wallboard. All this, of course, takes time and money but it will insure your getting a nice dry room. This is assuming that the dampness on the concrete walls and floors was due to condensation and not to leaks from the outside.

The other point to consider in making a below grade room liveable the year around is heat. Very often there is no provision made to heat these rooms and the heat loss from the house heater may not be enough to keep the rooms comfortable in very cold weather. The chances are that you will need some sort of auxiliary heat and unless you can tie-in with the central system, an electric heater is probably your best bet.

Film Gossip From Rome

By Sheilah Graham

ROME, Aug. 11.

SOPHIA LOREN and Carlo Ponti are so sure they will not be prosecuted by the Italian Govment on that bigamy charge, they have bought an entire film studio in Italy, four hours by train from Rome between here and Leghorn. Sophia is there now, starring as "Madame Sans Gene." Her official residence is Switzerland, because of taxes. . . . Which reminds me, Gina Lollobrigida, I'm told, will have to pay a big sum of money in back taxes to the Italian Government, which is hot on her trail.

I find that Gina's popularity here has lessened since she made those films in Hollywood. . . . But Sophia was saved by her last movie, "Two Women," which I hate to report was made in Italy. Italian stars somehow don't transport well to Hollywood. . . . Rossano Brazzi, for instance, is not too well liked here. I like him personally. The feeling against Rossano could be because he gives statements how much he prefers working in Hollywood.

The Nick Rays, who live here permanently, expect the stork again in September. Nick, who directed "The King of Kings" for Sam Bronsten, will come to New York for the October premiere.

Big problems with the Stewart Granger-Pier Angeli, "Sodom and Gomorrah." This because of illness has been going on and on and on. They say the film is a cross between "Ben Hur" and "Spartacus," with nude dancing girls added for good—or bad—measure.

Jack Palance was dining at the current place-to-go-to in Rome, "Da Med Patacca." It's hard to translate, but the nearest is "my big money." Specialty is roasting chicken and meat on a spit. Jack is happy because his three children are here with his ex-wife Virginia. They are all staying with him at his hotel. But I don't get the word yet of a reconciliation. Jack prefers to live in Italy. Virginia lives in California.

WOMEN

Architects' Wives Planning Program

By Virginia Betts White

A SERIES OF SPECIAL EVENTS has been planned for women whose husbands will be in St. Louis Sept. 27-30 to attend the Central States Conference of the American Institute of Architects at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

MRS. ARMSTRONG . . . co-chairman of committee.

Mrs. Donald L. Freeman, 10 Fielding road, Ladue, is general chairman of women's activities, which will be highlighted by a luncheon Sept. 29 at the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden. The group will tour the garden, visiting the Henry Shaw mansion, Climatron and the headquarters building of the National Council of State Garden Clubs where they will be joined by their husbands for a garden luncheon.

Mrs. Harris Armstrong is co-chairman of the general committee and, with Mrs. Gerhardt Kramer, is in charge of walking tours. Other chairmen are Mrs. George E. Kassabaum and Mrs. Eric W. Smith Jr., hospitality; Mrs. Chester E. Roemer, transportation; Mrs. Emmet J. Layton, hostess for wives of members of the American Society of Landscape Architects, meeting in conjunction with the A.I.A. conference; Mrs. Buford L. Pickens, telephone chairman, and Mrs. Gustel R. Kiewitt, president of the Women's Architectural League of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Mr. Kramer is conference chairman.

Two tours within walking distance of the conference headquarters at the Sheraton-Jefferson have been arranged, one to Christ Church Cathedral, the Campbell House and the Federal Building; the other to St. Louis King of France Church (Old Cathedral); the Old Courthouse and the old Post Office Building. The women will return in time to join their husbands for luncheon at the hotel when Edward D. Stone, noted architect, will be guest speaker.

An exhibition of arts and crafts made by members of the Women's Architectural League will be on display in a hospitality room on the mezzanine of the hotel, with members of the league in charge.

Miss Shipton to Be Married Aug. 25.

MR. AND MRS. WASHBURNE D. SHIPTON, 7469 Teasdale avenue, University City, have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage Aug. 25 of their only daughter, Miss Carol Ann Shipton, and Richard Dana Tocher.

MISS CAROL SHIPTON . . . bride-to-be.

Both the bride-elect and her fiance are graduate students in botany at the University of Seattle this summer and both plan to study there for doctor of philosophy degrees. Mr. Tocher will receive an M.A. Aug. 19. They will arrive in St. Louis shortly before the wedding to complete their plans.

Mr. Tocher is the son of Mrs. William John Tocher of San Francisco and the late Mr. Tocher.

The Rev. Donald Stake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stake, 6949 Princeton avenue, University City, who is assistant minister of Union Presbyterian Church, Schnectady, N.Y., will come to St. Louis to perform the wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Shipton has asked two college classmates at Beloit (Wis.) College to be her attendants. Mrs. Donald A. Smith of Milwaukee will be matron of honor and Miss Mary Eaton Read of Fairfield, Conn., will be bridesmaid.

Attending Mr. Tocher will be his brothers, Dr. Don Tocher, Berkeley, Calif., as best man, and William J. Tocher of Oakland, and the prospective bride's brother, Thomas L. Shipton, as ushers.

Miss Shipton is a graduate of Beloit College and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Her father is associate professor of geology at Washington University. Her fiance is a graduate of Stanford University and the University of Washington. He is a member of Sigma Xi, national scientific honor society. He has served two years as a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy.

Out-of-Town Guests for Wedding

THREE PAIRS of the bride's uncles and aunts and two of her college roommates are in St. Louis for pre-wedding festivities honoring Miss Mary Ann Lubbe, a former debutante, and John Thomas Medler. Tomorrow they will attend the wedding.

Of the uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lubbe have arrived from Charlotte, N.C. Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly Ryan of Oak Park, Ill., accompanied by their three children, Molly, Cory and Billy, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bradshaw of Lufkin, Tex., former St. Louisans, came today.

The two girls who roomed with Miss Lubbe at Manhattanville College, New York, Miss Mary Calder Treacy of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Miss Ann McGrail of New Haven, Conn., reached St. Louis a few days ago. They will be bridesmaids at her wedding.

Tuesday night Miss Lubbe and her fiance were guests of honor at a cocktail party given by her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Snodgras, 18 Georgian Acres, Frontenac. Last night, Miss Patricia Wilkerson, who is to be maid of honor, gave the spinster dinner at her home, 4950 Lindell boulevard, and at the same time the best man, Mr. Medler's brother, Louis, had the bachelor dinner. Their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Joseph Medler, 12 Wydown terrace, Clayton, will give the rehearsal dinner tonight at the Clayton Club.

The party series started last Saturday night with a buffet supper by Dr. and Mrs. Richard I. C. Muckerman and his mother, Mrs. Richard Muckerman, at the R. I. C. Muckerman home, 63 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Binkert Lubbe, 657 West Polo drive, Clayton, who will give a reception at Old Warson Country Club after the noon ceremony at St. Joseph's Church, Clayton.

To Attend Music Seminar

A group of St. Louisans sailed recently for Copenhagen to attend a music seminar there. The seminar is sponsored by the St. Louis Institute of Music each year with John P. Blake Jr., president of the institute, as seminar director. Standing from left are MISS BARBARA BLAKE, the director's daughter; JOSEPH KLINE, instructor at the institute; MR. BLAKE, MRS. BLAKE and MRS. HARRISON H. JOHNSON JR. In front are MISS SALLY PRIEST, left, and MISS MARJORIE JOHNSON.

MR. AND MRS. L. CARTER WATLING, who spent the month of July vacationing at Palisades Park, Mich., have returned to their home, 19 Willow Oak lane, Glendale. With them in Michigan were their two daughters, Mrs. Henry W. Buschman, 335 Parkwood road, Kirkwood and her children, Randy, Alex, Stephen and Tamara, and Mrs. Robert J. Bodine, 4 Deer Creek Woods, Ladue, and her children, Carol and Gayle.

Pre-Wedding Parties Honor Marcia Coltman

NUMEROUS PRE-WEDDING parties have been given for Miss Marcia Lee Coltman, who will become the bride of Robert M. Pass Aug. 19. She was honored at a luncheon Aug. 4 at the Missouri Athletic Club with Mrs. Henry Hess, Mrs. Alfred Petchaft and Mrs. Paul Schneider as hostesses.

Last Saturday, the bride-to-be was guest of honor at a swimming party given by Mrs. Barton Lieberman, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, and Miss Carolyn Sherman at the home of Mrs. Lieberman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lentin, 5 Ricardo lane, Ladue. Later that day Mrs. Harry E. Lieberman was hostess at a luncheon and shower at her home, 6 Clermont lane, Ladue. Mrs. Orville W. Miller and her daughter, Miss Judith, another bridesmaid, will be hostess at a luncheon and shower tomorrow.

Miss Carol Kornblum will honor Miss Coltman at a tea and shower Tuesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kornblum, 28 Maryhill, Ladue. Miss Kornblum will return tomorrow from Europe.

Mrs. Pass's sister, Miss Bonnie Carol Pass, who will be maid of honor for Miss Coltman, will give the spinster dinner the next day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pass, 33 Briarcliff, Ladue, the prospective bridegroom's parents. They will give the rehearsal dinner Thursday at Westwood Country Club.

Dinner parties have been given by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kohn, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenblum and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Friedman.

Other parties have been given by Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Pass, uncle and aunt of the prospective bridegroom, and their son Jerrold, who will be an usher at the wedding; Miss Zoe Carp and Miss Ileen Urnstein and Mrs. Farrell Kahn, who will be bridesmaids, and Michael Freund, who will be an usher.

Rabbi Julius J. Nodel will perform the ceremony at Westwood Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. William B. Coltman, parents of the bride-elect, 615 Westwood drive, Clayton, will give a dinner afterward.

The prospective bridegroom's twin, Ronald I. Pass, will be best man. Among his other attendants will be Mr. Lieberman, Mr. Kahn, Jules Pass, another brother; John Metz of Highland Park, Ill.; Donald Gellman, Robert Morris, Mr. Freund, Barry Jasper and Howard Handelman.

The newlyweds will be honored Sept. 9, after their return from a trip to Florida and Nassau, at a dinner party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pass and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pass at Meadowbrook Country Club.

THE RAILWAY BUSINESS WOMEN'S Association of Metropolitan St. Louis will give a picnic supper Aug. 22 in Tower Grove Park starting at 6:30 p. m. A program of square dancing will be held from 8 to 10 o'clock. Miss Beatrice Mertens, 5015 Rockingham drive, Ferguson, is in charge of reservations.

Ferguson Families On Vacation Trips

MR. AND MRS. RALPH M. MOBERLY, 20 Royal avenue, had as a guest for a week, their son, Dr. Ralph M. Moberly Jr. of Honolulu. While here he visited his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Edwards of Ladue.

Dr. Moberly, a professor at the University of Hawaii, Honolulu, was one of 20 persons chosen by the National Science Foundation for a six-week study in geology in England, Scotland and Wales. He left here for England.

Mrs. Brewer C. Lawson, formerly of Bobbins lane, mother of Mrs. Ralph M. Moberly (Jean Lawson) flew to Honolulu to spend the summer with her daughter and two grandchildren, Beth and Ralph M. Moberly.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Dimond, 411 Royal avenue, have returned from Kalamazoo, Mich., where they spent a week with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Dimond. The William Dimonds' children, Diane and Jeffrey, had been visiting their grandparents, for two weeks.

Mrs. Ray H. Hackett, 1440 Alicia avenue, is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hackett, and their children, Grant and Cathy, in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Nemnich, 425 Church road, have had as guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald England of Northridge, Calif., and the Englands' children, Donald Jr. and Nancy.

Martha Carr's OPINION

He Wants to Make Up.

Today's column is just for teen-agers. If you have a problem you would like to talk over with Martha, send it in.

Dear Martha:

I AM 16 and the girl I have been dating is the same age. We are not serious but we like each other's company. At least I like her company. I'm not sure how she feels about me since we had a quarrel. She is mad at me right now because I said something she did not like. I have been going to the same parties she has been going to and I wonder if it is my place to talk to her at these parties since we got mad at each other. I know I did not treat her very nice by saying what I did and then I did not talk to her at parties after that. How can I make up with her? Some of her girl friends are catty and have been calling her up and telling her not to have anything to do with me.

CONFUSED 16.

Write this girl a note of apology. If she answers your note you may then call her and apologize in person. Unless what you said about her is inexcusably bad she may forgive you. It would also be wise to tell her friends that you regret having told an untruth about this girl. If you said something detrimental to her reputation it is your duty to make amends all around.

Dear Martha:

A GIRL WROTE YOU the other day and said she had a pen pal in Switzerland and wanted to send her a gift from America. You suggested a magazine subscription. How is this girl in Switzerland going to learn about our country from a magazine written in a language she can't read? I suggest some records. Even though they may be in a different language she can still dance to the music. A READER.

If the Swiss girl can read the letters written by her American pen pal she can certainly read an American magazine, or at least a good part of it. Perhaps you do not know that European children start learning a second language, usually English, early in primary school and by the time they are 9 or 10 are quite at home in the foreign tongue. However, your suggestion that records would make a nice gift is a good one, if the Swiss girl has a record player. European children do not all possess the things that American children take for granted.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM 11 years old. I have been friends with a girl for about two years. We both like the same boy. Right before school ended we quarreled over him and now my friend and I have just broken up. I would like to make up with her before school starts again. L.M.K.

Call your friend and tell her you have been thinking things over and wonder if she doesn't agree that it is silly to sacrifice a friendship of long standing for a mere boy. She probably misses you as much as you miss her.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's leaflets, "Care of the Hair," "Care of the Skin," "Answer to the Petting Question," "E for Etiquette" and "Teen-Age Games."

Learning to Relax

DEAR DR. MOLNER: Your recent remarks about a person who was unable to sleep interested me. I went through a long period of sleeplessness. Reading, crossword puzzles, etc., finally tired me but they cut down on hours of sleep.

DR. MOLNER

Through an article on relaxation I learned to rest at odd moments, even in noisy, crowded surroundings, by the practice of withdrawing myself, "shutting my mind off." Prominent persons do this.

I began using this principle at night. I reasoned with myself thus: "These worries can wait until morning. I can't do anything about them tonight anyway. After I am rested I can cope with them better anyway."

Thank you, and I suspect your method will work for just about anyone—anyone, that is, who will read your last sentence. Usually people who have trouble sleeping are by nature impatient and want results right away.

That's why so many of them demand sleeping pills, or insist on some other remedy that will work immediately.

Reading, crossword puzzles and the like often help—but not always. Sleep is a matter of relaxing, just as you say in your letter. Hard work during the day leaves the body ready to relax. The same is not necessarily true of the mind. "Heavy" reading often brings relaxation rather quickly—you just get tired of the intricate thinking the book demands.

On the other hand, if you happen to like crossword puzzles, or if you get into a book that engrosses you so that you "can't put it down," the result is that your mind does NOT relax, and you may even stay awake reading even though you are so physically weary that you can hardly keep your eyes open.

The same thing can be true if you aren't doing anything except lying awake and thinking. If your mind keeps racing, it certainly isn't relaxing—and you won't go to sleep. Learning to relax deliberately takes some practice, but it is well worth it. Once learned, it becomes a habit.

Try and Stop Me

LOOKING FOR A GIFT at a seaside novelty shop to take to her weekend hostess, a lady picked up an intricate gadget with several moving parts. "This looks interesting," she told the clerk. "What is it?"

The clerk examined the gadget gingerly for a moment; then admitted, "I guess it isn't anything. Just a present."

A YALE FRESHMAN writes that he was sharing a cabin on a farm last summer with a Princeton lad who showed him a letter from home and said, "Tarnation, we've got a freak in the family. My ma writes here I won't know my sister when I get home. She's grown another foot."

A STALWART CHARACTER who graduated with all kinds of honors including a Ph. D. from Yale last June, is now studying to be a policeman in New York. He hopes, of course, to be Phi Beta Coppa. (Incidentally, hanging is too good for punsters, Charlie Rice insists. They should be drawn and quoted).

Sea Duty for a Lady Sailor

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 11 (UPI)—YO-HO-HO and a bottle of Chanel No. 5.

In the near future, a pretty lady lieutenant will make naval history by dishing out orders to seamen on a United States Navy ship.

And WAVE Lt. Charlene Suneson, 27 years old, who just recently received orders making her the Navy's first woman line officer, said:

"If they don't send any more women, you'll know why. I've been told I'm sort of a trial balloon."

Just to clear up any scuttlebutt, the pert Chicagoan explained her accommodations and setup on the military transport General W. A. Mann: She'll have her own cabin; she'll share mess and laundry facilities with the male officers; she'll put in an 18-month tour of duty starting sometime around the first of the year.

Capt. Millar J. Smith of the General Mann said he's not sure what duty is in store for the brown-haired pioneer.

"We'll just wait and see where she's needed," he said, adding: "The crew is pleasantly surprised and looking forward to her assignment."

The ship carries about 3500 troops on its 11-day trips between San Francisco and the Far East. It's had nurses assigned before—but no woman line officer. Lt. Suneson herself isn't sure what she'll be doing—but her guess is that it could involve troop dependents carried on the ship.

The request from Washington for a woman officer for transport duty happened to coincide with her application for sea service. The thought was that it might be a good idea to have a woman aboard a ship that sometimes carries women dependents.

How did she get the job?

"I've been working on this a long time," she said.

"Part of the reason for having women on active duty during peace time is to try them on various jobs to see what they could do during time of war.

Why did she want the job?

"At sea is where the navy's job is," she said. "But no one realized the duty was available for women until I heard it was being considered last January."

LT. CHARLENE SUNESON

She plans to brush up on nautical terms and shipboard procedures by reading manuals ordered from the Naval Institute.

"A man in my position who made a silly mistake would be one thing — but I'm taking no chances," she said. "After all, I am a trial balloon."

Until she was transferred here in 1959, she was assigned to Kodiak, Alaska, and to the office of the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, D. C.

Her reason for joining the WAVES?

"In Chicago I saw people taking the same El year after year to the same office in the same building. I decided I wanted variety."

She got it. She was graduated from the University of Chicago at the age of 20. She immediately entered officers' training school at Newport, R. I.

Her future assignment won't be the first time she'll be serving as the lone woman officer in a military situation. She held the same distinction in her Alaska assignment.

She admitted, however, she can't wait to visit the Far East.

I plan to buy my silks in Japan," she said.

TV Notes and Gossip

THE ABC-TV NETWORK is planning to tape a Shakespeare play at the theater at Stratford-on-Avon, England, next summer.

ERIC AMBLER, creator of "Checkmate," has a plane hijacking in the opening scene in his most recent screen play, "Night Must End."

THE Radio and Television Executives Society, which announced last april that it would begin presenting annual radio and television awards in October, has postponed the project. "There are already too many awards in the business," Matthew J. Culligan, the society's president said. "Too often and for too little reason. We are re-examining our position.

BOB KEESHAN, television's Captain Kangaroo, is planning a weekly half-hour news program for children, probably beginning in the fall. Keeshan says it would be designed for children 8 to 12.

"THE WILL ROGERS STORY" presented by NBC-TV several months ago will be repeated on the network Sept. 12.

"TWENTIETH CENTURY," documentary series on CBS-TV on Sunday afternoons, will be telecast a half hour earlier, at 5 p.m., beginning Sept. 3. The network plans to put re-runs of "I Love Lucy" in the 5:30 p.m. time until Oct. 1 when the "Mr. Ed" comedy series will take over that time period.

Cahokia Mounds Near St. Louis

By Ramon Coffman

IN WEST VIRGINIA there is a large, cone-shaped mound. Known as Grave Creek Mound, it has a height of 70 feet.

Mound Builders who lived on land now in West Virginia were fond of ornaments, Copper bracelets, shell beads and other decorations were found in Grave Creek Mound, along with human skeletons.

Many of the mounds in the Ohio valley were used for burial. In one area in that valley, I saw the skeletons of scores of Mound Builders.

The ornaments in the mounds include some which were made of mica. It is plain that a good deal of trading went on among the Mound Builders. In this way, shells from the Gulf Coast and mica from North Carolina are believed to have reached the Great Lakes area.

Q. What about mounds west of the Mississippi river?

A. The Mound Builders reached out to points several hundred miles west of the Mississippi. Among the states where we find good mounds are Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Texas, Iowa and Missouri.

Missouri has several mounds in southeastern parts of the state, but across the river from St. Louis, in the state of Illinois, are far larger ones than any in Missouri. I am thinking of the Cahokia Mounds.

One mound in the Cahokia group rises 99 feet, and is the highest in the United States. It has an oblong base, and a length of almost 1000 feet.

Q. Are there pearls in some of the mounds?

A. Certain mounds (but only a small proportion) contain "fresh water pearls." These were taken from clams, and were used as ornaments by Mound Builders. Prof. F. W. Putnam and his assistants reported finding several thousand pearls of this kind in a single mound in Hamilton county, Ohio.
